American farming, as represented by the prize accomplishments of the nation's hundreds of thousands of farms, goes on display this morning over the 20 acres of the International Amphitheater in the Union stockyards. This is opening day for the 41st annual Live Stock exposition, the magnet which draws spectators from crowded cities, rural towns and agricultural regions alike. More than 445,000 visitors are expected.

Here, in the great tanbark arena and the halls of the vast amphitheater, these visitors for the next eight days will see 5 million dollars worth of prize animals—pink-nosed Herefords and drowsy-looking sheep, the ponderous yet regal Percheron horses, burly Aberdeen-Angus steers.

Exhibits by 4-H Youths.

They will come to applaud and cheer for the champions of the 4-H clubs, the 1,500 farm boys and girls who have devoted the year to feeding and grooming their calves and piglets, putting up thousands of jars and cans of fruits, meats, and vegetables, tailoring everything from frilly party dresses to sports and work clothes.

They will see sleek jumping horses performing at the nightly horse shows, prideful and precise gaited harness horses and clever sheep-herding dogs.

And, less spectacular but no less important, will be the hundreds of exhibits of prize hay and grain crop specimens, the various judging contests and the seventeenth annual showing of the newest in types of cutting and preparing meat dishes.

A Show of Champions.

The show is a show of champions. Practically every entry is already a title winner. The animals have won top honors in many shows. The crop exhibits are recipients of blue ribbons, trophies and cash prizes. From county and state fairs and regional shows they have been sent to be judged against other champions in the nation's big farm tournament. Master live stock breeders and crop growers from Canada will be here too with their prize products.

Again, as in recent years, the accent seems to be on youth. Five times in the last eleven years a 4-H member, under 21 years of age, has captured the exposition's prize—the grand steer championship. The youngsters are out to make it six.

To these 4-H delegates, representing 1,380,000 members in 44 states and Hawaii, has been given the honor of opening the 1940 exposition officially. Shortly after the amphitheater doors open at 7 a. m., 480 steers will be led into the arena. Their young owners will range the animals along the outskirts of the circle and wait patiently while J. Charles Yule, of Carstairs, Alberta, world authority on beef animals, starts the serious business of judging their entries.

Judging Contests on Schedule.

The animals placing first and second will be eligible for competition in the senior division, won last year by Lucky Boy II., 1,240 pound entry of 18 year old Mayfield Kothmann of Mason, Tex. The junior champion was Fat Stuff, an Aberdeen-Angus owned by Robert Carroll of Aledo.

Judging contests also are on schedule for the opening hours of the exposition. In the intercollegiate live stock judging contest, 155 students

HEAR RUMANIA USES BIG GUNS TO END REVOLT

Report Iron Guards Kidnap Jews.

RUSE [Ruschuk], Bulgaria [on the Rumanian frontier], Nov. 29 (AP).—Artillery fire was heard late today across the Danube river from Rumania and travelers from the Rumanian frontier village of Giurgiu brought reports that Gen. Ion Antonescu's government was using heavy guns to crush an Iron Guard rebellion.

King Michael.

The travelers said that "at least a hundred" persons had been assassinated in Bucharest by Iron Guardists and said there were reports in that capital that an equal number had been slain in the provinces.

The police, said these informants, clashed with Iron Guardists at Ostrov and after bloody fighting, overpowered them and arrested great numbers. At another town the guardists were said to have closed Jewish stores and kidnaped many Jews. Jewish women, it was added, were ordered to clean the streets.

Hear King Michael Flees.

AT THE HUNGARIAN-RUMANIAN FRONTIER, Nov. 29 (AP).—Flight of young King Michael, heavy loss of life in fighting at three Transylvanian cities, a mounting death list in the pro-Nazi Iron Guard's blood purge and a massing of Rumanian and German troops in Bucharest were reported from Rumania tonight.

King Michael, who is 18 years old, was reported to have left Bucharest. Some reports were that he headed for the Jugo-Slav frontier, others that he was on the outskirts of the city waiting for the situation to clear. Michael succeeded to the throne when his father, Carol II., abdicated Sept. 6.

A censored dispatch reaching Budapest from Bucharest said: "Premier Ion Antonescu, struggling to keep control of turbulent Rumania, sought today the aid of Juliu Maniu, respected peasant leader, and army corps commanders while rampant Iron Guardists continued the purge of their enemies.

Confers with Army Chiefs.

"During the day Maniu [six words censored] had a long conference with Antonescu. The general also conferred with army corps commanders [60 words censored].

"Antonescu was said to have appealed to Iron Guard leaders to restore order.

"The bodies of seven Jews were found today along a railway track between Bucharest and Ploesti. How they met death is reported to be a 'mystery.'"

[The Budapest radio said the Jews were killed in a train wreck.]

Report Heavy Loss of Life.

Antonescu, who became premier with Iron Guard support when Carol was forced out, was reported to have taken stern countermeasures against the spreading terror of Iron Guard extremists but the situation tonight had not eased.

To the contrary, according to border reports, Guardist legionnaires, drawing on their secret stores for weapons, were said to be trying to seize power at Turnu Severin, Craiova, and Brasov, all in Transylvania, where heavy loss of life occurred in a fight for possession of public buildings.

At Brasov guardists were said to have occupied the postoffice and telephone building, but were driven out by soldiers of the local garrison.

Report Anti-Jewish Violence.

Anti-Jewish violence was reported at Galatz and Braila.

The Rumanian government set the total dead in Bucharest at 67. The government denied a report that 2,000 persons had been killed in riots.

The ceremonial reburial of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, Iron Guard leader, and 13 associates who were killed two years ago [when they tried to escape prison guards taking them to Bucharest, according to the official account at the time] will be held tomorrow in Bucharest.

Hailed as "martyrs" by Iron Guardists, their remains were taken out of the Jilava prison graveyard on Wednesday and 64 members of the old régime were killed in vengeance at Codreanu's grave.

A QUESTION SUGGESTED BY THE INTERNATIONAL LIVE STOCK SHOW

MAN HAS DONE WONDERS WITH ANIMALS—

WHY CAN HE DO SO LITTLE WITH HIS OWN KIND?

Hurl Bricks at Homes of Non-Strikers

Attorney Otto A. Jaburek charged yesterday that 29 nonstriking employés of the Chicago Molded Products corporation have been attacked or their homes have been struck with bricks or paint filled light bulbs since a strike was called at the plant Nov. 8. He asked the police to provide protection for 360 employés who still are at work in the company's plant at 1020 North Kolmar avenue.

Company officials declared they considered the strike, called by local 48 of the National Association of Die Casting Workers [C. I. O.] nearly at an end, since about 50 more workers had promised to return to their jobs tomorrow and this would leave only 100 or so still out.

Election Date Starts Dispute.

Both sides agree that the strike was called when the C. I. O. union and an independent union were unable to agree on when to call a plant election to select one or the other organization as bargaining agent. The C. I. O. charges that the independent union backed down on an agreement for an immediate election. The independent union alleges that the C. I. O. had so terrorized the employés that an immediate election would have been unfair.

Sergt. George Barnes of the police labor detail said that after receiving complaints of violence against men still working he had warned union official and pickets that any further acts would mean wholesale arrests. That was three days ago, Barnes said, and there has been no violence since. Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's police, as well as Barnes, have ordered squads to guard the homes of nonstriking employés. Acting Capt. Frank Walsh of the Austin station also is coöperating.

Charges Strikebreakers Used.

Company officials refused to disclose the names of the employés whose homes or persons have been attacked. Union officials charged that private detectives were escorting strikebreakers to their jobs.

John McGhie, secretary treasurer of the union, said the union had held several meetings since the strike was called and warned its men against violence. He also charged the company with using professional strikebreakers. He declared 350 of the company's 450 workers are still on strike, and added that the union had filed suit against the company to recover wages allegedly owed under the terms of the wages and hours act.

BRITAIN PLANS CLUBS WHERE HOMESICK WAR EVACUEES CAN GOSSIP

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP).—Ample facilities for swapping gossip were included in a program outlined by Health Minister Malcolm MacDonald today to counteract a "must-get-back-to-London" complex which afflicts many removed families in spite of the city's nightly air raid.

Malcolm MacDonald.

"They don't like trees, grass, and flowers," he commented. "They want smoking chimneys and signboards. . . . They grow bored with their surroundings in some country rectory and back they come."

His plans for countering this homesickness include: Communal feeding centers to decrease the friction between country housewives and evacuee mothers in overcrowded kitchens, sick bays, hostels for difficult children, nursery centers and mothers' clubs "where they can do their washing and sewing and enjoy good old cockney gossip."

MEXICAN MAJOR SHOT TO DEATH AT RED OFFICES

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30, Saturday (AP).—Maj. Guillermo Garcia Gallegos of the Mexico City garrison, was shot to death late last night as he tried to enter the offices of the communist party where police said a subversive meeting was being held. Police held 75 persons for questioning and seized three rifles, 15 pistols, a bomb, and ammunition. The incident, on the eve of the inauguration of President Elect Manuel Camacho, caused a sensation.

The police did not say what "subversive" activities were suspected. Most of the persons detained said they were members of the communist party but denied responsibility for the death of the army officer.

Police were reported investigating whether there was any link between this incident and the one Thursday night in front of the American embassy when Vice President Elect Henry A. Wallace was booed and the building stoned.

Police also reported they had dispersed a small crowd which stoned a statue of George Washington.

500 Disciples Pass the Hat for Kum Bum

More than 500 members of the Neological [new logic] foundation, 32 West Randolph street, rallied last night to the support of their high priest, Hugh Greer Carruthers, who has let it be known he is one of seven Caucasians to emerge from priesthood in Kum Bum lamasery at the Great Blue lake, Tibet.

At present Carruthers also is awaiting trial in Criminal court on a charge of raping a girl 12 years old. Before the meeting was held last night agents of the internal revenue department ordered Carruthers to produce the foundation's books.

Whether they were novices or graduate students working for the ninth degree—which includes the degree of The Beast—the members crowded into a hall on the 21st floor of the building in which the foundation has offices. There they dropped donations into a box prepared for that purpose.

Foundation's Funds Tied Up.

They gathered in response to a form letter saying money was necessary to "carry on the work." The letter said the "framed" charges against Carruthers had tied up foundation's funds and made it necessary to put a small "bite" on the students.

"Give to the cause," exhorted Edward F. A. Laurence, chairman of the meeting, "Give to the cause. Give whatever you can—as much—but give and it shall be given unto you. Whatever you wish to do come forward. Remember this—our founder is free, and you may be constantly conscious of your own spiritual atonement."

Laurence said the charges against Carruthers were an attempt to get even by disgruntled members.

Real Power from Within.

"Be you a fellow of the Neological society or a fellow of the Great Lodge of Initiates in the First Degree," Laurence continued, "you know that the real power comes from within. We must become conscious of this power, and to become conscious of this power we must think."

Attorneys Cameron Latter and Leonard J. Grossman, retained to defend Carruthers, told the members how matters stood legally.

"Your high priest devotes all revenues from all sources [3,900 members pay $7,800 monthly as dues] to dissemination of the faith," Grossman said.

Laurence said he didn't know the amount of the total gifts for the night.

Rescuers Dig Thru Night in Wrecked Mine

Cadiz, O., Nov. 29 (AP).—Blast made rock falls tonight slowed down rescue crews as fears mounted for the lives of 25 to 27 coal miners trapped far underground in Ohio's deepest shaft mine.

Cross locates blast site.

Officials of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal company, operators of the mine eight miles northeast of here, said a recheck showed between 25 and 27 men in the blast area. They estimated that rescuers would not reach the miners before tomorrow morning.

Caught without warning by a devastating explosion 466 feet underground and two miles from an exit shaft, workers in section "12 north" were cut off from escape by deadly gas and tons of rock, coal, and earth.

One False Report.

Reports of miners that one body had been located later proved unfounded after company officials rechecked with rescue workers.

Adolph Pacifico, United Mine Workers' district vice president, said that the trapped men had only one chance—that was by reaching a finished mine room.

Company spokesmen reported there were about 130 men working when the accident occurred in this modern, mechanized mine which has been operating at capacity and employing 500 daily. It is Ohio's fourth largest.

Of the missing men one company official, E. H. Snider, said: "We don't know whether they are alive or dead." He was unable to advance a cause for the explosion, but observed that the rich coal mining country in the vicinity of Cadiz "is dotted with oil and gas."

Disaster Last March.

The mishap was the second Ohio mine disaster in nine months. The worst blast in the state's history occurred March 16 at nearby Willow Grove, killing 72 men.

As night fell, scores of small fires lighted the hilly area, warming anxious relatives and friends who braved freezing weather for some word of the entombed men's fate.

Ambulances from Cadiz and surrounding towns stood at one of the mine's two entrances.

LONDON SUFFERS ITS HEAVIEST NAZI BOMB ATTACK IN 10 NIGHTS

LONDON, Nov. 30, Saturday (AP).—German warplanes again picked London for their main target last night and early today. Explosive and fire bombs rained down from early last night until just before the all clear signal at 2 a. m. It was London's heaviest attack in 10 nights.

Curious blue white beams stabbed the sky, paralleling the ground and with no visible connection with it, suggesting the employment of what the Daily Mail described yesterday as a new "mystery weapon" for defense.

Workers digging for victims in Liverpool homes demolished in Thursday night's raid were interrupted by further attacks. Raiders also were reported over a Welsh town, two towns in the southwest, and one on the coast.

British bombers are reported to have bombed Bremen, Cologne, and Nazi air bases and "invasion" posts during the night.

Nazis Bomb Thames Bend.

BERLIN, Nov. 29 (AP).—German planes bombed the Thames bend today, informed German sources reported. Acknowledging British raids last night on Germany, the high command said "considerable damage" was done to several houses and "one bomb hit an army hospital."

M'LANE BALKS TRIAL OF NITTI IN UNION GRAB

Victim of Terrorism, Says Attorney.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Developments in the state's attempt to prosecute Frank Nitti and six alleged members of his gang for conspiracy to seize control of the bartenders' union were high lighted yesterday by the following sensational events:

1. George B. McLane, veteran business agent of the union, who for months has been charging the Nitti gang with terrorism and has testified before the grand jury, suddenly became mute and refused to testify before a jury in Judge John F. Bolton's Criminal court. McLane said he was afraid of incriminating himself.

2. McLane switched attorneys, announcing to the surprise of the state that former Municipal Judge Alfar Eberhardt would represent him in this trial.

3. McLane's former counsel, Attorney A. C. Lewis, asserted last night that he could only explain McLane's refusal to testify by the belief that "McLane was terrorized by Nitti."

4. Assistant State's Attorneys Wilbert F. Crowley and William B. Crawford admitted their stupefaction at McLane's conduct and assured Judge Bolton they would proceed against McLane on contempt charges.

Humphreys Smiles at Balk.

McLane's action, at the opening of the trial, brought a smile of understanding from Murray Humphreys, one of the seven defendants, who, like Nitti, was one of the chiefs of the old Capone gang.

He beamed upon the man the state had expected to crush the gangsters, put on his coat, and departed from the courtroom before most of the crowd comprehended the significance of McLane's move.

McLane, as business agent of local 278 of the Bartenders' and Beverage Dispensers union, has ruled the organization for many years.

Union Grab Described.

He had just heard Assistant State's Attorney Crawford tell the story of the gangsters' seizure of the union before being called to the witness stand. It was the story which Crawford said McLane had told the grand jury and the state's attorney's office—an account of the way Nitti and his henchmen had moved in with threats of death and installed Louis Romano as president of the union's 4,200 members.

Crawford, in his opening statement, told the jurors that McLane had testified that the gangsters wanted the union's treasury and its golden flow of income from the members' dues.

McLane gave no hint, when he was called to the witness stand, that he meant to turn against the state.

In response to a question by Crawford, he stated his name and gave his age as 50 years and his residence as 2911 Lunt avenue.

Refuses to Answer Questions.

It was the next question which brought the bombshell.

"What is your wife's given name?"

"I must refuse to answer," said McLane in a voice so low it was scarcely audible, "on the ground it might tend to incriminate me."

Q.—You know the defendant, Murray Humphreys? A.—I must refuse to answer on the ground that it might tend to incriminate me.

Q.—You know the defendant, Frank Nitti? A.—I must refuse to answer on the ground that it might tend to incriminate me.

Crawford asked the same question regarding each of the other defendants. McLane chanted the same answer to each question.

Q.—Why do you refuse to answer? A.—On the advice of my attorney.

Q.—Who is your attorney? A.—Former Municipal Judge Alfar Eberhardt.

Counsel Steps Forward.

Eberhardt then stepped forward. "I will explain my client's position—" he began. Crowley raised an objection, however, and Eberhardt said no more.

McLane recently made peace with the gangsters and accepted a harmony slate for the forthcoming election, with the blessing of Nitti. McLane, moreover, asked Judge Robert Jerome Dunne, who appointed Roy D. Keehn receiver, to dismiss the receivership.

Yet McLane had given no previous intimation that he would turn against the state in the prosecution that he himself had begged.

Jury Sent from Room.

Crowley told Judge Bolton he was taken by surprise and asked a recess. The jury was sent from the room.

Crowley then told the judge that the wrongs charged had been done against McLane by the defendants and that testifying regarding them could not incriminate the complaining witness.

The prosecutor read part of the testimony McLane gave before the grand jury and asked McLane if he had not given it.

McLane refused to answer.

"I assure you," said Crowley, pointing at McLane, "that we will proceed against this man on contempt charges."

Judge Delays Ruling.

Judge Bolton said he would not rule on the contempt matter until he had read McLane's previous accusations and testimony. Crowley then submitted McLane's testimony before Isidore Brown, Circuit court master in chancery, and McLane's statements to the state's attorney's office.

George B. McLane.

The prosecutor said he would submit today a transcript of McLane's grand jury evidence that resulted in the indictments. The judge adjourned the hearing until Monday.

Under indictment with Nitti and Humphreys are Louis [Little New York] Campagna, Paul Ricca, Romano, Frederick Evans, and Thomas Panton. Police list the first three as gangsters. All seven are charged with conspiracy to pirate the union.

Terrorized, Says Lewis.

In his statement last night, Attorney Lewis said:

"I am sure the hand of Nitti reached into the courtroom and palsied McLane with terror. There is no other explanation of his action. It may be that he still can be induced to tell the truth to the Criminal court jury—I don't know.

"I want it understood that I am not a party to McLane's present conduct. When I told Judge Dunne last week that I believed Nitti had burned his fingers in grabbing the bartenders' union and had let go and would never again molest the union members, I made that statement in good faith. Now I am not so sure about it.

"I started in this lawsuit as a crusader. I expected to get results that would benefit trade unionism and the public generally. I believe we were making headway. If McLane had gone thru with the prosecution of Nitti his action would have had a great influence in cleaning up rotten union affairs in this city."

Romano Called Nitti Agent.

The first result of the legal action started by McLane thru Lewis was the forced resignation of Romano as president of the union. McLane had sworn that Romano was an agent of Nitti forced upon the union's pay roll by gang threats and violence.

Then a few weeks ago McLane announced he had entered into a coalition arrangement with James Crowley, secretary-treasurer of the union, whom he also had accused of being a gangster under the control of Willie Heeney, one of Nitti's lieutenants. Under the new arrangement Crowley was to run for president of the union on a slate with McLane.

Then Judge Dunne was asked to withdraw the receiver, who had been instructed to prepare for an election of union officers Jan. 6 under court supervision. Lewis, representing McLane, and Attorney Harold Levy, representing Romano, joined in the move to get rid of Receiver Keehn.

Stand Made Plain, Says Attorney.

"I made it plain to McLane at the time," Lewis said last night, "that even tho he was making peace with Crowley and the Romano faction he would have to go thru with his evidence against the Nitti gang in the criminal trial."

He said the first intimation he had that McLane might attempt to abandon the prosecution came with the reported disappearance of William Salvatore, McLane's brother-in-law, a week ago. Salvatore was to be a corroborating witness and was to have been in Judge Dunne's court Monday on the receivership matter.

Salvatore returned voluntarily Tuesday and said he was ready to be a witness. But, it was said yesterday, without McLane's testimony there would be nothing for Salvatore to corroborate.

TWO GUNMEN LOOT APARTMENT.

Two young gunmen looted the apartment of Henry Van Swol, 9729 Prairie avenue, a plastering contractor, yesterday and escaped with $450, jewelry valued at $250, and a shotgun after forcing Van Swol and his sister, Mrs. Gertrude Patrick, into a closet.

BAR GROUP HEARS PROPOSAL FOR AN ILLINOIS FBI

Held Most Efficient Way to Clean Up Cases.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

An Illinois bureau of investigation, modeled after the federal bureau, was proposed yesterday before the criminal law section of the Illinois State Bar association in session in the Stevens hotel.

Unsolved murders and robberies in many counties of the state gave rise to this plan, which was suggested by Attorney Karl C. Williams of Rockford, a former assistant states attorney, in a paper read by Grenville Beardsley of Chicago, chairman of the section.

How Plan Would Work.

The proposal would amend the attorney general and states attorney acts to create a new state department of investigation under the attorney general. This would have both civil and criminal divisions and would incorporate the present state identification and investigation bureau and the highway police, taking these jobs out of politics and making career jobs of them.

The attorney general would have at his disposal an efficient investigating force that could be sent into any county on application or need. The sheriffs and police of each county would make immediate reports on crimes to this office, and would report all actions taken in each case. This would dispose of many cases never tried, cases dropped without good reason, and unsolved cases.

It would interfere also, according to Williams, with many political prosecutions and cases taken directly to the grand jury without hearing. Under the federal plan the local attorneys must report on why cases are taken directly before the grand jury, without hearing by commissioners. Pending cases also must be listed and all actions reported.

There are some good investigators in Illinois counties, it was said, and some bad. Williams contended a state bureau would insure good investigation in each case and prevent the appointment of political incompetents to investigating offices.

Taxes Main Problem.

Taxes will be the main problem before the next session of the Illinois legislature, Deneen Watson, chairman of the tax section of the association, reported.

"No people can long support a government of waste and ever-increasing expenditures," he said. "Since a large percentage of national expenses must be for defense, state and local governments must offset these increases by cutting expenditures."

Watson offered the following program of economy: Eliminate nonessentials of government and useless employés; centralized purchasing; competitive bidding in state and local contracts; and efficient organization in general administration, assessment and collection of taxes.

He would make public officials strictly accountable to taxpayers thru budgeting, auditing, reporting, and uniform accounting.

More than a thousand lawyers attended the sessions, which ended in the evening with a banquet and reception in honor of the justices of the Supreme court. Speakers at the banquet were Jacob M. Lashley, president of the American Bar association; Justice Paul Farthing of the Illinois Supreme court and William H. King Jr., president of the Chicago Bar association. Albert J. Harno, president of the Illinois association, presided.

THREE PRISONERS COW JAILER WITH KNIVES, ESCAPE

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 29 (AP).—Armed with butcher knives and a meat cleaver, three prisoners, one of them facing life sentence for robbery, tonight overpowered a jailer and escaped from the Buchanan county jail, taking a fourth prisoner with them. The latter, James Edward Quinn, 33 years old, under 99 year sentence for robbery, was surrendered a short time later by a Pentecost minister.

The escaped prisoners were Charles C. Coates, 32, under life sentence for robbery; Eugene Robinett, 26, under two year sentence for car theft, and Earl Cunningham, parole violator.

These three ripped away a portion of a wall, slid down steam pipes into the basement, where they procured the knives. They caught Deputy Sheriff A. C. Hillix off guard, robbed him of $126.50, and locked him in a washroom. A few hours later Cunningham was reported captured near Falls City, Neb.

GRAND JURY GETS FAKED ROBBERY CASE ON MONDAY

Indictments against four men and two women held in connection with the $10,000 faked robbery of the South Chicago Savings bank on Oct. 18 will be sought Monday before the grand jury. This was announced yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie after Judge George Quilici of the Felony court continued a preliminary arraignment of the group until Dec. 11. He set total bonds of $27,500.

The principals in the robbery, according to police, were Harold Broberg, 26 years old, 8445 Oglesby avenue, a teller in the bank; George Phillips, 27, of 6543 Kenwood avenue, identified as the actual robber, and Harold Cherne, 33, of 1410 East 71st place.

The others, charged with receiving stolen property, are Phillips' wife, Helen; her sister, Mrs. Pearl White, 26, of 6653 Maryland avenue, and Donald Ferguson, 30, of 1416 East 67th street, a tavern keeper.

6 Freed on Bond in Failure to Register Under Draft Act

Six men who had been held in the county jail for failure to register for the draft on Oct. 16 were released yesterday on their own bonds after they had registered. All said they merely had neglected to register, and the federal government agreed to their freedom pending grand jury action.

IOWA DAD TAKES NIGHT LIFE GIRL BACK TO FARM

She Gets Probation for Theft of Jewelry.

For a few minutes yesterday in the Felony court Mrs. Esther Fay Miller, 34 years old, a comely brunette widow, flashed her red lacquered fingernails, smiled, and talked glibly about spending stolen money in a tour of night clubs.

The next moment she was just a sobbing homesick girl, eager to return with her father to his farm near Waterloo, Ia. And that's where she went, on probation to work hard for a year on the farm.

Mrs. Miller was a domestic servant for Irving Cohn at 2724 Pine Grove avenue until Nov. 3. On that date she left, taking a watch and a ring belonging to Mrs. Cohn, and valued at $1,500.

Trailed to a Pawnshop.

Town Hall detectives trailed her to a north side hotel, and then to a pawnshop, arresting her last Wednesday and recovering the jewelry, which had brought $450. None of the money was left.

"It was a lot of fun while it lasted," laughed Mrs. Miller, her heavily rouged cheeks dimpling. "My boy friends helped me take in the night clubs."

Mrs. Miller was flashing her smile until a gaunt, elderly man, his bald pate gleaming, stepped up and touched her shoulder. She turned, sobbed "Dad," and burst out crying.

"I'm her pa," said the stranger, S. J. Harmon of Waterloo. "And if it's all right I'd like to talk to her alone for a minute."

The Wages of Sin.

Father and daughter were given an anteroom from which Farmer Harmon could be heard telling Mrs. Miller what the wages of sin meant. On their return to the courtroom Farmer Harmon said:

"I'll pay off the $450, judge, but it'll take some time. You know $450 is a lot of cows and hogs. But to show that I mean it, here's $150 now."

Judge George Quilici accepted the offer, reduced the charge to petty larceny, and said he would place Mrs. Miller on probation for six months.

"Better make it a year, judge," said Harmon, "and send her back to the farm."

"O. K.," responded the judge. "But tell me, can she milk cows?"

"Them red fingernails would scare the cows clean out of the barn," laughed Farmer Harmon as he left the court with his daughter.

Burglary Charges Against Policemen Set for Dec. 19

Judge George Quilici of the Felony court yesterday continued until Dec. 19 three charges of burglary against John J. Kennedy and Anthony J. Crane, suspended city policeman, and James Roussell, 1846 Orleans street, a private watchman. Kennedy and Crane are at liberty on bail of $7,500 each.

LABOR DISPUTE LAYS OFF 20,000 WORKERS IN TWO AUTO PLANTS

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29 [Special].—Because a United Automobile Workers-C. I. O. shop steward at the Briggs Manufacturing company ordered a slowdown of work from 24 panels an hour to 17, then to 16, in one department of the metal division, 20,000 workers were sent home in two plants today.

A Briggs spokesman said that 18 men in the panel division struck when the steward was sent home for ordering the slowdown. Subsequently, 5,000 Briggs employés were laid off because production affected schedules thruout the plant.

The lay off order occurred just before shifts changed and 5,000 more men on the night shift also were sent home. An equal number of employés [10,000] in the Plymouth division of Chrysler corporation similarly were affected, since Chrysler schedules are geared to Briggs production.

The Briggs company explained production had been reduced in the panel assembly from 48 units an hour with 24 men to 24 units with 18 men. The union steward protested, and when not upheld, ordered the men to slow production, the company charged.

D. C. STEPHENSON GETS PAROLE TO ENTER HOSPITAL

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 29 [Special].—D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, serving a life term for murder in the state prison, today received a temporary parole from Gov. M. Clifford Townsend to undergo a gall bladder operation in a hospital at La Porte.

Stephenson was sentenced to prison 15 years ago for murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer of Indianapolis. Since then he has made numerous attempts to obtain freedom thru various court actions, none of which has been successful. The temporary parole is effective tomorrow.

ARMY'S MORALE SPLENDID BUT IT LACKS WEAPONS

Has Few Tanks, Guns or War Planes.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—The morale of the United States army is excellent. This is the considered judgment of this correspondent, who recently completed an eight day inspection of army establishments at the invitation of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, to view the progress of the defense program.

Officers, noncommissioned officers, and enlisted men are pitching into the task of preparing to create an army of 1,200,000 men with remarkable enthusiasm which lack of material has failed to dampen.

Officers who have been putting weight about their middles in desk jobs have taken to troop assignments with fervor and are working 12 to 14 hours a day without complaint. There is a coöperation between the officer and enlisted personnel which is heartening. Discipline does not appear to have suffered by this close coöperation.

The morale is the best this correspondent has seen in any army. And that statement includes the German army after the conquest of Poland, the British and French armies before and during the war, and the Italian army shortly before it went to war.

Remainder of Picture Gloomy.

The rest of the picture is not so encouraging.

In the eight day tour of infantry, cavalry, artillery, air, and armored corps establishments, the army did not exhibit one modern piece of artillery. Altho three large and several smaller air fields were visited, not one fighting craft was seen.

Only a few pieces of modern equipment of any description were in the hands of upwards of 80,000 officers and men—about one-sixth of the army.

The only modern weapon seen in number was the Garand semiautomatic rifle. And inquiry revealed that the enlisted man is not convinced that it is the best of weapons.

No Modern 105 Mm. Guns.

At Fort Sill, Okla., headquarters of the army's artillery school, there is not a single 105 mm. gun, the new divisional artillery weapon. Thousands of officers are being trained to shoot on the wartime 75 mm. gun with the modernized carriage. Much now being learned will have to be readjusted to the more powerful weapon.

Nor is there a single one of the new higher caliber modern weapons at this school or any of the establishments visited. The seventeen newspapermen who made the tour did not see a single new 155 mm. gun or howitzer, 4.7 inch howitzer, or heavier pieces.

Also absent were the wartime 75 mm. guns. One regiment of wartime 155 mm. guns was seen. The army had 4,000 British and French 75s on hand at the outbreak of the present European war. Many of these were sent to France and Britain when Germany invaded the Low Countries, but the war department never made exact figures public.

Denuded of Field Pieces.

The fact that not one of the world war models was seen would indicate that American forces have been denuded of this weapon, which up to last summer was the standard field piece of the army.

When the 105 mm. gun was adopted as the standard field piece, it was announced that the 75 mm. gun would be converted into an antitank weapon, as the low caliber antitank guns had failed to stop tanks in Europe. Only one battery—four guns—of the low slung 75 mm. antitank guns was seen during the tour.

In the armored corps officers laugh at the thought that the 37 mm. gun, developed as an antitank gun, can stop the ironclads. In other units officers insisted that the weapon is effective, but they appeared to be attempting to convince themselves as well as the visiting newspapermen.

Questions as to the whereabouts of the new artillery the army has reported it has on hand and is requiring met with confusing answers. At Fort Sill it was said the new weapons were with army divisions. At establishments housing divisions it was said that the newest weapons were being shipped to Fort Sill.

Lack Modern Tanks.

The same situation is true of the motorized and mechanized units. Only six medium tanks, the army's heaviest tank, were seen in an inspection of the two armored divisions, the 1st at Fort Knox, Ky., and the 2d at Fort Benning, Ga., and these were not of the latest types.

Production of the medium tanks has run into mechanical difficulties and the rearmament program has bogged down completely in this weapon. Altho it has been reported that production of light tanks is more than 100 a month, only a few of the newest models are with the divisions.

Motorized units are working with old scout, command, reconnaissance, and other cars. These are not on hand in sufficient number to supply the present army to say nothing of the expanded force of 1,200,000 to be under arms, or to be more exact perhaps, in ranks, by June 30, 1941.

Even more serious than the lack of material was the unmistakable impression this correspondent carried away that the army as yet hasn't really got a grasp on the tactics and problems of the mechanized and motorized units.

The composition of the various units in the organizations changes frequently. New organization tables are made out before the old are tried out. The units are being formed in the field and the data is sent on to the war plans division of the general staff to adjust to what strategy it has in mind.

In the rush to create a mechanized offense no thought, as far as could be learned, has been given to mechanized defense. The only answer which could be secured to questions as to mechanized defense was that the best defense is a good offense.

Apparently little thought has been given to creation of machinery of a road building type which would dig ditches, which tanks could not cross, or to demolition of bridges to keep tanks behind their greatest natural barrier. This was not done in Belgium and this failure contributed largely to the fall of that nation and France.

Training for Offense.

In the entire tour this correspondent was impressed by the fact that the American army is being trained for the offense and not at all for the defense. In the many staged demonstrations units were shown on the offense and never on the defense.

And the terrain on which these operations were conducted was very like that the American Expeditionary Force saw at Cantigny, in the Meuse-Argonne sector, at Château Thierry and Belleau woods. A second expeditionary force, if there is one, would be called upon to operate on similar terrain.

There were no demonstrations of units moving to operate against an enemy seeking to establish a foothold on American soil.

The army expansion program was undertaken solely for the purpose of defense and yet is only being trained for the offense. Inquiry on this subject met with the reply that if America builds up a powerful offensive army, no one will dare to make an attack on this country.

Definite Plans Lacking.

For this reason the army appears to be embarking on its expansion program without a definite plan, unless the plan be to train a second expeditionary force.

In infantry, cavalry, and other units, as well as the motorized and mechanized branches, organization is also constantly changing. Constant adjustments are being made to increase fire power and mobility. Officers and men are willingly training on one set-up this week even though they know that it is to be changed next week.

Constantly changing unit organization tends to throw the entire rearmament program into turmoil, but as long as equipment is not pouring in, officers say, it makes little difference. Of the units visited the horse cavalry appeared to have the most exact idea of what it wants.

Amazed by Lack of Planes.

This correspondent and his 16 colleagues on the inspection tour were astounded by the fact that in the eight days they did not see a single fighting plane altho they visited some of the largest air fields in the country. Hundreds of training ships were seen, but even these are far short of requirements.

It is true that the tour was cut short by bad flying weather before the army could exhibit its air arms at Langley Field, Va. However, it was acknowledged that fighting ships were being flown in from various parts of the country in order to have sufficient planes on hand to make an impressive showing.

Thruout the tour this correspondent was unable to get a satisfactory answer to the question, "Where are the fighting planes?"

Free Lunch Counter

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Miss Wanda Rex has no aversion to panhandlers—not if they are the winged or quadruped varieties. For three years, in fact, she has maintained at the pear tree in her yard at 4919 Bernard street a free lunch counter where a robin stranded in the big, cold city or an out-of-luck rabbit could be assured of a wholesome meal of breadcrumbs and lettuce leaves, and no questions asked.

The food station is a platform built about the tree. One of the early visitors yesterday was a squirrel that had forgotten where he had hidden his winter nut supply. In the winter Miss Rex even takes a kindly interest in the sparrows and starlings. Her summer guest list includes cardinals, doves, bluejays and other birds.

Estate Suit Witness

Miss Relda Waters as she appeared on witness stand.

Two more witnesses for Mrs. Magdalen Friend Lanskop testified yesterday that she was once insane as her suit to win a widow's share of Dr. Emmanuel Friend's $2,000,000 estate proceeded before Judge John J. Lupe in Superior court. Mrs. Lanskop, who remarried in 1935, is asking that the divorce Dr. Friend obtained from her in 1933 be set aside, her second marriage nullified and that she be declared his legal widow.

Miss Relda Waters, 35 years old, a cousin of Mrs. Lanskop, said that Mrs. Lanskop was nervous and depressed in her apartment at the Georgian hotel in Evanston in December, 1933. The second witness, Mrs. Clara O'Brien, 1451 Granville avenue, also said Mrs. Lanskop was nervous at the hotel. Mrs. O'Brien is the widow of Dr. Stephen O'Brien who treated Mrs. Lanskop at one time.

308 Enlist in November at Navy Recruiting Office

The navy recruiting office in Chicago reported yesterday that 308 men, out of 397 applicants, had been enlisted this month. The total is 189 less than last month, despite the navy's decision two weeks ago to drop the age limit from 18 to 17 years. Forty-three of those enlisted this month were 17 years old.

AIRLINE PLANE OUTPUT CUT TO THOSE ON ORDER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29 [Special].—The priorities board of the national defense commission has decided to restrict the planned expansion of the commercial airlines to the new aircraft on order and which are in an advanced stage of construction, it was learned tonight. After that the lines will get only urgently needed spares and replacements, it was said.

The priorities board's decision is viewed as evidence that the army, which has claimed that construction of large commercial liners to the extent contemplated by the airlines was making inroads on the supply of engines available for military aircraft, especially bombers, has had its way.

It has been decided to give priority as regards materials, airplane bodies, and airplane engines to the United States army and navy, and to the British, it was said.

The airlines have some 320 multimotored airplanes and 435 others on order. Of the 435, about a third or a half is expected to be taken over by the army. Among them will be 80 Lockheeds, it is understood.

ARMY OFFICERS EXPECT AMERICA WILL ENTER WAR

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—The majority of the officers of the United States army feel that this country will enter the war sometime next year and that American soldiers will go into action on foreign battlefields. This was indicated by a casual poll taken by this correspondent during an eight day newspaper men's inspection tour of national defense establishments at the invitation of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

During the eight days the sentiments of 183 officers from generals to the youngest lieutenants were sounded out. The officers were not told that they were being polled, but were asked casually during conversations how they felt about the possible entrance of this country into the conflict. Here is how they responded:

America will enter the war.....149
America will not enter the war.... 23
No expression 11

The vast majority of officers said that they are convinced that America is already economically in the struggle and will enter the war as a combatant because this country cannot see England go down to defeat.

Navy Elevates Chicago Reservist to Commander

A Chicagoan, Ralph H. G. Mathews, 4534 Dover street, is one of 13 officers and civilians of the navy's volunteer special reserve who has been recommended for the rank of commander, the navy department announced yesterday in Washington, D. C. Mathews, a radio engineer, is now a lieutenant commander. He is subject to call to active duty.

Leaders Oppose Further Retroactive Levies.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29 (AP).—Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.] announced tonight after a White House conference that President Roosevelt and congressional tax leaders had agreed there would be no further retroactive taxes on 1940 incomes. This, he said, applies both to corporations and individuals.

Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, said that consideration of new tax legislation affecting 1941 income would begin in January.

Representative Jere Cooper [D., Tenn.], member of the house ways and means committee, another of the conferees, added that it was "a good guess" that nothing definite would be done on taxes until after a recapitulation of receipts on March 15, the date when individual income tax returns are filed and first instalments come due.

Study Overlapping Levies.

Harrison asserted that one of the questions to be studied early next year is the overlapping of levies imposed by the federal government and those imposed by the states.

There was a "general discussion" at the conference with the President, he said, of increasing the present 49 billion dollar debt limit, but no conclusions were reached on that or anything else except the question of 1940 retroactive taxes.

Both the first and second revenue acts of 1940 were retroactive to the extent that they reached back to Jan. 1, 1940. The first of these measures levied a 10 per cent defense supertax on incomes. The second increased the tax on income of corporations earning $25,000 or more from 20.9 to 24 per cent.

Parley Lasts 3 Hours.

The conference lasted three and a half hours and was preceded by an informal supper. Harrison said there was no discussion of any sales tax levies. There was discussion of probable expenditures and probable revenues, he added, but no decision was reached as to the amount of money that probable 1940 tax legislation would have to raise.

In some quarters there had been talk of an effort to raise revenue of ten billion dollars in the next fiscal year. That would be the largest ever collected in peacetime.

Unofficial estimates are that the current year's spending will run about 13 to 13½ billion dollars. Revenues are expected to be 7 billions.

Expect Natural Increase.

In the next fiscal year, beginning next July 1, officials expect a substantial increase in revenues, even without new legislation because of better business and the fact that some of the taxes levied recently will not be fully effective until then.

Mr. Roosevelt had called Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., congressional fiscal leaders, and others to the conference to consider new taxes in view of the defense program.

Mr. Roosevelt, himself, ruled out before the meeting began what many experts consider the most lucrative form of possible new taxation—a general sales tax.

Rule Out Tax on Consumer.

Heretofore the President and Morgenthau have criticized all forms of taxation which levy directly on consumers, altho several excise levies—on gasoline, automobiles, theater tickets, and many other items—have been enacted.

At the White House conference besides Secretary Morgenthau, Senator Harrison and Representative Cooper were Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], member of the senate finance committee, Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, and Harold D. Smith, director of the budget.

APPROVE LEAHY NOMINATION, BUT BLOCK MADDEN'S

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt's nomination of Admiral William D. Leahy to be ambassador to France won speedy senate approval today, but Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] blocked similar action on a judicial appointment for J. Warren Madden, former chairman of the labor board.

Madden's nomination came up under procedure requiring unanimous consent for it to be considered, and Vandenberg refused to agree. He declined to announce what he would do Monday when the appointment will again come up.

A plea for confirmation of Madden as a judge of the United States Court of Claims was made by Chairman Henry F. Ashurst [D., Ariz.] of the senate judiciary committee. He disclosed that 84 senators had asked President Roosevelt to name him to the court vacancy since he was defeated in the Democratic primary.

"The President did not see fit to nominate me but has sent in the nomination of Mr. Madden and I am perfectly reconciled. I hope the nomination will be confirmed."

Novel Divorce Case

Mrs. Ida Koontz, mother of Mrs. Appelt, who was praised by her son-in-law.

Walter Appelt told Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday that he was willing to support his mother-in-law, for whom he has "sincere affection." This so startled the judge that he halted proceedings for a look at the mother-in-law, Mrs. Ida Koontz of Effingham, Effingham county.

Walter Appelt.

Her daughter, Waneta, 28 years old, 549 Aldine avenue, seeks a divorce from Walter, who is 31 and an insurance collector, on grounds of cruelty. The couple have one daughter, Marcella, 5, whom Appelt has agreed he will let live with Mrs. Koontz.

"You must have some rare and unusual quality," Judge Desort told Mrs. Koontz. "I think you deserve at least a gold statue or a diamond medal. In all my experience in the divorce court, that's the first tribute to a mother-in-law I've ever heard."

He then suggested that Walter and Waneta seek a reconciliation.

SIX WEEKS TO GO, STELLE IS HAVING MANSION PAINTED

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29 [Special].—With only a month and 13 days' residence ahead of him, Gov. John Stelle is having the mansion repainted. O. W. Cooke, Springfield painting contractor, has been working on the job for the last five days.

At Stelle's office this afternoon it was said the painting would cost $1,900 and that it is to be paid from a $10,000 appropriation passed by the 1939 assembly for maintenance for the mansion for two years. The job is being handled thru the state purchasing agent, George E. Day, a Stelle appointee. Day is a Springfield paint merchant.

REPORT CRUISER WILL TAKE F. D. R. INTO CARIBBEAN

President Hints Plan to Fly Back to Capital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he will leave the White House next week on a defense inspection tour. Simultaneously it was learned that the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa sailed today from Norfolk, Va., fully fueled and equipped for Presidential use. The cruiser's destination was not announced.

It was reported tonight that Mr. Roosevelt will leave here Monday for a port in Florida—Key West, Pensacola or Tampa—and board the Tuscaloosa, the ship on which he made a cruise to Panama last February.

The cruise, it is said, will continue two weeks, taking the President to naval maneuvers in the vicinity of the Panama Canal and possibly to Trindad, where the site of the naval base America is to get on that island has not yet been fixed.

Due Back Abuot Dec. 15.

It is reported that Mr. Roosevelt will not return to Washington until about Dec. 15. The reported plans therefore, would keep Mr .Roosevelt away from the capital, which, during the campaign, he said he could not leave more distant than 12 hours, for about 15 days—his longest absence since the invasion of Norway, the invasion of the Low Countries and the fall of France.

At his press conference this morning the President disclosed that he might extend his trip this time and still keep within the return time limit of 12 hours by using an airplane.

Mr. Roosevelt has not traveled by plane since June, 1932, when he flew to Chicago from Albany to accept the Democratic nomination for the Presidency.

He acknowledged that use of a plane would open the whole continent to him for future trips. He refused to disclose the destination of the projected trip.

First Since His Reelection.

The projected defense trip was announced after the White House had received a number of letters asking what has become of the defense inspection trips since the election. During the campaign Mr. Roosevelt took as many as two a week, but has not taken one since his reelection.

It has been generally assumed that the secret service would forbid the President to fly. Mr. Roosevelt said that he has never been told directly by the secret service that he could not fly and, therefore, felt that he could fly in an emergency.

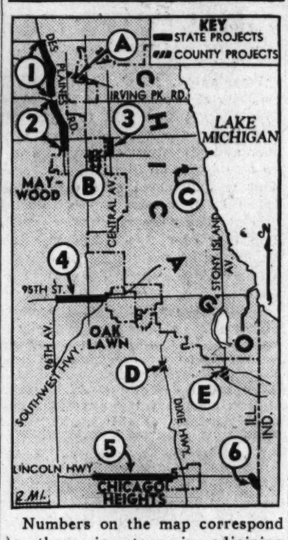
ARMY HEAD SAYS RENT PROFITEERS MULCT OFFICERS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29 (AP).—Gen. George C. Marshall called on the public tonight to aid the army in curbing "profiteering" in rents on housing for officers' families.

In a radio progress report on the defense program the chief of staff said the army had found that in some localities rents at first doubled and then in certain areas tripled, "apparently on the basis of 'charge as much as the traffic will bear.'"

"This situation is unfortunate and very unfair," he said, "and I can only hope that state and municipal authorities will bring sufficient pressure to bear to suppress this form of profiteering." He did not identify the localities beyond saying the rent increases occurred near army concentration centers which are being established in many sections, particularly in the south and southeast.

Highway Projects



Numbers on the map correspond to those in story in adjoining column. The letters correspond to those in the story below.

The county board yesterday voted its first financial contribution to the proposed Congress street widening plan. The commissioners voted $4,000,000 for 1941 road building, including $1,600,000 earmarked for the $32,000,000 superhighway.

An appropriation of $2,200,000 was voted by the city council on Oct. 31. The county and the city will pay their share out of proceeds from the state motor fuel tax fund.

"Now that the county and city have made their appropriations for next year, it is hoped the state will come thru with a sum of not less than $4,000,000," Charles E. De Leuw, consulting engineer for the city, said.

The $4,000,000 county program includes the following [see map above]:

A—Express highway along Higgins road from Harlem to Cumberland avenues [$900,000].

B—Grade separations at Oak Park avenue and the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin and Great Western railroad tracks [$240,000], and at Ridgeland avenue and the same railroads [$200,000], both in Oak Park near Harrison street.

C—Improvement of Congress street from Canal to Des Plaines streets [$1,600,000].

D—Grade separation at the Dixie highway and the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad near 140th street [$360,000].

E—Express highway along Stony Island avenue from Dalton avenue to the Michigan City road [$700,000].

De Leuw said condemnation proceedings are expected to start at once.

OPEN ROAD BIDS ON JOBS SET FOR GREEN'S REGIME

Four Cook County Asphalt Projects Included.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29.—The Illinois highway department today opened bids for contracts for $1,300,123 worth of road work that will be done during the administration of Governor Elect Dwight Green. These and other highway contracts are expected to be awarded by Gov. John Stelle before he retires on Jan. 13.

The jobs include four asphalt projects in Cook county to cost $436,661. This is the paving field that was dominated by the late Mike Carrozzo, gangster labor leader, the muscle man for an undercover alliance profitable to the Democratic political machines. Stelle has retained Chief Engineer Ernst Lieberman, who headed the state highway department in years recommended by a legislative committee for investigation by prosecutors.

Lieberman must approve the bids before the contracts are awarded.

Cook County Projects.

The Cook county jobs and the apparent low bidders, with the numbers indicating the areas in a map in an adjoining column, are as follows:

1. Des Plaines River road—4.79 miles of asphalt resurfacing south from Oakton street; Barber Construction company, $155.210.

2. Des Plaines River road—Four miles of asphalt resurfacing between Augusta street in Maywood and Irving Park road; Standard Paving company, $131,092.

3. Central avenue [Chicago]—1.49 miles of asphalt resurfacing from North avenue to Lake street; Midwest Construction and Asphalt company, $53,321.

4. 95th street—Dual 10 foot concrete pavement widening for 3.38 miles on locations between 96th avenue and the Southwest highway; Picus Engineering and Construction company, $161,975.

5. Lincoln highway—4.97 miles of asphalt resurfacing between Will county line and Chicago Heights; Payne & Dolan, Inc., $97,038.

6. Lincoln highway—9,960 feet of curb and gutter between Illinois 54 and the Indiana line; Paolo Sales company, $15,520.

Twelve Downstate Projects.

The list also included 12 downstate projects in eight counties with low bids aggregating $685,967. The jobs include the following: .75 of a mile of widening in U. S. 66 immediately south of Springfield; six bridges between Ottawa and U. S. 52 on a new Ottawa-Chicago highway and widening of a railroad grade separation on a U. S. 66 bypass under construction at Lincoln.

Lieberman, according to reliable reports, is slated to be discharged by Green altho rumors to the contrary are rife. Furthermore, the governor elect has announced that he will scrutinize the road contracts he is to inherit, and has indicated that any fraudulent contract will not be binding upon the state.

QUEZON SAILS FOR VACATION.

MANILA, Nov. 29 (AP).—President Manuel Quezon, troubled with a slight cough and a recurrent fever, sailed tonight on the presidential yacht for a health cruise in Philippine waters. Informants said he planned a two weeks' cruise.

GREEN LEAVES TOMORROW FOR VACATION TRIP

Dwight H. Green, Illinois' governor-elect, said yesterday that he plans to leave Chicago tomorrow for Washington, D. C., and then proceed to some sunny spot in the south for two weeks of rest and recreation.

He will be accompanied by his family, but he will not take with him any of his campaign staff or prospective members of his Springfield staff. He said he expects to return to Chicago on or about Dec. 17.

The governor-elect will take part in the opening of the International Live Stock show today and at noon will attend a luncheon in the Chicago Athletic association given by Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin for the Illinois congressional delegation in the next congress and the state officers-elect.

BARKLEY CALLS TRIBUNE LIAR IN SENATE SPEECH

Blasts Editorial Remarks on Seating of Brooks.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader in the senate, today denounced THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on the senate floor because it took exception to his remarks about the seating of Senator Wayland Brooks, Republican, who defeated James M. Slattery, New Dealer, in the recent election.

Barkley, New Deal spokesman in the senate, read an editorial from THE TRIBUNE commenting upon his reservation of the right to object later to the seating of Brooks and recalling the circumstances under which Barkley was reëlected to the senate in 1939. The senator took exception to the editorial's remark that "the country has not forgotten that Barkley's own renomination and reelection were procured by shameless bribery of the voters of Kentucky with federal funds."

Minton Chimes In.

Barkley spoke in bitter terms of THE TRIBUNE and called upon his colleagues to give him stronger invectives to hurl at the newspaper. Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.], beaten for reëlection in the recent election, joined in the tirade.

"I desire," Barkley told the senate, "to brand this editorial, in so far as it applies to me, as an unvarnished, unmitigated, premeditated, malicious lie, and to brand THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, whose editorial it is, as a malicious, hide-bound, bitter partisan liar. If I can make my language any stronger than that I will accept suggestion from any of my colleagues."

Later Barkley thought of some more denunciatory terms and declared:

"The trouble with the CHICAGO TRIBUNE is that it does not want the truth, and, if it ascertains it, it never uses it, and would not publish it if it obtained it."

Has No Apology.

"I shall not go into the history of the election in my state, to which this contemptible editorial refers," Barkley commented. "There is nothing in my public life in Washington for which I have any apology to make to anybody, and especially to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

Barkley said he had not objected to the seating of Brooks, "but merely wished to state to those who had brought to me informally some question about the conduct of the election in Illinois that the seating of the senator from Illinois did not in any way militate against the senate taking action in the future if there should be any occasion to take it. I certainly have no intention and had no intention then to object to the senator from Illinois being seated, unless from other sources there should be presented evidence here that would justify the senate in taking up the matter for investigation.

Defends His Remarks.

"But THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE takes up these innocent observations of mine in the senate—which were proper, I think, as it will be agreed to by any senator under the circumstances—in order to hang on them its hat of malicious, blind, partisan, bitter criticism of me, and incidentally of the President, or vice versa, as the case may be."

Senator Barkley declared that altho THE TRIBUNE has a large circulation in the middle west it "has so little influence in Illinois and in its own city of Chicago" that the state and city have gone overwhelmingly for President Roosevelt three times despite the newspaper's opposition.

The senator declared it "might be interesting to know to what extent THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and those connected with it" participated in the collection and expenditure of campaign funds in elections of the past.

Editorial Is Quoted.

The editorial to which Barkley referred read in part:

"When Wayland Brooks took his oath as senator from Illinois, senator Barkley of Kentucky asserted that he was reserving the right to object later. His action was obviously based on the hope that Senator Slattery, whom Senator Brooks defeated, would start some sort of contest.

"If there were any doubt as to the validity of Senator Brooks' election, which there is not, Senator Barkley is the last man any honest Democrat would choose to dispute it. The country has not forgotten that Barkley's own renomination and election to the senate were procured by shameless bribery o the voters of Kentucky with federal funds. It was a use of money which President Roosevelt not only condoned but brazenly recommended in his statement reminding Kentuckians of the grants that he had been pleased to bestow on his yes man, and it was so flagrant that it aroused the indignation of a senate investigating committee, the majority of whose members were of Barkley's own party."

HELEN TWELVETREES.

New York, Nov. 29 [Special].—Helen Twelvetrees, who left Hollywood for personal appearances in such stage shows as "Personal Appearance," today sued RKO, her old producers, for $100,000. She charged RKO filmed a movie, "I'm Still Alive," based on her private life.

In papers filed in Manhattan Supreme court by her attorney, Alfred S. Julien, the actress accused RKO of basing the picture on her romance with Frank B. [Jack] Woody, former stunt man. She and Woody were married in 1931 and divorced in 1936.

The movie represents the actress as "the worst tempered star on the lot." RKO released information that the scenario was based on her life, Miss Twelvetrees set forth, and as a result producers will hesitate to engage her, thinking she is hard to get along with.

TWO OVERCOME FIGHTING BLAZE IN RESTAURANT

Two firemen were overcome yesterday while fighting a blaze in Riccardo's restaurant at 437 Rush street. The fire caused damage estimated at $10,000.

John Hendricks of Engine company No. 11 was taken to Henrotin hospital suffering from the effects of smoke and leaking gas in the basement. Fireman William Fleming of the same company also was overcome but was revived on the scene.

Chief Otto Dahl of the 2d battalion said the fire started in the basement from spontaneous combustion of oily rags. The fire spread thru the first floor and into the restaurant bar.

Early Pay-off Costs Four Bandits $1,900 Pay Roll

William F. Glader, president of a machine works company at 210 North Racine avenue, wanted to quit work a little earlier than usual yesterday. So at 4:15 p. m. a pay roll of $1,900 was distributed among the employés instead of 4:45, the usual time. At 4:30, four gunmen walked in and demanded the pay roll. All they got was $155 from Glader.

JARECKI, TOMAN 'HAVE,' 'HAVEN'T' SPAT CONTINUES

Wrangle Over Failure to Pay Election Workers.

The controversy heightened yesterday between County Treasurer John Toman and County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki over the nonpayment of 4,302 citizen canvassers who verified registration lists before the Nov. 5 election. The treasurer insisted he did not have the money to pay them $10 each. The judge retorted that there were ample funds left in the election year appropriation and demanded an accounting of this appropriation.

On Thursday Judge Jarecki, who is head of the election machinery, charged that "the Kelly-Nash machine is deliberately holding up the payment to discourage independent citizens from becoming candidates in future elections." Toman's reply at the time was, "Judge Jarecki is nutty."

Says He Can't Meet Budget.

Yesterday Toman said the county revenues from tax collections have slowed down to an extent where he is unable to pay out on budget appropriations.

"I can't collect the taxpayers' money as fast as Judge Jarecki spends it," he said. "We haven't the money now, and I'm not going to jail for doing something illegally even if he wants me to. I'm going to wait until the county board makes up the 1941 budget."

Judge Jarecki said it is mandatory for Toman to pay out the money.

Economies Effect Savings.

"The county appropriation for election expense this year was $882,370. That is nearly $400,000 less than was appropriated in 1936, the last comparable election year. The saving has been affected thru economies.

"I am certain that this year's appropriation has not been exhausted. The treasurer is able to meet all his regular semimonthly pay days and I want an accounting of the election fund to find out why he won't pay the canvassers."

U. S. GRAND JURY HEARS HEADS OF ELECTION DRIVE

More representatives of civic groups which tried to keep the Nov. 5 election clean are reported to have appeared yesterday before the federal grand jury investigating vote frauds in Chicago. Among them was Wade Fetzer Jr., an official of the Business Men's committee for the 1940 election.

A subpena was served on him at the same time that Henry Pope, president of the Business Men's organization, and Guy A. Reed, of the Chicago Association of Commerce, reportedly were summoned to testify. Another witness said to have appeared yesterday was Harold Marski, chief of the record division of the board of election commissioners.

CHAIRMAN DIES TALKS TO ROOSEVELT; STICKS TO PLANS FOR INQUIRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, today conferred for almost an hour with President Roosevelt on their clash over inquiries into fifth column operations in this country.

[A. P. Wirephoto.]
Representative Dies.

Before he went to the White House for the conference, to which he was summoned by Mr. Roosevelt in a sharply worded telegram, Dies declared he would stand on his conviction that "fearless exposure" was the proper method of combatting subversive organizations.

In summoning Dies the President warned the Texan that plans for the arrest and prosecution of fifth columnists "may be severely handicapped or completely destroyed by premature disclosure of facts or supposition . . . or by hasty seizure of the evidence."

After the conference, Dies said he had no statement to make, but indicated he has no intention of falling in line with the White House suggestion that he abandon public hearings by his committee.

Paper Sack Bandit Makes a Return Visit; Gets $843

A young man in a tan polo coat made a second call yesterday at the Domestic Finance company on the second floor at 6 East Randolph street. Drawing a gun, he presented a brown paper sack to Miss Helen Nelson and Miss Charlotte Hoffman, employés, and ordered them to fill it with money. They put in $843, and he walked out with it. Police were told that last Tuesday the same robber had taken $210.

BANQUET CHEERS WILLKIE'S TOAST TO PRESIDENT

Interfraternity Conference Honors G. O. P. Leader.

New York, Nov. 29 [Special].—Wendell L. Willkie tonight brought an audience of 3,600 men and women to their feet cheering and applauding a toast to "the President of the United States." This was at the end of an address in which the defeated Republican candidate for President urged all persons on all sides to forget personalities and unite to preserve and strengthen democracy.

Willkie received a tremendous ovation as the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the National Interfraternity conference. The chant, "We Want Willkie!" rose spontaneously from the crowd as he entered and left, and broke in on the proceedings from time to time. Even after he led everybody in the toast to the President the cries of "we still want Willkie" kept up.

Discussion Must Be Free.

"I am much concerned about public discussion in America," Willkie said. "The Democratic process rests upon discussion.

"There is no other method by which it can function. And it will function satisfactorily and effectively in such a time as this only if the channels of public discussion are kept completely open.

"And I say also, not alone kept open, but kept free from personal abuse and vilification."

Willkie charged that during the Presidential campaign both sides were guilty of "personal vilification and disparagement," and added that it was his opinion that "such lines of argument on both sides of the fence did not change any votes."

"Outstanding Member."

Dr. William Dawson, president of Beta Theta Pi—Willkie's fraternity—gave him a medal as that fraternity's "outstanding member."

Willkie's address was broadcast over a nationwide radio hookup. Accompanied by his wife, he flew here from Florida, where he has been spending a vacation.

JANUARY DATE FOR SKIDMORE TRIAL PLANNED

United States Attorney J. Albert Woll said yesterday that he hoped to have the income tax trial of William R. Skidmore, reputed fixer for the gambling syndicate, set for early in January. Woll served notice on Skidmore's attorney, W. W. Smith, that the government on Dec. 4 would ask Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan to consolidate the two income tax indictments against Skidmore. They charge a total evasion of $500,000 for the years 1933 thru 1938. Woll is expected to take an active part in the trial, which will be handled by three of his assistants, Earle C. Hurley, Paul M. Plunkett, and Lawrence J. Miller, who tried the income tax case in which William Johnson, reputed boss of the syndicate, was convicted.

DUCE SHAKES UP STAFF; MASSES FOR GREEK PUSH

Italians Ordered to Win Without Nazi Help.

ROME, Nov. 29 (AP).—Premier Mussolini followed a shakeup of his high command with a massing of new troops in Albania tonight for counter-attacks designed to turn the tide of victory toward the Fascists in their month old war with Greece.

With the appointment of Gen. Alfredo Guzzoni as undersecretary of war, Il Duce further centered here the direction of a campaign which the Rome radio said had the express mission of "liquidating the Greek incident."

Gen. Guzzoni, former commander of troops in Africa and in Albania prior to the Greek war, is expected to be a liaison man between the high command and Gen. Ubaldo Soddu, commander of the Italian forces in Albania. Gen. Guzzoni also will be vice chief of staff.

Without German Aid.

The Rome radio, which said the Greek advance in Albania has "fizzled out," asserted that the new forces in Albania had been given their task of turning back the Greeks "without German aid."

A war bulletin reported that three divisions of Gen. Carlo Geloso's 11th army operating in southern Albania repulsed Greek attempts to filter thru the lines.

The Koritza sector defended by the ninth army under Gen. Mario Vercellino was reported "quiet." Air attacks on Greek military bases in Corfu also were claimed.

[The Italians have lost both Koritza and Pogradetz, 20 miles to the north.]

British Attack Invasion Ports.

ATHENS, Nov. 29 (AP).—The British royal air force reported fierce attacks on the sea gateways thru which the Italian army must draw supplies and reinforcements today, and the Greeks themselves asserted they were pressing deeper into Albania.

An R. A. F. communique, apparently covering actions yesterday and last night, said aerial attacks were carried out against Santi Quaranta [Porto Edda] and Durazzo, important Albian ports, and Elbasan, an inland base. Shipping was attacked at Porto Edda, the communique said.

Reports reaching Salonika added a piquant touch to the routine news of the Albanian front. These said a company of 100 Macedonian peasant women, disobeying orders, assumed the rôle of Amazons and helped the Greeks beat 3,000 Italian troops in the Pindus mountains by rolling rocks down upon their enemy.

Battle Rages in South.

Serious fighting apparently was still in progress in the vicinity of Argyrokastron, last remaining major Italian base in southern Albania.

[A dispatch from Rome said that Argyrokastron was still in Italian hands. Another message from Bitolj, Jugo-Slavia, said that hand to hand fighting was raging within Argyrokastron itself. The Greeks were said to have captured Italian outposts. Casualties were described as heavy. From an Associated Press correspondent at Pogradetz, Albanian settlement on the northern front 20 miles north of Koritza, came the first independent verification that Pogradetz had been captured by the Greeks.]

The Greeks were reported consolidating their gains on the center and northern sectors to avoid stretching their lines too thinly.

AMERICAN ENVOY HAS CONFERENCE WITH GEN. FRANCO

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 29.—United States Ambassador Alexander Weddell conferred with Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state, today while British Ambassador Sir Samuel Hoare talked with Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner. Later Hoare and Weddell conferred for an hour and a half.

The meeting between Weddell and Franco was their first since Franco consulted with Adolf Hitler. So far as is known, neither the Hitler-Franco meeting nor Suner's subsequent diplomatic travels resulted in any concrete steps toward bringing this country closer to the axis lineup.

Weddell paved the way for today's talk with Franco by a conference with Suner on Tuesday. He also has kept in close contact with Hoare since the latter returned from Lisbon where he saw Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States. It is understood that the United States is ready, under certain circumstances, to help Spain get more than 1,000,000 tons of sorely needed wheat, as well as other foodstuffs, gasoline, coal, and machinery.

HINT JUGO-SLAV STATESMEN PLAN A TRIP TO BERLIN

BERLIN, Nov. 29 (AP).—The possibility of an early visit by Jugo-Slav statesmen to Germany was envisaged today by the authoritative commentary Dienst aus Deutschland. Official circles, however, declined to affirm or deny the report. The idea originated with Jugo-Slavia, it is claimed.

Papen Sees Turkish Chiefs.

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 29 (AP).—Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, conferred today with President Inonu and Foreign Minister Saracoglu. Unofficial reports that the envoy gave assurances of Germany's peaceful intentions toward Turkey could not be confirmed in official quarters. The government gave no hint of the subject of the conference.

Laval May Go to Berlin.

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 29 (AP).—Reports reached diplomatic quarters here tonight that Pierre Laval, vice premier of France, who left Vichy recently for Paris, is going on to Berlin for conferences with high Nazi officials.

BRITISH BOMB RAIDS DAMAGE LE HAVRE WIDELY, NAZIS ADMIT

PARIS [Via Berlin], Nov. 26 [Delayed] (AP).—The Le Havre newspaper Petit Havre discloses in an article authorized by the German authorities the wide extent of damage caused to port and residential areas during British bombings since Sept. 14. The raids have continued almost nightly, the newspaper said.

Le Havre's population, the article added, has fled to the heights surrounding the seaport, where some have sought refuge with friends and others in the railroad tunnels and fields. Cited was a long list of houses, schools, stores, monuments, hospitals, and maternity homes which, said the article, British aviators had attacked "without regard to their nonmilitary character."

There was no mention of damage to harbor facilities. The newspaper did say, however, that the port had been showered with bombs a number of times.

Among the damage in the city specifically mentioned was the destruction of the right wing of a well known Havre casino, serious damage to the stock market and postoffice, destruction of part of a girls' school and college, fire damage in the largest department store, and the razing of a block of apartment houses.

RAIDER IN SOUTH PACIFIC IS 6,000 TON MOTORSHIP

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 30, Saturday (AP).—Australian naval authorities said today the enemy raider credited with sinking 67,000 tons of British shipping in the South Pacific and Indian oceans is a 6,000 ton motorship armed with torpedo tubes and four 4 inch guns.

Survivors of two of the raider's victims, the merchantmen Port of Brisbane and Maimoa, described the raider as having a raked stem, a cruiser stern, and squat funnels and searchlights, leading them to believe it was a modern motorship.

The Port of Brisbane and Maimoa sinkings were disclosed Wednesday, when 27 survivors of the former reached an Australian port. The number saved from the Maimoa was not announced.

FRENCH TO SEIZE PROFITEERS; FIX STIFF PENALTIES

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, France, Nov. 27 [by Courier to Berlin].—[Delayed.]—The French government today announced that "hard time profiteers" are liable to immediate arrest and trial within 24 hours. Penalties run as high as two years' imprisonment and a fine of $23,000.

In addition to this, a merchant convicted of boosting prices illegally may have all or a part of his stock confiscated and sold for the state's benefit. He even may be forbidden to continue business. If he is allowed to carry on his business the report of his arrest will be posted in front of the door of his establishment. The report also will be published in the newspapers.

This drastic ruling comes as a result of widespread refusal of French merchants to recognize that prices are subject to control.

Two thousand roving government agents, reinforced by the police, will investigate prices charged by retailers, distributors, and manufacturers.

Patrolman Who Lost Arm Made State Police Captain

Patrolman Gilbert Cross of the state highway police station at Irving Park road and Harlem avenue was made a captain yesterday. Cross, who lost his left arm at the elbow after being shot in 1934, apparently by still operators, could not be reached for a statement, but the appointment is said to have been made by Gov. Stelle. Cross, 36 years old, lives at 828 Lombard avenue, Oak Park, with his wife and son.

ITALIAN ROUTES TO AFRICA CUT, BRITISH ASSERT

Claim Mediterranean Is Under Their Control.

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP).—The British navy's Mediterranean offensive apparently has broken an Italian attempt to establish new lines of communication with the Fascist African forces, informed Britons declared today, and has put Britain in substantial control of the whole of that strategic sea.

This evaluation of the meaning of the battle off Sardinia, officially said here to have damaged six Italian warships, offered one of the first direct suggestions as to the reason for the presence in that area of a Fascist fleet of such considerable size.

When the British fell upon them last Wednesday, these experts said, the Italians were attempting to create an alternate sea route to reach Libya—perhaps by way of the French territorial waters of Tunisia—and thus to reinforce Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's long stalled offensive in Egypt.

More Direct Routes Blocked.

For weeks, these informants asserted, the Italians have found it impossible to make consistent and effective use of more direct routes across the Mediterranean from such bases as Taranto—itself heavily attacked by British naval bombers on Nov. 11—and Brindisi.

This account of the circumstances of the Sardinian engagement, frankly offered by informed Britons as a wholly unofficial deduction, had it that the Italians ran into a much bigger British force in the western Mediterranean than they had counted upon, a force which had been able since Taranto to operate in fact as a separate naval entity.

[The Italian version of the Sardinian battle indicated a Fascist victory.]

Ægean Is British, Too.

In claiming that the whole of the Mediterranean now is under British domination, these persons declared that the British possession of the Greek island of Crete has blocked the Fascists off from the Ægean and their Dodecanese island bases as well.

During the day new attacks by British naval planes on the Dodecanese island of Lero and upon the Libyan port of Tripoli were officially reported, a communique announcing that fires were started on Lero; that a ship—probably a warship—was attacked, and that another ship was hit at Tripoli and great fires set off there.

The admiralty announced tonight that a British naval vessel with aircraft coöperation had successfully bombarded targets at Ras Alula in coastal Italian Somaliland.

There was action, too, in the channel. This morning, the admiralty announced, light British forces engaged German warships and pursued them at high speed toward the Nazi held port of Brest, France. "Damage upon the enemy" was claimed. Damage to a British warship was acknowledged.

[The German story of the channel engagement, apparently the same one referred to by the British, said it was an action of Thursday rather than yesterday between destroyer groups close to the English coast. German sources asserted that two British destroyers were torpedoed and four other vessels—including one of 9,000 tons and another of 3,000 tons—were sunk without German loss.]

King George Spends Night at British Bomber Base

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP). — King George VI. has spent a night at a royal air force bomber command station, watching heavily loaded raiders take off for Cologne and welcoming the pilots on their return. Later he visited both officers' and sergeants' mess and toasted their luck in whisky and soda.

BRITISH PUT NEW RESTRICTIONS ON SILK HOSE SALES

People Told Nation Needs More Parachutes.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Further restrictions on the sale of silk stockings hit Britain today as officials concentrated on new rationing schemes necessitated by Germany's blitzkrieg methods.

A board of trade order imposed complete prohibition on home supplies of silk hose and half hose to unregistered persons, and Capt. H. F. C. Crookshank, financial secretary to the treasury, warned that "silk parachutes must come before silk stockings."

The board of trade decree also restricted sale of aluminum ware in order to supply the more urgent requirements of those "who have lost their all by enemy action."

Scheme to Save Paper.

A new rationing scheme to save labor, time, and paper also was announced. Starting in January, the food ministery said, the clipping of coupons from ration books will be abolished. Instead, storekeepers will cancel the coupons with a rubber stamp or indelible pencil. Ration books will be issued for a year instead of six months and no re-registration will be required every time a book is issued.

In addition, housewives will be allowed to purchase two week's rations at a time.

Under this scheme food shops and administrative offices will be relieved of handling about 14,500,000,000 coupons annually. This alone is expected to save 75 tons of paper and with ration books good for a year an additional saving of $640,000 in paper and postal costs is anticipated.

Pleads, "Save Your Money."

Capt. Crookshank told an audience at Swansea that many more savings were necessary and pleaded with Britons to "save your money."

"The sky must be the limit to the money Britain is raising for the war," he said. "How are we to get money? Much, brutally much, by taxes—the rest by borrowing."

Transportation difficulties also have brought coal rationing measures to certain districts in Buckinghamshire and the southern counties to insure adequate supplies. Millions of tons of coal have accumulated at the mines but miners have been thrown out of work because the stores of coal have not been moved.

NANKING REGIME AND JAPAN SIGN 'PEACE' FOR CHINA

Wang Becomes President; Jap Train Blown Up.

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 30, Saturday (AP).—Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, Japanese ambassador, and Wang Ching-wei, head of the Japanese sponsored Chinese government at Nanking, today signed a treaty of peace, Japanese reports reaching here said.

Map locates scene of train dynamiting.

The Wang government was set up March 22, 1940, under Japanese auspices in opposition to the Chinese government in Chungking of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, whose guerrilla forces apparently were responsible for dynamiting a Japanese operated train bound for Nanking yesterday. Between 100 and 400 passengers were reported killed or injured.

Wang Assumes Presidency.

Chiang ignored a "last exhortation" sent him by the Wang government asking him to declare an armistice with Japan. The Chungking spokesmen have declared a fight to the end with Japan.

The treaty of peace and collaboration was ratified yesterday by the Nanking legislative yuan [council] and Wang, hitherto acting president of the régime, formally assumed the full presidency.

In the dynamiting of the train, five coaches were blasted from the tracks at Soochow, about 50 miles west of Shanghai.

One report said the train was carrying Japanese and Chinese officials to participate in the treaty ceremonies and it was considered possible that foreigners were aboard, including American newspapermen. Japanese military authorities denied this.

Rail service to Nanking was reported halted by the blast.

Heavy Fighting Rages.

While Japanese expressed belief that peace would come from the Nanking treaty-making, their military dispatches reported increasingly heavy fighting against Chiang's forces northwest of Hankow, in Hupeh province. Chinese reports said 3,000 Japanese had fallen in recent fighting there along the Han river and a Japanese offensive in northern Hupeh had been smashed.

Across the western part of the province, from Ichang on the Yangtze above Hankow, north to the Honan province border, the Japanese said 300,000 Chinese were being beaten. Moreover, according to the Japanese, the mid-China hostilities have spread south of the Yangtze, below Hankow.

All this warfare lies within the territory Japan claims to have conquered—territory in which the Nanking government's sovereignty was to be formally recognized so Japan might consider herself legally at peace with China.

AIR LINE PILOTS DISCUSS THEIR RÔLE IN DEFENSE

The rôle that air line pilots might play in national defense in time of emergency was discussed yesterday at the opening session of the convention of the Air Line Pilots' association in the Congress hotel. Seventy-five delegates, representing 1,400 pilots engaged in the field of trans-Pacific, trans-Atlantic, Caribbean, and domestic flights, are attending the convention, which closes Monday.

Milo H. Campbell, TWA stratoliner captain, told the pilots that possible wartime failure of radio ranges which are used to guide flyers would make the service of commercial flyers, trained in navigation by the stars, invaluable in air warfare. J. H. Roe, another TWA captain, said air line pilots could fill a wartime need for advanced instruction of army flyers in navigation and weather flying.

David L. Behncke, president of the association, said he believed air line pilots should retain their reserve commissions for call in case of war. This question is to be studied by a committee of pilots.

Free Masonry Prohibited in Nazi Occupied Norway

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 29 (AP).—[Via Berlin.]—Free Masonry was prohibited today in German occupied Norway in a decree by Maj. Vidkun Quisling, the Norwegian Nazi fuehrer. Penalties for members slow to quit were set up.

Wallace Meets Cardenas

President Lazaro Cardenas (left) of Mexico receiving Henry A. Wallace, Vice President elect of the United, States, in Mexico City yesterday.

Confident on Defense

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Nov. 29 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace, United States Vice President elect, presented his credentials as special ambassador today and with other envoys heard retiring President Lazaro Cardenas say every American country would "see to its own defense, ready if need be to go to the defense of all."

Cardenas said the continental nations wished to "participate in the program in common interest without giving up any part of their sovereignty."

Wallace, visiting Mexico as a special envoy to Sunday's presidential inauguration of Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, took no notice of last night's demonstration before the United States embassy, which was stoned by disgruntled followers of Gen. Juan Andreau Almazan, who was defeated by Avila Camacho.

Newspapers reported the arrest of 18 of the demonstrators. The embassy was placed under special guard.

U. S. GRAND JURY ON SLUSH FUND DUE TO REPORT

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29 (AP).—Final witnesses appeared today before the federal grand jury which for more than three months has heard government information alleging that secret political "slush funds" were disbursed by certain midwestern utilities companies.

Government attorneys said the grand jury report probably would be returned tomorrow, but might not be ready before Monday.

Scores of witnesses, many of them political figures, have testified during the inquiry which began Aug. 26. Little more concerning the investigation has been made public than was revealed by the department of justice last Aug. 8, because of unusual steps to insure secrecy.

At that time the justice department announced the grand jury would examine activities of Illinois Iowa Power company, Union Electric company of Missouri, and Missouri Power and Light company, all subsidiaries of the North American company holding system.

ALDERMEN ASK LEGAL OPINION ON JUKE BOXES

An aldermanic subcommittee investigating the possibility of licensing or regulating juke boxes voted to ask the city legal department for an opinion on the city's rights to control the boxes. The action was taken at a meeting attended by representatives of tavern owners and juke box operators. Ald. Bernard J. O'Hallaren [18th] is chairman of the committee.

Martin J. Moran, chairman of the State Council of Tavern Owners' associations, said: "Any tax you put on juke boxes will be passed on to the tavern owner, and his shoulders are round now from paying licenses."

The committee agreed to meet again Dec. 9 to consider regulations. The licensing issue was raised recently after police shut down the juke boxes. The ban was lifted on orders of Mayor Kelly.

Police Strike in Shanghai International Settlement

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 30, Saturday (AP).—Virtually all stores of the International Settlement were closed early today in fear of robberies as 3,000 Chinese policemen struck for higher wages and larger rice allowances. Except for a small body of foreign soldiers and a volunteer police force made up of 250 White Russians, the settlement was without protection.

SLUG, ROB LUNCHSTAND MANAGER.

Two colored men slugged George Boyte, night manager of a lunchstand at 3346 Lawrence avenue, early yesterday and robbed him of $30.

AWARDED MEDAL FOR EXPERIMENTS IN HYBRID CORN

A medal signalizing his great contribution to agriculture was given last night to Dr. George Harrison Shull, the "father" of hybrid corn. The presentation was made at a dinner in the Palmer House given by the De Kalb agricultural association in honor of Dr. Shull's successful experiments in the hybridization of corn, begun 35 years ago on Long Island, N. Y. Dr. Shull is professor of botany and genetics at Princeton university. Farm officials and national and state champions in the 1940 DeKalb hybrid corn yield competition, were among the speakers at the dinner. William Mentjes of Le Center, Minn., received a trophy for having the biggest acre yield of hybrid corn. Among 10,000 contestants, he averaged 157.69 bushels per acre.

REPORT FRENCH PLANES DOWNED IN RAID ON SIAM

SINGAPORE, Nov. 29 (AP).—A Bangkok report today asserted three French planes were shot down during a raid on Nakhonpanom, Thailand, [Siam] in which two bombs fell on police quarters, injuring five constables.

[Various incidents on the Thailand-French Indo-China border have been reported in recent weeks. Most of the reports have come from Japan or Japanese agencies.]

Report French Ordered Out.

New York, Nov. 29 (AP).—Domei, the Japanese news agency, today reported in a broadcast dispatch from Bangkok that the government of Thailand had decreed that all French citizens residing in certain frontier districts must leave Thailand for French Indo-China within one or two days. It also was decreed that all Frenchmen must obtain permission of Thailand authorities to enter or leave that country. This dispatch was not confirmed by other sources.

Carlton Hotel Bombing Kills High Belgian Official

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP).—Camille Camus, high official of the Belgian colonial ministry, was killed in the recent bombing of the Carlton hotel in London, it was disclosed today. He was about to leave on a mission to the Belgian Congo. Hubert Pierlot, premier of the Belgian government in exile here, was a guest in the hotel but escaped injury.

PLANES ORDERED BY SWEDEN ARE GIVEN TO CANADA

Switch of 144 Allowed in 'Interests of Defense.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—The federal government has deprived Sweden of its second order of military planes, it was learned tonight with a disclosure that Canada has been allowed to acquire 144 Vultee combat planes originally ordered by the Swedish government.

Just a little more than a month ago the government also requisitioned 110 Republic pursuit ships and light bombers which were slated for delivery to Sweden. These planes were turned over to the army and later transferred to the Philippines for use by the air corps units located on the islands.

Details Are Guarded.

Details of the transfer of the combat planes to Canada were guarded here, officials professing ignorance of the deal. The British and Canadian purchasing agents here confirmed reports that Canada has acquired the planes but declined to discuss the matter further.

The federal government, it was claimed, had no part in the deal except to issue an export license for delivery of the Vultee planes to Canada. Recently the government canceled or refused export licenses where it was believed the national defense was imperiled. The Swedish government filed a formal protest after the government seized the Republic planes, manufactured by the Republic Aviation corporation, Farmingdale, N. Y.

But Secretary of State Cordell Hull replied that "the interests of the national defense have made it necessary for this government to refuse to issue licenses authorizing the exportation of war materials to Sweden."

Seizure by Nazis Feared.

What Hull did not mention was the underlying fear among officials that the planes if sent to Sweden might fall into the hands of Germany.

A spokesman at the Swedish embassy here claimed tonight that Vultee had broken a contract with Sweden in refusing to fulfill its order.

"We did not sell them back to Vultee," he said. "There was a contract that has been broken by Vultee. Now we are trying to reach an agreement with Vultee because we paid in advance on the order."

The Vultee Aircraft corporation plant at Downey, Cal., recently was involved in a strike which halted production on urgent government orders for military planes. Work has been resumed.

Greeks in Market.

The Greeks also are attempting to purchase American aircraft of all types, it was disclosed today by Philip Young, assistant to the secretary of the treasury and head of a special committee surveying Greek requests to the United States for assistance. Greece is particularly anxious to obtain fighter planes, Young said.

The British government has expressed willingness to help Greece with its purchases here, but Young declined to say whether the British have agreed to waive priority on any planes they now have on order in America.

Three More Social Hygiene Clinics Opened in Suburbs

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, reported yesterday that three additional social hygiene clinics have been opened in the suburbs with money provided by the national venereal disease control act. The new clinics are at the Cicero Welfare center, the Harvey Health center, and St. James hospital in Chicago Heights. On Oct. 1 clinics were opened at Berwyn, Maywood, and Robbins health centers.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Plymouth, Ind., Nov. 29 [Special].—The body of Harry Armstrong, 73, retired business man of Plymouth, was found in bed in his home here today by a woman who called to clean his house, where he lived alone. Deputy Coroner F. G. Perry said he had been dead since Tuesday.

Ships Start Dash

Broken line marks route two German freighters which left Tampico, Mexico, yesterday may follow in trying to slip thru blockade.

TAMPICO, Mexico, Nov. 29 (AP).—The German merchantmen Idarwald and Rhein steamed southward out of Tampico today on their second attempt to leave their haven here and slip thru the British blockade to Europe.

In Mexico City it was reported that both British and Canadian warships in the Caribbean sea were under orders to intercept the ships, which apparently were trying to enter the Caribbean via the Yucatan peninsula.

With the Rhein in the lead, the freighters were following the coast about four miles from shore.

To pass the Yucatan peninsula and reach the Caribbean for escape into the Atlantic, the ships must alter their courses sharply to the east, passing the peninsula probably under cover of darkness tonight. Both ships were reported carrying limited cargoes of fuel and provisions.

These ships were among four which tried unsuccessfully to dash to sea on Nov. 15. One of the ships, the Phrygia, was scuttled. The others fled back to port.

The Nazi occupation of Norway was a triumph of the German system of propaganda, Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, said yesterday before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer House.

Hambro said his government still is the official Norwegian government, with its headquarters in Great Britain, its gold reserve in the United States, its merchant marine [1,400 ships totaling 4½ million tons] operating out of Montreal, Canada, its air force in the Shetland Islands, and its navy fighting with the British and Dutch navies.

The present Nazi army of occupation in Norway is estimated at 400,000 men, he said, and the country faces a bitter winter, with 15,000 homes in ruins, a scarcity of clothing, a Nazi-ordered 20 per cent reduction in wages, and 20,000 Norwegian skilled laborers and domestics ordered to Germany.

HALT SAILING OF SHIP; AMERICANS HELD IN ORIENT

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 29 (AP).—Sailing of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia, aboard which many Americans hoped to go home, was canceled today. She had been scheduled to leave Dec. 1 for Vancouver, B. C.

A heavy list of passengers had been booked. These, including the Americans, now are dependent upon later ships, which already have capacity passenger lists, to take them out of the orient.

Now at Hongkong, the Empress of Russia presumably is under orders of the British government.

Quake Reveals Ex-Official's Hoarded Money; Arrested

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 29 (AP).—Rumania's earthquake of Nov. 10 led indirectly today to the arrest of a former minister of war on a charge of hoarding money. The former minister, whose name was withheld, was arrested when workmen, repairing an earthquake damaged pillar on his front porch, found it stuffed with wads of currency.

FORMER PREMIER CHAUTEMPS BIDS U. S. 'MORAL HELP'

Arrives in New York on Secret Mission.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP).—Camille Chautemps, former premier of France, arrived today aboard the liner Excambion on an "unofficial" and unidentified mission from Vichy—his four month trip marked by hardships and embarrassment at the hands of Spanish and British officials.

Pale and hesitating, Chautemps, who is 55 years old, declined to discuss political matters but said he wanted to say this to the American people:

"Americans, do not misjudge France. The soul of the people has not changed. I am quite convinced that France will raise itself to its old position and I hope that America will help."

Confidence Wanted.

By American help, he said he meant that all France wanted now was "confidence and friendship" from the United States.

He was vague about his status with the Vichy government. He denied a German report that he had been ordered to face the "war guilt" trials at Riom, asserting "I could return to France tomorrow."

Chautemps and his wife, Durand Texte, a former pianist, and their four children, including 6 months old Antoinette whom he called "the best work of my life," left Vichy Aug. 1 for Brazil as diplomatic representative. Asked why the order was canceled he would say only:

"The journey was so long and events have changed."

Barred by Spain.

Spain refused to allow the family to pass thru and they eventually reached Casablanca in Morocco. From there they went to Lisbon. When the Excambion called at Bermuda, British authorities searched Chautemps' clothing, stateroom, and baggage and seized all his papers.

ASKS ASSURANCE BRITAIN WILL NOT BARTER COLONIES

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP).—When the house of commons meets again, probably next week, Prime Minister Winston Churchill will be asked if he will give the house assurance that the government will not barter the sovereignty of any British territory in return for war supplies from any foreign country. Oliver E. Simmonds, Conservative member, gave notice of the question today. It was believed prompted by recent unofficial discussion of possible trades of British colonies in the western hemisphere for American munitions.

American Air Liner Crashes in Ecuador; 5 Are Injured

QUITO, Ecuador, Nov. 29 (AP).—A Pan American-Grace air liner crashed two miles north of Quito today, seriously injuring the crew of four and the one passenger aboard. The plane was destroyed. The crash came shortly after the liner took off here for Cali, Colombia. Pilot J. J. Schiedel was gravely injured. Co-Pilot Howard Benninghoff and Radio Operator Arba Mock were hurt less seriously. Benninghoff is from Fort Wayne, Ind. Schiedel is from Ardmore Park, Pa., and Mock is a Californian.

Rumanian Party Reaches Moscow for Trade Talks

International Rift

[Acme Photo.]

John Loder and his French wife.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 29 (AP).—John Loder, British film actor, blamed "war nerves" today for discord with his French actress-wife, Micheline Cheirel, which he told studio officials might lead to a divorce.

The trouble began, he asserted, when the British navy bombarded ships of the French fleet.

The two still are living under the same roof, but Loder said a property settlement had been discussed and that his wife had had a lawyer prepare divorce papers.

Loder, whose real name is Lowe, served as a lieutenant in the British army during the first world war. He and Miss Cheirel were married in London in 1936 and have a daughter, Danielle, 3.

CHARGE SCHOOL BOARD IGNORES CIVIL SERVICE

Six men sought jobs from the board of education yesterday in a suit filed in Superior court. They charged that the board has violated the civil service act by changing the classification of clerical jobs. They contend that 11 of the 25 senior clerk positions provided for in the board's 1940 budget have been filled with temporary appointees not on the civil service lists. Complainants all on the civil service waiting list are Joseph P. Sheils, Gerald Leibowitz, James J. Colfer, John J. Bailey, Donald L. Holt, and Fred Reeves.

DECISION HELD UP ON U. S. TRACTION LOAN TO CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29 [Special].—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago announced after a conference with Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, that Jones is not yet prepared to say how much he will lend Chicago's proposed unified transit system or to name the loan terms. A further conference between Jones and Chicago officials will be held in about 10 days, Kelly said.

Last summer Jones offered to make a fereral loan of 53 million dollars for transit modernization in Chicago, provided a unified traction system including the Chicago Motor Coach company would be formed. The coach company, however, announced two weeks ago it would prefer not to join the system. Jones then announced the loan would have to be reduced and that new conditions would be laid down.

Mayor Kelly also called on officials of the department of agriculture to request that Chicago poultry dealers be permitted to bid on turkeys to be bought by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation. At present only farmers are permitted to bid.

PRESS AGENTS' PRIDE.

Mr. William Allen White as chairman of the committee to aid Britain received the other day the annual award of the National Association of Press Agents. It was a distinction which, so far as we are aware, no other newspaper editor has ever coveted, but Mr. White was obviously pleased and the occasion found him in an expansive mood. He spoke in acknowledgment. What he said fills in a few of the blanks in recent history. We now know more than we did before about the acquisition of the island bases and the transfer of the destroyers. We now have evidence where before we had only surmises. The evidence, it should be added, establishes the correctness of the surmises.

From Mr. White's account it is clear that his America Second committee is entitled to none of the credit for getting the bases. That goes to men of a different sort who year in and year out have been insisting that the islands are in our sphere, that we need them for our own protection, and that in foreign hands they menace our safety. Such considerations have no appeal for the starry eyed. Mr. White's committee was concerned to strengthen others, not the United States.

As he said, his committee "learned there were certain overage destroyers" in our navy and concluded that they should be transferred for war duty. If the committee was at all interested in obtaining payment for the ships in money or in kind, Mr. White omitted to mention the fact. It may safely be concluded that nothing was farther from the committee's thinking.

Mr. White and his colleagues thereupon set themselves to working up propaganda for the transfer. They seem to have employed all the illegal dodges of professional lobbyists and press agents for bringing pressure on public officials. Mr. White seems to think that it was these efforts which put the deal across, but in this he is mistaken.

Mr. Roosevelt was in the midst of a campaign for reelection. He was eager to oblige the committee but he was afraid to do so at a time when it might cost him millions of votes. Mr. White went to see Mr. Roosevelt, who immediately asked, "What's Wendell Willkie going to do about this?"

"Then I went and talked with Mr. Willkie," Mr. White recounted. "I told him what was up and he didn't blow up very hard, considering. All summer some of us kept in contact with the President and Mr. Willkie, so that when the job was done it was not made a political issue."

Even so, Mr. Roosevelt would not have dared make the transfer for a mere money payment. He was in luck. Years of effort had gone into the campaign for the acquisition of the bases, a project to which he had been cold up to that time. Indeed, only a few weeks before the trade was made he had not hesitated to denounce the proposal as "silly." But now he seized upon it. Mr. Willkie's silence was assured, as Mr. White has testified. The objections of others would be quieted by the knowledge, produced by painstaking education, that the United States would be greatly strengthened if the bases were ours.

And so the deal was made. Mr. White has the press agents' merit badge, but he wouldn't have won it except for the fact that for many years men who take a very different view from his of our national interest had taught the American people the strategic importance of the European possessions in our hemisphere.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION POLLS.

From a number of sources requests have been received for an analysis of the straw poll taken by THE TRIBUNE during the Presidential campaign.

A large staff, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Evans, with many years' experience with preelection polls, gathered information on voting intentions of the people of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin. The advance preparations were exhaustive, both in the training of poll takers and in defining the sample that was sought. Ballots were distributed among occupational, social, and economic groups, so that a group would be represented by as large a percentage in the sample as it constituted of the whole electorate.

The final results of the poll were published in THE TRIBUNE on the Sunday before the election. In the table below the forecasts of THE TRIBUNE poll for the five states are compared with the election returns and with the final figures of the poll conducted by Dr. George Gallup.

Percentage of Democratic vote to total major party vote:

	Election returns.	Tribune poll.	Gallup poll.	Tribune error, points.	Gallup error, points.
Illinois	51	49	48	2	3
Indiana ...	49	46	45	3	4
Iowa	48	46	45	2	3
Michigan ..	50	49	48	1	2
Wisconsin ..	51	47	48	4	3

From the above it appears that both polls came fairly close to the actual results in every instance, but that THE TRIBUNE poll was a better predictor than the Gallup poll in four of the five states. But neither poll named the winner in Illinois or Wisconsin.

While the taking of straw votes goes back more than 40 years, the so-called scientific poll is of recent origin. It was developed commercially to find out which products were most popular among consumers, what colors were preferred, and what kinds of package were best liked. Such commercial polls within 3 or 4 per cent of accuracy are certainly satisfactory. But that is not sufficient accuracy in an election forecast, when 2 or 3 per cent may be enough error to vitiate the whole system. However, there is a great public demand for polls during a campaign, so we may expect them to be continued but we cannot expect 100 per cent accuracy.

THE SCHOOL BOARD'S COLLEGES.

The Chicago board of education asserts that it has to have a $3,000,000 increase in its pegged tax levy for 1941, and is making the usual dire threats of a shortened school term or teachers' pay cuts if the increase is not forthcoming.

It is hardly likely that the legislature and Gov. Green will take the request and the accompanying predictions of disaster at face value when the matter reaches their hands in January. They would be foolish if they did so. There is room for much more economy than is currently practiced in the school system, particularly in connection with school plant operation, in which division the wages and salaries paid have long been recognized as exorbitant for the services rendered.

Another matter to which the school board and the legislature should give joint consideration concerns the function of the board of education. That function is to provide a system of primary and secondary education for the city of Chicago. This the school system does, after a fashion. It would probably do it better if it had more money.

It is improbable that the available revenue of the school system would be more than sufficient, even under the most efficient administration, to provide a good system of elementary and high schools. But in addition to this primary function the Chicago system has taken on the burden of maintaining institutions of collegiate rank.

The estimated expenditures for the Chicago Teachers' college for 1941 are $356,753. The appropriations for the three junior colleges, Herzl, Wilson, and Wright, are estimated at $926,067. The total of $1,282,820 is just about half of the actual collections the board could expect to realize from a $3,000,000 increase in its tax levy.

The school board closed the teachers college once before in a period of financial stringency and the school system suffered no ill effects. There is, however, no reason why the college should be closed again. Chicago young people who desire to train themselves as teachers deserve a tax supported school in the city. The support of that school, however, should come from the state and not the city. The state maintains all of the other public teachers' colleges in Illinois out of tax funds to which Chicagoans are the principal contributors.

If the legislature took over the support of the Chicago Teachers' college as a state institution it would naturally demand that the Chicago schools cease their narrow parochial policy of confining employment of teachers almost wholly to graduates of the Chicago college. There is no justification for that policy and its abandonment would give Chicago a better grade of teachers, since the field of selection would be widened.

There would be public objection to the abandonment of the junior colleges. They have proved popular and have given many Chicago students a chance for collegiate training which they could not otherwise afford. But there is no justice in supporting these colleges out of tax funds that are insufficient for the support of grade and high schools.

Illinois maintains a state university at Champaign and Urbana, which has its own tax levy and receives further grants of general tax funds from the legislature. The university already has located its schools of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy in Chicago. Why should it not undertake also the administration and support of junior colleges in this city?

The university already has its financial problems, and its appropriations from the state would no doubt have to be increased if it opened a general undergraduate school in Chicago. But higher education is its function and it is not that of the Chicago board of education. Quite probably the present junior colleges would be improved under university control.

Governor Elect Green and the members of the legislature are going into office pledged to economy and it is not likely that they will regard with favor any extension of state functions. The admission to the Chicago system of the graduates of downstate teachers' colleges should, however, prove a potent argument in favor of the state government's assuming what traditionally are state rather than local functions.

Editorial of the Day

SIGNS OF INGENUITY IN THE ARMY.

[Des Moines Register.]

The crack that the generals "always prepare for the last war instead of the next war" isn't strictly true, but it has enough of truth in it to be disturbing at a time when we are spending billions for defense.

An editorial note in a recent infantry journal tells of an army officer, "one of the best battlefield leaders we had in France," who got into a jam with his superiors ten or twelve years ago because as a reserve instructor he taught some things that weren't in the book. This new stuff consisted of lectures and problems on motorized and mechanized units and parachute infantry.

Now that the army is coming around to these innovations, he snorts:

"Panzer divisions! Parachute troops! Old stuff! Already old stuff! Are we going to start in copying them? Or are we going to find something better—something that will make those outfits look like amateurs? . . . Every one of us ought to be thinking along those same lines—working his head off to get a big jump on the rest of the world. Let's not do any copying of something that's already old stuff!"

Whew!

Well, it's a healthy sign that sentiments like this can get into the army's trade journals.

"It's a good thing for the human race to have troubles," says Mary Pickford. But, Mary, dear, isn't there such a thing as too much of a good thing?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

WIGS ON THE GREEN.

Today's football game between Fenger and Leo for the high school championship will be a stirring spectacle, no doubt; but if the boys were twice as tall, and the stadium twice as big, and the spectators twice as numerous, it would not erase from the Linemaster's mind the memory of epic struggles when Hyde Park and Englewood High used to play for blood and glory. Walter Eckersall carried Hyde Park's colors then; and a little after his time Englewood had a star who was called Englewood Eckie. His other name was Chick Patterson.

Then, a few years before the Eckersall period, there was a game which caused a Hyde Park bard to break into song as follows:

Oh, Englewood, you were so proud
With Captain Sholl and long-haired Dowd,
But for Hyde Park you were no mate—
Still stands that score,
Fourteen to eight.

This taunt referred to a game that was officially wiped off the slate because Hyde Park had used a pair of "ringers" named Calliger and Marcuse. They came from a pass-the-hat sandlot team which a future Linemaster served as scrimmage fodder and all-hope-abandon end or tackle. They were fleet and rugged lads accustomed to rolling on broken glass and old tin cans; and when they got on a real football field they ran wild. We will never forget Billy Calliger, a blond stripling superman, sweeping around the Englewood ends.

The joint faculties ruled that the game should be played over again, minus the sandlot heroes. It was played over for one half, which was scoreless; then rioting started among the Harold Teens in the stands at the old baseball park, 39th street and Wentworth avenue. The whole thing was promptly declared off.

"Still stands that score, 14 to 8."

I am the little ship that sailed over the edge of the world:
I am the wild duck shot down by the hunter.
I am the song the street-piano played at dusk:
I am the organ-monkey in the shabby jacket:
I am Pierrot, writing by a guttering candle:
I am the symphony that roared in the ears of Beethoven.

I am the circus rider in pink slippers and spangles, and the muted trumpet in the blue smoke of the café,
and the maddening music of the Habanera.

I am the elf under the dappled toadstool:
and the bright-eyed field mouse peering from the furrow:
I am the pins in the velvet paw of the kitten:
I am the fairy princess asleep under an enchantment, and the butterfly drowned in the inkwell.

I am the soldier who went away to the wars, and the woman who wrung her hands in the house at the crossroads, and the crowd of ragged refugees on the highway.

NOVEMBER, 1940.

I'll remember this November
Till I'm old and bent and gray,
With its blizzards and the wizards
Who were wrong election day;
Speakers silky; Wendell Willkie,
And the days of wistful wishin',
Then to the breech with fighting speech
On "loyal opposition";
The hurri-gale that made folks quail,
And drove the pink from cheeks;
The great attack run off the track,
Derailed by doughty Greeks;
That festive game where Notre Dame
Made Iowa the hero;
And then that gray Franksgiving Day
Whose gayety was zero.
But most of all I will recall
Not football, storms or strife,
But that I made the Line Book grade—
The first time in my life!

Rainy Day in the Attic.

We climbed to the attic that rainy day, to hear the rain song on the roof. We heard it—a million tiny feet, pattering gently along the beams and rafters, and drifting gently down to the eaves and earth. But we found more than that—we found the past, a roomful of old dreams and memories. There was a crib, much scarred, and shabby now, but rich with love and laughter. There was a cane bottomed chair—a chair that intimately knew some pleasant kitchen corner, with its homely tasks of potato peeling, pea shelling, or cherry pitting. There stood a walnut washstand, complete with bowl and pitcher—relic of a hardier day. There, too, were books and magazines, once so eagerly awaited, now consigned to this dim room. There was an aroma of the past in the attic, faintly bitter, faintly sweet—a past that can never live again, save in memory. Helene.

PINWORM VICTIMS RE-INFECT THEMSELVES.

NONE of us relishes the thought that the intestinal tract is the dwelling place of a multitude of parasitic worms. Nevertheless, such may be the case and, in some families, the condition may persist for years. Attention is usually called to the existence of the offenders because of itching about the exit of the bowel.

Live, active specimens of the pinworm vary from less than one-eighth of an inch to more than one-half inch in length. These forms journey thru the digestive tube and reach the colon within two or three weeks. The eggs are deposited on the skin of the buttocks and as many as 10,000 may be laid at one time.

How common is this infestation? There is rather wide variation in the figures due no doubt to the careless methods used for detection when swabs [tests] are made. Many hospitals will show that 10 per cent or more of all children are playing hosts to the vermin. Other reports indicate that as high as 50 per cent are afflicted.

Are these invaders harmful? Certainly we cannot ascribe convulsions, delirium, or any other major malady to their presence. On the other hand, because of the disagreeable sensation of itching, victims may become fretful. They are likely to suffer loss of sleep and appetite. Sometimes the worms congregate in the appendix and lead to true inflammation of that structure, requiring surgery. There can be no question that when freed of these pests most youngsters will put on weight and regain their ruddy complexions, with the disappearance of dark circles under the eyes.

Inasmuch as this disorder symbolizes bad hygiene, we should get rid of the offenders. A number of procedures have been found valuable. Recent experiments indicate that one of the aniline dyes—namely, gentian violet, can be given in capsule or tablet form. This coloring matter will so discourage the parasites that most of them will give up the ghost. As a rule, physicians prescribe one-half grain tablets for adults, to be taken before meals, for one week. Several days of rest are then permitted.

If this régime does not prove adequate, a second or even a third course may be administered. Fortunately, toxic effects are extremely mild, as very little of the drug is absorbed. Occasionally, however, nausea will be complained of. Children require much smaller doses and the treatment should be continued for at least three weeks.

Other methods include enemas of a water extract of quassia chips, or the giving of tetrachlorethylene. This latter chemical is in itself a fairly toxic substance. Enemas designed to destroy the eggs are ineffective. An antiseptic mixed with a greasy substance will rarely kill all of the ova, while scrupulous cleansing will. Hexylresorcinol has been suggested for enemas but the compound must be used repeatedly over many weeks before eradication can be expected. There is no advantage in taking the drug by mouth.

Since reinfection is easy, the hands must be scrubbed thoroly [including the finger nails] after each visit to the toilet. Underclothing should be changed daily and the parts about the rectum should be bathed [following every bowel movement] with strong soapsuds and warm water. Instances have been observed in which patients have been freed by proper treatment, only to become contaminated again thru raw food, handled by some one whose hands were not clean.

GERMANS IN NORWAY.

Sister Bay, Wis., Nov. 28.—Many in America, with no German blood in their veins, have felt a certain sympathy with the efforts of the German nation to retrieve the losses of Versailles and regain a position of dignity and influence in the affairs of the European continent. The reasons for this sympathy are understandable. The humiliations inflicted on the Germans during and after the war, involving for instance the death by slow starvation of nearly 800,000, chiefly women, children, and old people, and not least, the lies and distortions of war propaganda, notably the Bryce report, could not fail to influence thinking people.

However, this sympathy has been largely dissipated by stupid blunders of the German government during the present war. The invasion of Norway and the subsequent treatment of the Norwegian people is as good an illustration as any. The inexplicable blindness of the German administration in naming as leader of the national social movement a man without standing in the nation and after the invasion regarded, probably with good reason, as a traitor, can only be explained by that curious failure of the Germans [the Prussians especially] to appreciate and make allowance for the feelings and character of other nations.

From reports in Norwegians papers recently received, and from letters, it is evident that the behavior of the troops of occupation, mainly Austrians, is with few exceptions, exemplary. This probably applies also to the other Germans now in Norway in some official capacity. The fault undoubtedly lies with the central administration in Berlin which seems utterly unable to make the least allowance for the customs and traditions of the Norwegian people. If the German plans for a new confederation of nations on the European continent should fail it will be largely because of this defect in German [Prussian] national character.

In fairness to the Germans it should be added that some blame attaches also to the Norwegians. There have been acts of violence and sabotage directed against the invaders. That was to be expected. Less excusable are the gross distortions of the situation by a host of Norwegian propagandists and sympathizers whose efforts are for a large part directed at the elements of Norwegian and Danish extraction in this country. Some of these speakers and writers may be excused on the ground of ignorance, but there are others who seem to think that because the emigrants from Norway and Denmark were largely of the cotter class, they and their descendants will swallow anything served up to them by representatives of the motherland; particularly if from the upper strata of society. These men [and women] fail to make allowance for the development of the poor emigrant and his children in their struggles for economic and political independence in a free and rich land.

TVA, HIDDEN TAXES, ETC.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 27.—It has been carefully estimated that a person who owns no property and pays no direct taxes, but who earns $150 a month, pays $284 a year in hidden or indirect taxes. We hear a great deal about "hidden" taxes but few of us know what that means. My understanding of one of these taxes is in the billion or more dollars paid on account of the TVA flop.

The government owns about 225 business enterprises in competition with little business men. Since there is no tax revenue from these enterprises they have the advantage over private businesses. Besides this, it is rare that a government owned business is properly managed, so there must be appropriations from the public purse.

If you keep hammering at your congressmen to compel the sale or lease of government owned enterprises to private capital, you can save subsidies of a billion or two a year, and in addition collect taxes on the properties, on the earnings, besides a second tax on dividends to stockholders. HENRY F. GILG.

FORREST NOT THE NAME FOR IT.

Mendota, Ill., Nov. 26.—I am interested in your article concerning a new name for Camp Peay. It should not be named Camp Forrest. My grandfather, Col. Stephen G. Hicks, was colonel of the 40th Illinois during the civil war. He was wounded at Shiloh and after he recovered he reported for duty and Gen. Sherman gave him his choice of any post in the region and he took charge of the fort at Paducah, Ky. While he was in command there Gen. Forrest advanced on the fort and was repulsed with great loss. Col. Hicks was called "the hero of Paducah." I have a telegram sent by him to my father from Paducah: "Send word to Mrs. Hicks and tell her we have passed thru a severe fight with Gen. Forrest and are all right. S. G. Hicks."

Col. Hicks was a lieutenant colonel in the Mexican war and sergeant in the Black Hawk war, 1832. He died Dec. 14, 1869, and is buried at Salem, Ill. I see no reason for a change in the name of Camp Peay. MAY EDWARDS.

HANDBILLS ON WINDSHIELDS.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—I wonder if the concerns that send boys out to stick handbills under the windshields of cars realize the harm this practice does? It is annoying to get behind the wheel and then have to get out and remove the paper that is obstructing your vision. Then, too, these wipers have to be handled with care to keep them in working order, and the stuffing of papers under them by inexperienced young boys has ruined at least two on our car.

It pays to advertise, but not at some one else's expense. ROSE MCDONALD.

SPEAKS A WORD FOR LABOR.

Alton, Ill., Nov. 27.—Recently in your column I read a letter from a young man who objected to any one being paid a wage scale, because he had to spend a year in the army, at $21 a month. This is an unfair computation of army pay, since a man receives also food, clothing, shelter, medical and dental care, recreation, such as movies, reading matter, etc., as well as training and instruction in a choice of many trades.

Probably the young man represents a type that has always hated organized labor. This type "stooges" for the frightened group of reactionaries who seize upon any pretext for trying to take away any necessary social gains labor has made.

Labor will make as many sacrifices as any one for country, but not to satisfy the personal greed of those who have just been waiting for their chance to emasculate the labor movement.

I have a friend who will leave for camp in about three weeks. He leaves a $35 a week job, but he has never said one word in complaint. He matter of factly regards it as a part of his obligation for the preservation of his country and his way of life. There is more difference in young men than the color of their hair!

HOMEMADE WILL.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband and I have just made out our will. I copied from one that a lawyer made out for my mother except that I inserted different names, etc.

1. What should I do with it?
2. Do I make out a copy to be filed and where is it filed, etc?

Another friend of ours living in Wisconsin has done the same thing. Where does she file it, etc.? J. M.

1. If it has been executed in the manner provided by statute, that is enough.
2. No filing is required during the life of the testator.

While the statute does not require the employment of an attorney, we consider such employment advisable. If you try to economize by dispensing with expert help, you are likely to make mistakes which will cost much more than an attorney would have charged to see that the job was done right in the first place. In addition, an attorney might make valuable suggestions as to the wisdom of your testamentary plan.

If, despite the above, you wish to try to handle the matter for yourself, you should obtain a printed form from a stationer and see that it is executed in strict accordance with the attestation clause which precedes the space for signature of witnesses. The services of a notary are not necessary, and it is not safe to assume that a notary will be a competent adviser.

SHORT CUT?

[South Wales Echo.]

ALDERMANIC FACE LENGTHENS AT A WORD: ECONOMIZE

Told to Cut City Expenses Below 1940 Costs.

The day of judgment for city finances may be near at hand, members of the council finance committee agreed yesterday as they held their first discussion of the city's 1941 corporate or operating budget.

Their faces grew long when City Controler Robert B. Upham told them that the 1941 budget must be $1,031,000 less than in 1940, or a total of $55,553,393, after 10 per cent of the tax levy is deducted for loss and cost of collections.

Upham added that while present unpaid bills of the city were reduced to $8,273,408, or $1,065,544 less than at this time in 1939, this year it was done only because the city received a $3,100,000 windfall.

Another Windfall Needed.

"If the windfall we realized thru the sale of county judgments had not arrived our unpaid bills would have mounted," Upham warned. "They will continue to mount if we don't get a windfall next year and there is none in sight."

He said the only possible ways the unpaid bills and judgments against the city could be reduced would be to refund the bills, have sufficient delinquent taxes collected to meet them, or appropriate for actual expenditure less money than is anticipated to be collected from the tax levy. By a reduced appropriation, Upham said, a surplus would be left which could be applied against unpaid bills.

"This means our responsibilities are obvious, altho they may not be easy," said Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], committee chairman. "For two days employé representatives and civic groups have come before us asking that we spend more money—in fact, $5,000,000 more. Now the controler tells us we must spend less.

Says Blame Isn't Their's.

"This situation is not our fault. We have never over-appropriated, but we did inherit a load of unpaid bills and judgments. By appropriating 90 per cent of our tax levy as we do we run short because collections are slow."

"We have only received 76 per cent of the 1939 taxes," Upham said.

At the suggestion of Ald. George D. Kells [28th], a subcommittee headed by Kells was named to study possible ways of increasing the city's revenue from licenses. Upham has estimated the 1940 license and miscellaneous collections at $22,000,000, only $3,000 more than last year.

Arvey reminded the committee that next week the budget survey commission, named last spring by Mayor Kelly, is expected to bring in recommendations for budget cuts and departmental reorganizations.

"Whether we agree with the commission or not, we must cut," Arvey said.

Start Work Tuesday.

The committee agreed to start work on the 1941 corporate budget Tuesday. Meetings will be held day and night to complete the budget by Dec. 16, so that it can be printed, public hearings held, and presented to the council for passage the first week in January.

The finance committee now has two subcommittees looking for more ways to get money. A subcommittee, headed by Ald. John Grealis [44th], was named Thursday to consider some form of new taxation to supply money for requested police and fire department raises which would total approximately $2,000,000.

Grealis said yesterday his committee will meet next week and consider an occupational tax on all salaries of all persons working in Chicago. He said such a tax applies in Philadelphia, Pa. Legislative action would be necessary to make such a tax legal, Grealis said.

TRIPLET CALVES FROM INDIANA ARE ON DISPLAY

One of the unusual exhibits at this year's International Live Stock exposition, opening today in the International Amphitheater, will be the purebred Shorthorn triplet calves from the farm of Paul Foxworthy, near Crawfordsville, Ind. The heifer is named "Princess" and the two steers "Duke" and "Prince." Each weighs about 1,200 pounds and is 18 months old. They were raised on farm grown feed. Thruout the show, they will be on display with the car lot cattle outside the Stone gate near the amphitheater under the auspices of the American Shorthorn Breeders' association.

CAR LINES ASK TO STOP PAYING FOR CITY STREETS

James M. Sheean, counsel for the receiver of the surface lines, yesterday asked Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe to authorize the lines to stop putting away a reserve of $1,500,000 a year for compensation to the city for use of streets. The reserve, equal to 3 per cent of the lines' gross revenues, was begun under court order July 25, 1938, when the city and the lines got into a dispute as to whether the city should receive compensation. William H. Sexton, city traction counsel, said the city would oppose Sheean's request. Judge Igoe set a hearing for Jan. 31.

Chinese Banker Reported Kidnaped in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 29 (AP).—Percy Chu, one of China's foremost bankers and financiers, today was reported to have been kidnaped in the International settlement. He served as chief auditor in the Central Bank of China and later was general manager of the joint reserve board of the Shanghai Banker's association.

Winners in Stock Judging Contest

Harley Hanke (left), 19, of Brownsville, Minn., was announced last night as the highest point winner in noncollegiate stock judging contest held in connection with the International Live Stock show, opening today. The other boys composed the winning team of judgers. They are, left to right, William Martin, 16; Harry Fouche, 20, and Staley Hahn, 19, representing Maryland.

from 31 state agricultural colleges will begin appraising cattle, sheep, swine, and horses. Corn judging contests, begun yesterday, will continue, with the nobles of the corn realm—the king of the senior group and the prince of the juniors—expected to be named in several days.

The keynote of the judging contests was struck yesterday when 74 youngsters and one young woman—Doris Jones, 20, of Ebensburg, Pa.—unofficially started the exposition off in a nonintercollegiate live stock judging competition. The contestants, ranging in age from 11 to 20, and divided into teams of three from 25 states, all have won judging titles at state, county, or sectional fairs.

How Judging Is Done.

These youngsters—some of them in city suits, others still in high heeled Texan boots and wide brimmed hats—spent most of yesterday morning critically examining the Hampshire ewes and Southdown lambs, the Shorthorn heifers and Hereford steers, the Belgian mares and Percheron horses, and the Berkshire and Duroc-Jersey barrows.

With each group of judgers was an expert senior judge who noted his ratings of each animal. The contestants were required, after examinations, to list their ratings of each animal. Those whose ratings and reasons most closely approximated those of the senior judge were adjudged winners.

Harley E. Hanke, 19, of Brownsville, Minn. was acclaimed winner of the contest at a dinner for the juvenile judges last night in the Stockyards inn. Hanke has been a member of his local 4-H club for 10 years, is the son of a veteran farmer, and plans to own a large farm of his own someday. He scored 545 out of a possible 600 points in the judging contest.

Second place went to Staley Hahn, also 19, of Frederick, Md., who raises superior Duroc-Jersey swine and Ayreshire dairy cattle. Third honors were won by Malcolm E. Miller, 16, of Fennimore, Wis. Each was awarded a college scholarship offered by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The prize winning team was that representing Maryland, composed of Hahn, William Martin, of Monrovia, and Harry Fouche, of Adamstown. The team score was 1,543 out of a possible 1,800.

FORMER WHEAT KING MISSES STOCK SHOW; HE'S SERVING IN ARMY

One of the familiar figures at the International Live Stock show will be missing when the 1940 show opens today. He is Herman Trelle, the Canadian farmer who is the only four time winner of the "wheat king" title at the exposition.

Trelle is now known as Sapper M 40828 in the Canadian army, having enlisted recently from his home town in Wembley, Alta. He is attached to the Royal Engineers corps, stationed in Winnipeg.

Trelle won the wheat exhibit crown in 1927, 1928, 1930, and 1931. He and other Alberta farmers have captured many of the pea, barley, flax, and oats championships in recent years.

DRAW UP PERMIT ON DAY-TO-DAY BASIS FOR BUSES

Plan Flat Fee for Each Vehicle Operated.

A city council transportation subcommittee voted yesterday to draw up a day-to-day permit granting the use of city streets to the Chicago Motor Coach company and charging the company a flat fee for each bus it operates in the city.

The subcommittee also recommended that the city join in a petition before the Illinois Commerce commission asking a reduction in the present 10 cent fare on motor coaches.

Ald. John J. Duffy, subcommittee chairman, said the purpose of granting a short term permit to the bus company is twofold: to obtain compensation for use of streets, which heretofore has not been charged and to force the bus lines to join Chicago's proposed unified transit system by selling its properties to a new unified company.

Seek Park District Aid.

Ald. Duffy said that pressure can be put on the company to join the unification program if a day-to-day permit is granted rather than a franchise for a period of years. With such a permit, he said, the city can ask the park district to coöperate toward unification efforts by refusing to extend the bus company's franchises on park boulevards when they expire variously from 1942 to 1945.

If the city revokes its short term permit and the park board refuses to extend the present franchises, then the bus company will not have a legal right to operate unless it joins the unified system, Ald. Duffy said.

This was opposed by Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], who said the bus company should not receive any city franchise.

"We have promised the car riders of Chicago unified service and universal transfers and we can't give it to them unless the bus company is brought into one system along with the surface and elevated lines, which have already agreed to the merger," Ald. McDermott asserted.

Several years ago the bus company offered to join the unified system. Last September it asked 10 million dollars for its properties. Two weeks ago the company informed the city that it would prefer not to sell out and offered instead to work out transfer arrangements with other Chicago transit lines.

"Whether the company joins the program or not, it should not use city streets free," Ald. Duffy said. "We should draw up a permit at once. It is unfair for the surface and elevated lines to pay compensation to the city, while a competitor pays nothing."

The permit, omitting the exact compensation, will be prepared next week.

Court Will Get Request for Buses Along Airport

James J. Danaher, assistant corporation counsel, said yesterday that the city will ask Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe next week to authorize the surface lines to substitute bus service for street cars in Cicero avenue from Archer avenue to 64th street. The substitution would include removal of trolley wires and tracks which border the city airport. Their removal has been sought by the city on the ground that the wires are a hazard to planes.

JAILED FOR APARTMENT BURGLARY.

Wilbur Gilbert, 19 years old, 6241 Ellis avenue, who pleaded guilty of entering the apartment of David Wethington at 5200 Harper avenue and taking a wrist watch, was sentenced to six months in the county jail for petty larceny by Judge Joseph Drucker in Boys' court yesterday.

4 VOTE OFFICIALS OF 1ST WARD GET JAIL SENTENCES

Four election officials of the 16th precinct of the 1st ward were sentenced to jail yesterday by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on charges of vote fraud. They had been found guilty on Oct. 28.

Those sentenced are: Edward Winter, 2815 Michigan avenue, and Morris Feinberg, 2804 Indiana avenue, Democratic judges, two years each; and John Caminati, 131 East 26th street, Republican clerk, and James Knefell, 217 East 26th street, Democratic clerk, six months each. They were released on bond pending an appeal.

The alleged fraud occurred at the June 5, 1939, judicial election.

Plymouth, Ind., Nov. 29 [Special].—Clarence Emery Sr., 45, Kalamazoo, Mich., was killed today near Bremen, Ind., on U. S. road 6 when his truck collided with a truck driven by Charles Currey, Downers Grove, Ill. Currey was slightly injured.

ORDER REHEARING IN TWO DISPUTED BUS EXTENSIONS

The Illinois Commerce commission announced yesterday it will reopen a case involving two surface lines' bus extensions whose installation has been delayed by a dispute between the lines and the Chicago park district. The commission set a hearing for Dec. 10.

The extensions run from 25th and Central Park avenue to Kimball and Wrightwood avenues and in Division street from California to Monticello avenues. The commission last month ordered the new services installed, but because both routes touch on park district property the Park district asked compensation of 2 cents a bus mile for operations in its district.

Any weather is CHRISTMAS WEATHER on State Street

The Famous Field Clocks on State Street have looked down on many a Christmas scene. Sometime it's swirling snow, sometimes gusts of rain, sometimes clear and cold. But always it's Christmas weather. Rain, and there's Charley's friendly umbrella at the door or a garage attendant handy. Snow, and a hundred shovels wait to whisk it away; after the Thursday night storm, sidewalks were dry and clean by nine o'clock Friday morning. Elevated trains, busses, street cars—thousands of them converge at Marshall Field's to make a shopping journey easy and pleasant.

This Christmas an added, new service for motorists is available. In addition to the usual parking service by attendants at the Field Randolph Street entrance, a modern, new garage is available directly across Randolph Street. So that now the motorist shopper may turn his car over to a waiting garage driver or park it himself some fifty feet from the Field entrance, almost instantly available when needed.

That is why—no matter what the weather—Christmas shoppers come to State Street in happy throngs. There seems to be a sort of understanding between them and the wise old Field clocks—an agreement that

Christmas isn't Christmas without a day at Field's

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

A CAST OF STARS SINGS TONIGHT IN W-G-N OPERETTA

Gorin, Marion Claire Head 'Maritza' Company.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Outstanding artists, both musical and dramatic, will be featured in tonight's broadcast of the Chicago Tribune Theater of the Air program, when Emmerich Kalman's popular operetta, "The Countess Maritza," is presented. The operetta will be aired from 9 to 10 p. m. over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The headliners are Marion Claire, concert, screen, and radio star, and Igor Gorin, Viennese concert baritone, who will sing the leading rôles of Maritza and Count Tassilo. Lydia Summers, Chicago opera contralto, will sing the rôle of the gypsy, Manja.

Shilkret Will Conduct.

The noted conductor, Nathaniel Shilkret, will lead the W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus in place of Henry Weber, who is still busy with his duties as director of the Chicago Opera company. William A. Bacher is the producer of the program.

In the dramatic company on tonight's show will be Louise Barclay, Bret Morrison, Donn Reade, Marvin Mueller, John Goldsworthy, Jeanne Juvelier, Bob Jellison, Willard Waterman, and Dick Good.

Miss Juvelier, who will play the part of Freda, a maid, has a special interest in "Countess Maritza." A few years ago she sang the leading rôle of Maritza in the road company production of the operetta.

Gorin, hailed for his "Figaro" and "Rigoletto" rôles in Europe, has appeared several times on Theater of the Air broadcasts. He became an American citizen last fall.

Miss Summers a Star of Opera.

Miss Summers made her debut with the Chicago Opera as Mistress Page in "Falstaff" during the first week of the 1940 season. She will sing this rôle for the third time next Wednesday. She has appeared in "Salome," "Love of Three Kings," and "Cavalleria Rusticana." She will be heard in "Die Walküre," which will be broadcast in part by W-G-N next Monday evening, starting at 9:30 p. m.

A highlight of tonight's production will be the singing of the ever popular "Play Gypsies, Dance Gypsies," recurring theme of the operetta. Other favored musical numbers are "Gypsy Song," "Love Has Found My Heart," "All in Vain I'm Dreaming," and "The One I'm Looking For," all sung by Maritza; "The Call of Love" and the "Violin Duet," featuring Tassilo and Manja.

Several Chicago opera headliners will be studio guests tonight: Frederick Jagel, leading tenor of the Chicago, Metropolitan, and San Francisco operas; Elsa Zebranska, Latvian mezzo-soprano; Mack Harrell, baritone, and Florence Kirk, soprano.

TRUCK SMASHES INTO TROLLEY; 13 INJURED, 1 DEAD

Miss Virginia Steinmetz, 27 years old, 7832 Champlain avenue, was killed and 13 other passengers on a street car were injured, one seriously, early yesterday when a trailer-truck skidded into the side of the street car in front of 6968 Cottage Grove avenue.

Jack North of South Bend, Ind., the truck driver, told police he was driving north and about to pass the south bound street car when the trailer skidded out of control. He was charged with reckless driving and driving on the wrong side of the street.

The passenger seriously injured is Mrs. Jennie Bugwit, 25, of 7404½ Cottage Grove avenue. She was taken to Jackson Park hospital, where eight of the others injured remained for treatment.

Charles McGowen, 48, colored, of 5001 Vincennes avenue, died in an Urbana [Champaign county] hospital of burns and exposure as the result of an automobile accident near Allerton Thursday.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 800 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 582 were killed in Chicago, where 21,730 were injured in the same period.

'APPROVE TOMAN PLAN TO SET UP BACK TAX BUREAU

County Treasurer John Toman's proposed plan to set up a special bureau of 42 collectors of delinquent taxes was approved yesterday by the city council committee on consolidation, reorganization, and taxation.

The committee, headed by Ald. Frank Keenan [49th], recommended that the program and staff be enlarged so that personal property collections as well as real estate collections can be pushed. Toman's plan proposes to attack the real estate delinquency first.

The committee's report showed that 241 million dollars of personal property taxes billed from 1928 to 1938 have not been paid. The real estate delinquency for the same period was 143 million dollars.

MINIMUM OF $100 A MONTH URGED AS TEACHER PAY

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29 (AP).—Enactment of a $100 monthly minimum wage law for Illinois teachers and legislation to remove the state normal school board from "political control" were recommended today in reports of the Illinois Education association's legislative and resolutions committees.

The association claims to represent 47,000 public school teachers in the state.

Adoption by the legislature, convening in January, of the minimum wage legislation was proposed after the committees studied reports showing more than 8,500 teachers in Illinois now are paid less than $800 annually. Some teachers receive less than $400 a year, the association reported.

The committee reports will be subintendent of schools at Champaign, heads the resolutions committee. Their committee reports will be submitted to the representative assembly of the association in a meeting here Dec. 26.

FLORENCE YATES SCOBIE WINS LAKE COUNTY DIVORCE

Mrs. Florence Yates Scobie, who lives on a 27 acre estate at 730 South Ridge road, Lake Forest, and was known as the "richest woman in Wisconsin," was granted a divorce yesterday from David P. Scobie, an insurance broker, by Judge Ralph J. Dady in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan.

Mrs. Scobie charged her husband left her May 1, 1936, several months before he was named defendant in a $100,000 seduction and breach of promise suit brought by a dancer. The case was later settled for $8,500. Mrs. Scobie was granted custody of their daughter, Diane, 8 years old. They were married July 15, 1931. Mrs. Scobie inherited a fortune of millions from her father, Porter B. Yates, Beloit, Wis., manufacturer.

In the summer of 1939, Mrs. Scobie related to the judge, she proposed to her husband that they make a reconciliation trip thru the north woods. She testified he would not go unless she would consent to chaperons, so another couple went along. She said the effort failed, as had her other pleas.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A man killed Wednesday in a factory at 3201 South Wolcott avenue was identified in THE TRIBUNE Thursday as Bruno Nichols, 3228 North Carpenter street. This was erroneous. The correct name and address was Bruno Micholls, 3228 South Carpenter street. The misinformation came from the City News bureau.

RADIO SPEAKER SEEKS $200,000 IN SLANDER SUIT

A $200,000 slander suit was filed in Circuit court yesterday by Capt. E. Donald C. Herne, radio commentator, against William L. O'Neill Sr., a retired millionaire motor devices manufacturer. The suit, prepared by Attorney William Murphy, says that on Oct. 29 in the Lake Shore Drive hotel, where both Herne and O'Neill live, O'Neill spoke as follows to a crowd: "Why isn't Capt. Herne back in England fighting for his own country? He's just a propagandist here. If he is too old to fight, why isn't he training boys?"

OBITUARIES

Charles Sheridan Allanson.

The funeral of Charles Sheridan Allanson, 73 years old, 5529 Kenmore avenue, an appraiser, will be held today in Milwaukee. With his father, the late Capt. George Allanson, he operated the hotel, restaurant, and news business of the Milwaukee, Soo Line, Wisconsin Central, Minneapolis and St. Louis, and Iowa Central railroads for many years. In 1915 he sold the business and two years later was appointed manager of the northwest territory of the Fidelity Appraisal company. He became associated with the Kipp Nelson Appraisal company in 1938. Surviving are his widow, Myra; a daughter, and two sons.

Roger B. McMullen.

Roger B. McMullen, 88 years old, 1021 Grove street, Evanston, a retired manufacturer's representative, died yesterday in Passavant hospital after a brief illness. Mr. McMullen, a native of Picton, Ont., had lived in Chicago since 1873 and in Evanston since 1882. He was a member of the University club, Evanston, and a former member of the Union League club. In 1923 Mr. McMullen instituted suit for 100 million dollars against the German government, charging theft of a big gun patent whose development he had backed financially. Surviving are a son, Roger Jr., and two daughters, Margaret and Katherine. Private funeral services will be held Monday, with burial in Rosehill cemetery.

Henry Banderob.

Henry Banderob, city collector of Elmhurst for 14 years, died yesterday in Elmhurst Community hospital. Mr. Banderob, who was 69 years old, lived at 187 Berteau avenue in the suburb, where he had been active in civic affairs. Surviving are his widow, Julia, and two sons, Harold F. and Ralph B. Banderob. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 134 South York street, Elmhurst, with burial in Elm Lawn cemetery.

John P. Eichleay.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP).—John P. Eichleay, general manager of the Eichleay Engineering corporation and nationally known specialist in moving large buildings, died today in Wilmington, Del. He was 64 years old and had supervised the shifting of a 10 story building in Indianapolis and 42 buildings to clear a site for the West Virginia capitol. He had been in Wilmington directing the loading of army guns on flat cars.

John Kray.

John Kray, a jeweler in Des Plaines for 48 years, died yesterday in his home at 1425 Wacker street in the suburb. Mr. Kray, who was 77 years old, was brought to the United States from Germany when he was 3. He leaves his widow Adeline, and a daughter, Mrs. Esther M. Dalton of La Grange. Services will be held at 9:30 a. m., Monday in St. Mary's church, Des Plaines.

Carl F. G. Neuhaus.

Carl F. G. Neuhaus, a standardization engineer for the Crane company, died yesterday in his home at 5324 Leland avenue after a six month illness. He was 56 years old. His widow, Margaret, and a son, Roy, survive. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday from the chapel at 6216 Clark street.

Samuel R. Slaymaker.

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 29 [Special].—Samuel R. Slaymaker, founder of the Slaymaker Lock company and former owner of the Lancaster New Era, a daily newspaper, died yesterday. He was 74 years old.

Nicholas Meyer.

Lieut. Nicholas Meyer, a member of the Chicago fire department for 30 years and for the last 13 years driver for Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan, died yesterday at the age of 54 in Woodlawn hospital. He had undergone an emergency appendectomy Thursday night. Lieut. Meyer, who lived at 1523 West 78th street, was cited four times for bravery. His father, after whom he was named, also was a Chicago fireman and died in the line of duty. The widow, Frances, and two daughters survive. The funeral will be at 10 a. m. Monday from the home to St. Sabina's church.

Mrs. Phoebe G. Emery.

Services for Mrs. Phoebe G. Emery, who died Wednesday at the age of 95, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 124 Madison street, Oak Park. Mrs. Emery was a descendant of Revolutionary war families. She came to Chicago during the World's Columbian exposition of 1893 with her husband, the late Cheney H. Emery, and they remained here. Her home was at 114 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park. Two daughters, Mrs. Annie E. McGowan and Mrs. Lulu G. Gilbert, survive.

Thomas Fletcher.

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 29 [Special].—Thomas Fletcher, well known horseman who fought in two Boer wars with British troops, died here today at the age of 84 years. Fletcher once played the trumpet before Queen Victoria as a member of Royal cavalry, and was a trumpeter at the 1893 world's fair in Chicago. Born in England, he came here 50 years ago. Surviving are his widow, two daughters and a son, Thomas Hughes Fletcher, of Chicago.

Miss Anna Pettit.

Funeral services for Miss Anna Pettit, who taught in the Myra Bradwell elementary school from 1894 until 1931, will be held today in Los Angeles, Cal., where she died Thursday at the age of 79. She leaves a brother, Ralph E., and a sister, Lessie L. Pettit, an employé of the board of health.

William Robert Bassett.

New York, Nov. 29 [Special].—William Robert Bassett, for many years a prominent broker in refined sugar, died here today. He was 80 years old. He wrote the constitution of the National Association of Brokers of Refined Sugar and had been president of the association for many years.

Cudahy Family Busily Feting Visiting Kin

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE junior John N. Stearnses, who arrived on Thursday from their home in New York, hardly will spend two nights in the same place during their five-day visit. They arrived in time for a family dinner Thursday night with Mrs. Stearns' father, Edward A. Cudahy, a sort of combination Thanksgiving and wedding anniversary celebration. Mr. and Mrs. Stearns were married on Nov. 26 nine years ago and Mr. Cudahy and his late wife were married on Nov. 24, 1884. The Cudahys always celebrated on Thanksgiving and the Stearnses do the same. They still cling to the last Thursday in the month as the holiday.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Stearns were the guests in Lake Forest of one of Mrs. Stearns' sisters, Mrs. Austin H. Niblack. Tonight the visitors will sleep at another sister's, Mrs. Vaughan Spalding's, in the same north shore town, after attending the dinner-dance at the Onwentsia club that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Connors will give.

Tomorrow Mrs. Clarence Prentice is giving a luncheon at her home in Lake Forest for the former Alice Cudahy McCormick and Mr. Stearns. Tomorrow night they will come back to town to spend the night with Mrs. Stearns' other sister, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm. Their last night here, Monday, will be spent with Mr. Cudahy again and the next day they will depart for their home.

Mr. Connors Celebrating His 50th Birthday.

The party the Connorses will give tonight is to celebrate Mr. Connors' 50th birthday. Both Mr. and Mrs. Connors are noted as party-givers and he made an enviable reputation as chairman of the entertainment committee of the Onwentsia, so all their guests are anticipating tonight's affair with delight. The large room in the club in which Mr. and Mrs. Connors will entertain is to be made into a sort of night club with the crowd at small tables and with professional entertainment.

Quite a number of Mr. Connors' out of town friends have come to wish him many happy returns, including the Nelson Talbotts of Dayton, the Sevier Bonnies of Louisville, the Stanley Hawkeses of Minneapolis, and the Croil Hunters and Homer Sweeneys of St. Paul.

A good part of the fun of the gay '90s party Miss Nancy Dangler and her brother, Henry, are giving tonight at the David Dangler home in Lake Forest, started 10 days ago when replies to their invitations came pouring in. Miss Nancy and Harry sent out gay rhymed "invites" bidding their friends to don pompadours and bustles, straw hats and mustaches, and hop on a "bicycle built for two" and come wheeling over to the Dangler home for a real old-fashioned party. The replies have kept the Danglers "in stitches" for days, for they, too, were almost all written in rhyme.

Dinners and Parties to Precede Affair.

The belles and beaux who will "trip the light fantastic" à la Gibson girl tonight will be well fortified for fun, for numerous cocktail dinner parties are being given beforehand. Miss Louise Blossom and Miss Anne Stuart are joining forces for a cocktail and dinner party which is almost "progressive," for cocktails will be served at the Lake Forest home of the George W. Blossom Jrs., and dinner at the R. Douglas Stuarts.

Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer will entertain at dinner some of the older folk who are going to help turn the clock back half a century at the Danglers. Miss Adrienne Ely's dinner guests at the Lake Forest home of her mother, Mrs. Uri B. Grannis, will be a group of debutantes and their beaux. The Misses Betty and Caryl Broome, who are the especial guests of the Danglers at tonight's party, will be among those at Miss Ely's dinner.

Mrs. Ernest R. Graham will be hostess at a luncheon in the Blue Fountain room of the Hotel La Salle today for Mrs. Hayden B. Harris of Leesburg, Va., a former Chicagoan on a visit here. After luncheon the party will attend the opera matinée of "Der Rosenkavalier."

Engagement of Interest Being Announced in East.

Announcement will be made in Boston today of the engagement of Miss Miriam Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Britton Little of Concord, Mass., to Franklin Corning Kenly Jr.

Both have many friends here. Miss Little, who attended Westover school and made her debut in Boston in 1935, has been a frequent visitor in Lake Forest. Mr. Kenly, who attended the Thatcher school and Harvard, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Corning Kenly of Medford, Ore., and a grandson of the late Mrs. Granger Farwell of Lake Forest.

His mother, the former Ruth Farwell, and father have been here for the last week, having come for a Thanksgiving reunion with Mrs. Kenly's sisters, Mrs. Lawrence B. Robbins, Mrs. Richard D. Stevenson, and Mrs. Farwell Hill. They plan to depart early next week for the east to visit Corning, who now is working in Boston, and his brother, Granger, who is studying at Harvard.

Tonight's Misericordia benefit dinner-dance at the Stevens hotel will be prefaced by many gay cocktail parties. Among those who will entertain are Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Hewell, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Whitty, Mr. and Mrs. Clemens H. Bruns, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. King, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Lyman, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crooks.

Bundles for Britain will be taken to the Saddle and Cycle club tonight by the teen age boys and girls who belong to the Dinner Dance club, for the club voted to make tonight's party a British relief. The British consul general, Lewis Bernays, and Mrs. Bernays, and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Faherty will be the chaperones.

Youthful Mannequins

Bruce and Cynthia Cutler, children of the Paul W. Cutlers of Wilmette, were among the most youthful mannequins in a fashion show given recently at the home of Mrs. Harry E. Mock in Evanston for the benefit of the Chicago Maternity center. The North Shore auxiliary of the center arranged the benefit.

Cuff Notes.

Remember Walter Huston singing the September Song in Knickerbocker Holiday? The conductor of the theater orchestra who held all those musicians under Walter Huston's tiny voice is the same Maurice de Abravanel, who has no trouble at all holding the opera orchestra under the voices of Helen Jepson, Grace Moore, and other Chicago opera stars. Maurice de Abravanel was one of the brilliant students in Lausanne, Switzerland, when William Wyler, motion picture director, and Rene Traveletti, Chicago architect, were fellow students there.

Entry for hat of the week: The tomato red, soft pancake of a turban Mrs. Paul Walker had on at tea time at Camellia House the other day, with a good old Plymouth Rock hen nesting contentedly in the center, white dots and all. . . . Another note for femmes: The newest gown of Helen Jepson, who celebrated her birthday anniversary with a party at Camellia House after last night's performance, is white chiffon, bouffant, with a much ruffled skirt, each ruffle embroidered in tiny ostrich tips. With it she wears a short ermine jacket, which has a fitted-in waist with a flaring peplum. Cost of dress, $1,000.

A letter from Julian Huxley (to Henry Field) on conditions in the London zoo, written with typical British understatement:

We are having pretty heavy weather here in the shape of material damage, but extraordinarily little in the way of casualties. One goose killed at Whipsnade and three humming birds escaped here! . . . Life cannot be said to be very pleasant, but certainly very interesting. . . ."

Speaking of animals and pets in England, a recent dispatch from James B. Reston in the New York Times says: "The trouble to which the British people and officials have gone to for their pets is simply staggering. Every night in London, for example, the R. S. P. A. has 240 ambulances available to go and take care of injured pets. Hundreds of voluntary workers, including veterinary surgeons all over the country, are giving their services free and risking their own lives every night to take care of these animals. Every day these same workers prowl among the débris of smashed houses to rescue trapped dogs and cats, or destroy those too badly injured to be saved. Special animal shelters have been built in parks, and private canteens have been set up to feed stray dogs."

Miss Laughlin's Dream.

Miss Clara Laughlin, whose newest travel book, So You're Going South, will be out next week, has done a lot of reflecting on George Washington, partly in connection with her book on the south, partly in connection with the lectures on "Historic Homes of America" she will give in January about Mrs. James Ward Thorne's new series of historic American rooms. The other night Miss Laughlin, who has been trying to make George Washington realizable as a person who frequented some of the rooms she will talk about, dreamed about him. In her dream he was dining at her apartment on Lincoln Park West.

"Do you know, you're a great surprise to me," she told him in her dream. "I didn't know you were like this."

The Father of Our Country gently asked what she had thought.

"Well, I thought you were kind of a stiff," Miss Laughlin elegantly informed him.

Miss Laughlin has fittingly dedicated her book "In gratitude and admiration to the women of the south in those organizations which have done such great work in preserving the memorials of other days, and in keeping us reminded of their dignity and graciousness." It might be noted here that it was a woman of the south, Pamela Cunningham, who started the project to save Mount Vernon when it had been decided to turn it into an amusement park.

She is the newly elected president of the club, which has its attractive quarters on the second floor of the building. Last night's party was a dinner, followed by a dance recital by Carmalita Maracci.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Last night's "La Traviata," presented at reduced prices under the sponsorship of the board of education, gave the Chicago Opera company's student audience one of the most satisfactory bargains in the history of resident opera. The performance was one which reasonably might have been offered at full price, for Helen Jepson sang Violetta, Attilio Baggiore made his first operatic appearance since attaining renown as a radio artist, and George Czaplicki sang the elder Germont. Kurt Herbert Adler, in his first assignment of the season, was the conductor.

Mr. Baggiore, known to the nation-wide audience of the Mutual network, returned to the opera house in which he had made his American début, nearly nine years ago, in "Lucia di Lammermoor." He quickly established that his devotion to radio, to the exclusion of the Chicago Opera company, had not caused him to forget the ways and means of the operatic stage.

In the first act, to be sure, his singing was a little uneven, as tho he were recapturing by degrees the feeling of the large auditorium. But his aria at the beginning of the second act, "Dei miei bollenti spiriti," was excellent, both in its smoothly sustained vocal line and in its traditionally authoritative interpretation. In the fourth act duet with Miss Jepson, "Parigi o cara," his voice took on an especially attractive sheen, and he made good use of a soft high falsetto.

While Mr. Baggiore's voice is quite light in weight, it has a fine, live timbre, especially in the middle register. With further operatic appearances he probably would deal with his top voice more courageously than he did at times last night. I thought I detected some typical microphone inhibitions to completely free delivery of A's and B-flats.

Mr. Baggiore won a splendid reception from the audience, as Miss Jepson and Mr. Czaplicki also did. Miss Jepson was in her most superb form, quite surpassing even her very best performances earlier in the season. Seldom if ever in her entire career has she attained so fully the combination of irreproachable vocal mastery with meaningful nuance and expression. Her acting also took on new naturalness, fluency and warmth. Since this seems to be a season for picking a favorite Violetta, I will vote for Miss Jepson as mine. Certainly in singing the music she has no peer at the present time.

Mr. Czaplicki's Germont is a convincing, sympathetic piece of operatic portraiture. A most gratifying sense of proportion and understanding of musical symmetry, along with great felicity in handling the problems of the stage, make his Germont the best conceived one we have heard this season, if not always tonally the most blandishing.

Mr. Adler conducted, for the most part, with spirit and understanding. He still needs the experience of more public performance, however, and there were passages which betrayed a lack of acquaintance with some of the customary tempi—passages in which familiar tempi would have allowed the singers to accomplish their effects with more confidence.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Don't fail to look at all the lovely things in lucite! It's a little hard to visualize them, but to see them is to decide that budgets don't count. You just want 'em.

In one shop in town we saw a bath tray that's positively Hollywoodish; as a matter of fact it had been specially ordered from that town for a customer. It's a rather wide tray of lucite that sets across the tub; in the center is a hinged mirror that swings up. If you like to spend the time in the tub looking at your pretty face the mirror makes it simple.

A bit more along the lines of things we can afford are the lucite hand mirrors and brushes. These are perfectly stunning, not at all as cold looking as we somehow expect lucite thing sto be. They're beautifully designed and very much in the luxurious class. Lucite is a new and exciting medium for dresser ornaments, so the beautiful things made of it are not exactly cheap. But they're luxurious and, judging by what we see in the shops, this is a year for luxurious gifts.

Versatile

Margit Bokor, whose versatility saved postponement of the opera "Der Rosenkavalier" this afternoon.

Margit Bokor Saves Opera Postponement

The remarkable versatility of Margit Bokor, the piquant new Hungarian soprano of the Chicago Opera company, is saving this afternoon's Civic Opera house performance of Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" from postponement. For three days Risé Stevens, the American mezzo-soprano scheduled for the part of Octavian, has been suffering from a bad cold, and yesterday it became apparent that she would not recover quickly enough to sing this afternoon.

Miss Bokor has been rehearsing all week with Fritz Reiner, the distinguished guest conductor who is directing the performance, in the rôle of Sophie. But she has sung, at one time or another, all three leading feminine röles in "Der Rosenkavalier," and it was a simple matter for her to shift quickly to Miss Stevens' part. A new Sophie, Melita Farrell of the Metropolitan Opera, arrives by train this morning. Bad weather prevented her from flying out from New York.

As it happens, many more singers know the part of Sophie than that of Octavian, and except for Miss Bokor's unusual adaptability it might have been difficult or impossible to revise the cast on such short notice. Her last performance as Octavian took place in Antwerp in 1937; in San Francisco last month she sang Sophie.

Miss Stevens caught her untimely cold in the course of a trip from California by air. Blizzards in New Mexico forced the plane down twice. She tried to cancel a concert engagement in Buffalo, N. Y., on Tuesday, but the management required her to fulfill her contract. By the time she reached Chicago on Wednesday morning the unusual strain "took its toll on her voice."

Miss Farrell, a newcomer to the Chicago operatic stage, made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera in 1937, and has remained a member of the New York company since that time. A native of Berlin, she made her first concert and operatic appearances in the German capital. She has sung with success in Prague and London, and also at the famous Mozart festival in Glyndebourne, England.

This afternoon's performance of "Der Rosenkavalier" marks the Chicago operatic debut of Mr. Reiner, conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra. Mr. Reiner conducted at Ravinia for a week in August, 1937. Maria Hussa, Viennese soprano, makes her first Chicago operatic appearance as the princess. The great comic rôle of Baron Ochs will be sung by Emanuel List.

Here Is Story of Opera Being Sung Tonight

"LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR."

[Opera in three acts. Music by Gaetano Donizetti. Libretto by Salvatore Cammarano, based on Sir Walter Scott's novel, "The Bride of Lammermoor." The scene is laid in Scotland in the 16th century.]

Act 1, Scene 1—The guards of the castle of Lammermoor are hunting a mysterious man who has been seen lately in the grounds. Norman, leader of the guards, tells Lord Henry Ashton, master of Lammermoor, that the stranger is probably Edgar of Ravenswood, whom Lord Ashton has wronged. Ashton learns also that his sister, Lucy, was saved from a bull one day by a stranger whom she now loves and meets regularly. This stranger, of course, is Edgar.

Act 1, Scene 2—Lucy and her maid, Alice, are waiting for Edgar in a park near by. When Edgar arrives he tells Lucy that he has been ordered to France. The two lovers exchange vows of fidelity.

Act 2, Scene 1—In a room in the castle Lord Ashton plots to improve his fortunes by marrying his sister to the wealthy Lord Arthur Bucklaw. By means of a forged letter he convinces her that Edgar is unfaithful to her. Miserably she consents to the loveless marriage with Bucklaw.

Act 2, Scene 2—The wedding takes place in the hall of the castle. Edgar rushes in, sees his betrothed the bride of another, and curses Lucy and all her family.

Act 3, Scene 1—Lord Ashton comes to Ravenswood castle and challenges the hated Edgar to a duel. They engage to fight at dawn.

Act 3, Scene 2—In the meantime the laughter and feasting are still going on among the wedding guests back at Lammermoor. Word is brought that Lucy has lost her mind and has killed the bridegroom. Now Lucy herself appears. Her poor demented mind is full of visions of her never to be celebrated wedding with Edgar. She declares that she will go to him in death, and she falls swooning into the arms of her attendant.

Act 3, Scene 3—Edgar is standing among the tombs of his ancestors, gloomily brooding. People coming from Lammermoor tell him that Lucy loves him and is sick with grief. A tolling bell now announces that she is dead. Edgar, praying that he may rejoin Lucy in another world, stabs himself to the heart.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 29. — The James Roosevelt office has been getting a number of protests, mostly from women, by mail and long distance phone, over the casting of Paulette Goddard in "Pot o' Gold." . . . One of the big silent stars is now staging stag shows. . . . After "Nice Girl," Deanna Durbin will get away from comedy for the first time in her career and have a go at melodrama. The picture will be a glorified remake of "The Phantom of the Opera," in technicolor, with Broderick Crawford as the phantom. It will be Henry Koster's first crack at a color film. An artist himself, Koster has long been campaigning for a chance at the medium, and believes that in three or four years there will be no more black and white movies.

The old "Phantom" set still stands at Universal and will be freshened up. Koster used it once before, remodeling it a bit to make it look like a New York concert hall and using it for the Durbin-Stokowski "100 Men and a Girl."

Before the "Phantom" Koster will make two other comedies. One is inspired by Gen. Pershing, who once was reported dying but recovered and resumed an active life. The movie will start with a sad scene of an old man's deathbed, with relatives weeping. But the old boy gets better and better and younger and younger and gayer and gayer. Walter Huston is a possibility for this one.

Going back to Koster and technicolor, it is the director's theory that up to now the medium has not been well exploited except in a few instances. "It's the same way it was when sound came in," he says. "Sound was so wonderful that pictures had too much of it.

"I'd like to make color pictures with very little color. Black and grays and whites—and then when you need color for a dramatic effect it will have dramatic values. For instance, the scene in which Scarlett O'Hara confronts the tea party in 'Gone with the Wind.' Her red velvet dress in those surroundings is dramatic . . . in 'The Phantom' there is a murder backstage. It will all be gray and black; no color, except a small trickle of blood from the corpse."

Abbott and Costello go to San Pedro Monday to be initiated in the routine of conscription. Slated for a film called "Buck Privates," they'll be made honorary privates in the 3d coast artillery and will give a show for about 450 conscriptees. . . . The well I'll be darned department: John Garfield has bought 17 acres near Torrance and will raise popcorn. . . . Warners are dickering for a novel by Alexander Knox, actor in "The Sea Wolf." It's called "The Bride of Quietness" and might be an Ida Lupino vehicle. . . . John Ford rates right up at the top when it comes to directing expensive stories. Other film wizards may make more costly epics, but Ford's initial expense—the cost of getting a yarn ready for the screen—runs high. "The Grapes of Wrath" cost $70,000 to put before the cameras. "Tobacco Road" cost $250,000 before a camera turned—$200,000 to Jack Kirkland and Erskine Caldwell for screen rights, another $50,000 for preparing the script. . . . Yoo-hoo department: Cesar Romero, the Cisco Kid, has been given a new portable dressing room at Fox. It has tufted satin walls. But it isn't The Kid's fault. The thing used to belong to Simone Simone.

Maracci Dance Group Displays Vigor, Boldness

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The dance company of Carmalita Maracci, an American of Uruguayan birth and Spanish-Italian extraction, will make its first public appearance in Chicago at the Civic theater this afternoon, following it with another program tonight and a third tomorrow night. Members and guests of the Arts club enjoyed a private preview last evening in their Wrigley building quarters. These notes are based on the first half of that program.

Maracci is a violent, volcanic sort of woman who has bent the Spanish dance and even the classic dance to her own highly personal uses. She is more interested in salty humor, abrupt drama, and apt characterization than she is in dancing for its own sake.

Her work has immense vigor and abandon and freedom. She utilizes the whole stage for her maneuvers, which are marked by boldness and an angry originality rather than by the subtleties which we usually associate with the Spanish dance.

She uses posture and grimace more as an actress than a dancer. In some of her stronger characterizations she makes faces so terrifying that they would set a child to whimpering.

When she wants to, Maracci can be deftly humorous. She has a take-off on the classical dance which becomes actually hilarious.

The three members of her company who appeared during the first half of the program show some of the same qualities as their leader. You never heard such a furious clacking of heels nor saw three such determined looking young women practicing their art. The pianist, Nino Albanese, partakes of the same strength and uses the same strong accents.

The show has huge vitality. It was roundly applauded last night.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Cheli Scott, Norma Tredwill goes to the city to break up the romance between her philandering ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her stepdaughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment and discovers Paul Gerente murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Paul Gerente—with orders in code from the Naval Intelligence. They are instructions in case New York should be plunged into darkness by war, giving the five vital points in the city where sabotage might occur. Worried for fear Barbara might be implicated in the murder, Norma telephones Cameron, the man in the apartment below Paul's, to find out whether he or some one in Paul's apartment let her in. Maclain finds Cameron in Paul's apartment with the dead man, and Cameron glibly confesses to the murder. The police arrest Cameron, but Maclain doubts his confession. Far off in California, a girl spy questions her escort about the nation's new bombing sight. Bunny Carter, president of the aircraft works where Norma's step-son, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, gives the troubled Norma a lift home, but she dares not confide in him until she talks to Barbara. Barbara's brother, Stacy, telephones Norma that Barbara is missing and must have eloped with Paul Gerente, but Norma knows Paul Gerente is dead.

INSTALMENT XII.

THE BANGING DOOR.

Norma shook her head in defeated bewilderment. She had told Stacy nothing over the phone, except to hurry home. She was glad of it now. In the morning she could talk to him, tell him to say nothing about Babs' visit to Paul, try to explain it to him in some plausible way. She was certain of one thing—Babs Tredwill had not turned herself into a fugitive from the law just because she had blundered in onto Paul Gerente's body on the floor.

Chill had crept into The Crags. It clung about Norma's slim ankles like an invisible fluid rising slowly about the chair. When she stood up the weight of her fur coat dragged at her soggily, reminding her that she still had it on. Fighting an inclination to relax in the chair again and sleep until morning, she stood for a few seconds brushing at a damp spot on the coat with the tips of her fingers. The thought of her own bed finally proved incentive enough to take her back into the hall.

Her handbag and the paper wrapped galoshes were on a small table where she had placed them when she answered the phone. She picked them up and put them down again. The night light and her tautened nerves were jesting with her. Both her gloves had been on top of the galoshes when she went into the living room. Now only one of them was there. The other one lay at the end of a big oriental rug halfway across the hall.

Norma picked it up, retrieved her handbag and parcel, and stood uncomprehendingly looking from the front door to the stairway. "I better get to bed," she told herself firmly. "I'm walking in my sleep. I dropped that glove way over toward the dining room door, and I don't remember being there."

Not until she was in her room did she begin to wonder if one of the servants hadn't heard the telephone and come downstairs. Christmas was near. Bella, the house maid, was nosey. She might have tried to peek in a parcel if she saw one in the hall. The conclusion of Norma's talk with Stacy had probably frightened her away.

"There's no use questioning her," Norma thought. "She won't admit it even if it's true."

Once in bed, Norma found that all of her bones were aching. Wide-eyed, she lay listening to the whine of the storm, wondering if she were coming down with an attack of the flu. She finally surrendered entirely to her wakefulness, and laid it unreasonably to Babs' galoshes. She had slipped them under her bed, still in their paper wrapping. Sleep might come if she got up again and put them away.

By the pink shaded glow of a table lamp, she put on slippers and a warm woolen bathrobe. The package was loosely tied and opened easily. Norma put the brown paper and string in a wastebasket beside her small desk and acting with a furtiveness which wasn't quite clear to her, filled the top of the wastebasket with white tissue paper taken from a drawer.

The guest room, occupied by Cheli Scott, was near by, but Norma had no fear of disturbing her guest. Cheli slept soundly, and Norma's soft padded slippers fell noiselessly against the thickness of the carpet in the hall.

Holding the galoshes pressed against her breast with both hands, she stopped outside of Babs' closed door. Sheepishly, she admitted her oversight. Certain from Stacy's call that Babs had fled, she had neglected to look in the most obvious place where Babs might be—the girl's own room. Under the drive of panic, Babs might easily have taken her things from the Ritters and caught an earlier train home.

Norma guardedly opened the door and went in. The lulling hum of an electric clock was the only sound. Uninterrupted by any breath or movement of a sleeping occupant, the steady whirr of the timepiece attested to the vacancy of the room.

She switched on the lights and looked about her. The room was in perfect order, undisturbed from its cleaning during the day. Its perfection and beauty reflected Babs. The girl had something of the same sleek comfort about her, the same exquisite warmth. Norma felt doubly depressed. Babs, like her boudoir, was a product of much money, and the products of much money were often fragile and in need of loving care. Like the shimmering satin coverlet on the bed, Babs belonged at home. It was doubtful that she could ever survive the racking ordeal of a fear-impelled flight thru a winter storm.

Norma closed her mind against a thousand questions. Had the child any money? Would she seek the doubtful safety of friends in another city? If she hadn't struck down Paul Gerente—why had she gone? If she had killed him in a struggle—where in the name of heaven could she go?

An automatic light clicked on in the closet as Norma opened the door. A colorful line of dresses on hangers crowded the interior. On the shelf, a row of hats on separate holders vied with each other in an exotic display. Metal shoe racks fastened to the inside of the closet door held 20 pairs or more.

Norma decided against the shoe racks. The fur tops of the overshoes stood out too conspicuously among the dainty slippers. She pushed some of the dresses aside and placed the galoshes on the closet floor. The dresses swung back over them again hiding them from view. With a feeling of lightness, as tho she had rid herself of some dragging encumbrance, she shut the closet, put out the lights, and started back to her room.

Halfway down the hall she paused and wrapped her bathrobe closer about her. The wind whipped up outside in a sudden strong noisy flurry. Far downstairs, probably from the basement, came the slam of a door.

Her only reaction was to suppress an exclamation of annoyance, for she had heard that particular door before. It led from the laundry into the storeroom, and the latch never held. Unless it was locked with the key, its irritating slamming began sooner or later when the wind started to blow. Once begun, the slamming kept up indefinitely.

She decided to go and lock it herself, rather than call Pierce on the house telephone. But at the top of the steps she paused again, recalling with slight uneasiness the incident of her glove in the downstairs hall.

Stubborn dislike of weakness in herself urged her on. She had made that trip to the basement at night more than once. Certainly she didn't intend to have her life at The Crags disrupted by the hectic events of a single day. If Bella, the housemaid, had dropped the glove, then Bella might have unlocked the storeroom door as well. Bella was not only nosey, she had a deep rooted love for jams and jellies. The storeroom contained quite a selection.

Norma pushed a switch at the stairhead and descended with more assurance when light streamed up from the lower hall. Habit, more than anything else, caused her to fasten the heavy brass safety chain on the double front door—a Tredwill habit which left a final lockup for the last one in. Interrupted by Stacy's telephone call she had overlooked it before.

She went thru living room and dining room into another hall. There, the lights set high in a dome seemed dim. Great draperies of crimson swept down from the ceiling, held by medieval weapons against the walls. Burnished suits of armor stood on pedestals. Shells of ancient men, they watched her with vacant faces as she passed, saluting her with motionless halberds in their hands.

At the end of the hall she avoided the entrance to Thad's miniature theater and took a door to the right which led to the basement stairs. A switch at the top landing lighted a bulb in the laundry below. Norma went on down. The cold of the concrete crept thru the soles of her slippers as she crossed the laundry to the storeroom door.

The door was locked. Hanging on a nail beside it was the old fashioned key. Yet Bella must have been there, for lingering above the clean soapy smell of the laundry was a trace of violet perfume.

In the boiler room to the right the oil burner flashed into action with a muffled pop—warning Norma that morning was very near. Out of a darkened passage to the left an icy draft swept thru the laundry as tho the starting of the heater had drawn it irresistibly toward the flame.

"Bella." Norma called the maid's name softly. Gil's workshop lay at the end of the darkened passage. Gil had used it since he was a boy of 10.

Hollandaise sauce is tricky to make. It is quite likely to curdle or separate if great pains aren't taken in making it, so most cooks are perfectly delighted when they learn that a delicious hollandaise may be purchased in the jar. It's made with butter, eggs, and lemon juice, with no filler. It's the real thing. And how delicious on broccoli, asparagus, artichokes!

The same company has a bearnaise sauce, too, good for all kinds of fish, chops, and steaks. A number of grocers in Chicago and suburbs now have these sauces. More information on request.

ANOTHER COOKBOOK: This is a good one for folks who like to entertain. It's full of clever little ideas for parties, from invitations to entertainment, with most of the accent on food, of course. It's illustrated with drawings which make clear just how your table or food is to look. Called "Sunset's Hostess Book," it was prepared by the foods editor of a western magazine. The price is a dollar.

What does sour milk or cream do for a batter or dough? First, it has a tenderizing effect upon the gluten in the flour. Second, the lactic acid tends to bleach the gluten, making the biscuits whiter.

If the milk is just beginning to sour, the biscuits or muffins may not need soda at all. Baking powder will do the leavening and the slight acidity will improve color, texture, and maybe even volume of the baked goods. For really sour milk, it is usually necessary to use one-half teaspoon soda to neutralize excess acid. Soda may be all the leavening needed for biscuits, but for rich muffins or cake, baking powder in addition improves volume and texture.

It is better to use too little soda than too much. Excess soda is harmful to flavor and acts to destroy the important vitamin B1 in a dough.

Bread for stuffing chicken, duck, goose, turkey, or a roast should be slightly stale. It should be broken or cut into small pieces, and may be toasted lightly in the oven. Part or all of the crumbs may be browned in butter, if desired. When other dressing ingredients have been added to the crumbs, only enough liquid should be added to moisten the stuffing lightly.

GASOLINE ALLEY—REFLECTION

SATURDAY NIGHT AND NO DATE. A FELLA CAN HAVE A LOT MORE FUN ALONE!
IF I TOOK DOLORES OUT, I'D HAVE TO TAKE HER BROTHER HORACE—WHICH IS NO FUN AND I CAN'T AFFORD TAKING THREE.
AND THEN NINA MAY COME TO TOWN BEFORE LONG AND IT'S BETTER NOT TO HAVE COMPLICATIONS.
GIRLS ARE NICE, ESPECIALLY ON MOONLIGHT NIGHTS. BUT YOU'VE GOT TO BE ABLE TO TAKE 'EM OR LEAVE 'EM ALONE.

Miss Elizabeth Dewes to Wed This Afternoon

At a small wedding at 4:30 o'clock today in the home of her mother, Mrs. Edwin Peter Dewes of Scott street, Miss Elisabeth Goode Dewes will become the bride of Paul Winthrop Oliver. Mr. Oliver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Oliver of Scarsdale, N. Y. A small reception at the Fortnightly will follow the ceremony.

Miss Dewes will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Richard K. Juergens [Dorothy Dewes], as matron of honor. James Henry Oliver Jr. will be best man for his brother. Miss Dewes' godfather, Krebs Beebe, will give her in marriage.

Miss Florence Isabella Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walsh of Winnetka, will become the bride of Robert Everett Hunt at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Children's chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church, with the Rev. Dr. Samuel Harkness officiating. Mr. Hunt is the son of Mrs. Ernest Hunt of Des Moines, Ia., and the late Dr. Hunt.

Miss Katherine Chapman Griswold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Griswold of Wethersfield, Conn., will become the bride at 4 o'clock this afternoon in her parents' home of Robert W. Spellman of West Hartford, Conn., son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Spellman of Lake Forest. The Rev. Eugene M. Bushong will officiate at the ceremony, which will be followed by a small reception.

At a ceremony at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Grace Episcopal church, Miss Marguerite Clare Cotsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cotsworth Jr. of Oak Park, will become the bride of Arthur Howard Hammann. Mr. Hammann is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Hammann of Oak Park. The Rev. Harold Holt will perform the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the Nineteenth Century Woman's club.

Miss Elaine Rosenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rosenberg of Kenwood avenue, will become the bride tonight of Maurice H. Bronner at the Standard club. Mr. Bronner is the son of Mrs. Maurice H. Bronner of Ellis avenue. Rabb Morton Berman of Isaiah-Israel temple will perform the ceremony.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

A feminine fashion writer and an ace flyer—both Americans—provide the romantic interest in this story, which subordinates romance to the stern business of the present European war.

It is a story potent and painful, but generously tinctured with humor. . . . [Thank heaven, laughter isn't dead yet. When it is—good-by Human Race!] And it is a tale competently provided with all those assets requisite for good entertainment.

Augusta Nash, the gay heroine, decides that she would like to write real man size news stories. So—to provide a certain news service with a scoop, she rescues a certain debonair aviator—Tom Martin—from a Spanish firing squad and in hair-raising, ten, twent,' thirt' any-movie-sereal fashion escapes with him across the border into France. . . . Girl lands Berlin job. . . .

They fall in love. . . . War breaks. . . . They decide to go home, AND start—on the Athenia. . . . But, you see, it just isn't in the cards for them to—yet—find the peace and shelter that is America. . . . Saved from the wreck, they return to active duty in war torn lands, staying there until a bullet signs release for Tom. No longer is he able to soar with the other war eagles. But he is still able to—see the picture for news of ensuing happenings.

"Arise, My Love" is intensely interesting. It's honestly directed. Mr. Milland turns in a colorful and believable performance. He's one of those "easy" players. At home wherever you put him. Miss Colbert, prettier than I've ever seen her before—just acts. Splendid portrayals are contributed by Walter Abel as head of the press bureau—tho I DID get bored with his constant reiteration of the fact that he isn't "very happy," George Zucco as the prison governor, and Frank Publia as a priest.

The film is strikingly backgrounded and suspense broods over even its lightest moments.

Showmen's League Holds Annual Charity Ball Dec. 4

The Showmen's League of America will stage its annual charity banquet and ball in the Hotel Sherman on Dec. 4 and more than 1,200 showmen men and equipment manufacturers are expected to attend, it was announced yesterday. Proceeds will go to the league's fund for the care of show people who are ill or in need.

Ideas for Christmas Sewing

DOLL CLOTHES AND ACCESSORIES.

Still time to do your Christmas gift sewing! Today's various patterns offer suggestions for accessory gifts all your feminine friends will delight to have, and making them yourself saves you money and adds that valuable personal touch of thoughtfulness. The doll clothes certainly will delight your juvenile acquaintances.

Style No. 3248 is designed for one size, adaptable.

Style No. 3012 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. Medium size requires ¾ yard of 54 inch material for jerkin. Pattern includes belt, brimmed hat, and gored hat and collar [not shown].

Style No. 2755 is designed for 14, 16, 18, and 20 inch dolls.

Style No. 2763 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large in adult and children's sizes.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is nothing quite so pleasant as to see an opponent blown up with the very bomb he was trying to plant under your chair. [Of course, this is figurative, since I would not want to appear so bloodthirsty.] South had that rare pleasure in the hand below, when West, instead of adopting a perfectly sound defense, foolishly became "fancy" and succeeded in outsmarting only himself.

4 clubs	4 no trump	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

South obviously took the bit in his teeth, after North's take-out double, and continued to bid no trump as tho he had six or eight solid tricks in his hand. If the result is the best criterion, however, he was right!

West opened the jack of clubs, East encouraging with the eight spot, and declarer winning with the king. Declarer then cashed the ace of spades and six diamond tricks, to West's acute discomfort. Faced by the necessity of discarding five times on the diamonds, West first threw a heart, then a spade, then two clubs, and then he thought for a second. Apparently, he could not afford to discard another club, for then he would be put in with the club ace or spade king to cash three tricks in the black suits, after which he would have to lead away from his king of hearts.

Having made this superficial analysis, West blanked the king of hearts, hoping that South would take the heart finesse, but South had been paying careful attention to the bidding and had marked the king of hearts in the West hand. Realizing that the finesse was futile, and suspecting that West would be trying some such "monkey business," South banged down the ace of hearts and dropped the king. Instead of being set one at four no trump, declarer made five-odd.

West could easily have afforded to release another club. East's bidding indicated a holding of four clubs, and as long as West retained the ace and a low club, he could be sure of giving East entry, regardless of whether South's doubleton club had been the king-nine or king-queen.

Nov. 30, 1940.

Universal day—Keep busy. Make plans for the immediate days ahead.

December—Those who are ending an exciting one year should be ready to settle down to some hard work this month. Budget your time, energy and money. You probably have been experimenting around in the last few months, but you must establish yourself and your work. A working schedule, a system, an orderly routine are all to be worked out this month. Doesn't sound like a good time for the holidays, but you will have greater satisfaction at the end of the year if you have your house in order and your mind disciplined.

Year ahead—Enter quietly a year of duties that should be done with as little fanfare as possible. Partnerships stressed in 1941.

Don't Go Over Into No-Style Land; Reduce!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When a woman without a waistline announces she's going to stop looking at fashion pictures, you just know that, of all things that woman wants, is a waistline like those seen in fashion illustrations.

We don't know anything much more depressing than a shopping session in which gowns shown and best loved won't meet at the zippered waistline. That great wide gap which seam-letting-out won't cover, really ought to be a challenge instead of a resolution to fade out of the picture. If there's fullness in the skirt in front all around, or even if there's no fullness, zipping up the bulging side sends the hips jutting out even worse than before, and the frock all out of line.

Yes, it is a moment of dark realization that one has gone over the border into no-style land. But why stay over there where all dress line is a range of hills and lumps and bumps? Two months, three months given over to intelligent waist slimming and back you go into the charmed circle where indented waistlines in fashion pictures may be studied with satisfaction.

FENGER AND LEO PLAY TODAY FOR CITY TITLE

ARMY MEETS NAVY IN 50TH ANNIVERSARY BATTLE

CADETS IN TOP FORM; MIDDIES ARE FAVORITES

Colorful Ceremony to Precede Game.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP).—Navy was favorite by as much as 1 to 3 and Army simply a doggedly determined underdog tonight on the eve of the 50th anniversary game in their colorful football series. Philadelphia was in its customary holiday mood, which meant an impartial display of banners and an impartial increase in prices for everything from hot dogs to hotel rooms.

For the first time reputable ticket agencies were offering seats at only a slight charge above the $4.40 face value and prospective ticket buyers were fighting off scalpers instead of vice versa. Navy headquarters went so far as to announce that a small number of tickets would go on public sale tomorrow. This is due to the fact that military orders that don't include leaves are keeping many army and navy men at their posts.

Navy's Record Impressive.

But at kickoff time—12:30 p. m. Chicago time tomorrow—the setting promises to be the same as usual, with all 102,000 seats probably sold for the fifth successive meeting in the Municipal stadium.

The odds on Navy are considerably stronger than they have been in the last five years. Chiefly responsible for this is Army's failure to win a major game since it beat Navy in 1938, and its poor showing this fall in gaining only a one point triumph over Williams and a tie with Harvard in eight starts.

Navy, on the other hand, raced thru its first five games before running into lickings by Penn and Notre Dame—in both of which it had the statistical edge—and a scoreless tie with Columbia.

Navy will have a weight advantage in line and back field—191 to Army's 183 from end to end, and 177 to 168 in the back field, where the Army average is hauled down by 154 pound Roy Johnson of Wyoming, O.

They'll Maneuver Together.

Two side attractions will help the teams celebrate the 50th anniversary of the rivalry. As guests in the stands will be five Navy men and one Army man who played in the first game in 1890, while before the game the 1,800 man cadet corps and the regiment of 2,200 midshipmen will break all precedent by parading onto the field and then going thru maneuvers together.

Heading the list of dignitaries will be Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Assistant Secretary Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Assistant Secretary Compton.

Philadelphia police will use a radio equipped autogyro tomorrow as a "bird dog" to point traffic snarls on the routes to and from the game. To facilitate movement of the crowd four lane Broad street, the city's principal artery, will be restricted to one way traffic before and after the game. Lineups:

JURGES FEARED THRU AS RESULT OF BLOW ON EAR

New York, Nov. 29 [Special].—The possibility that Billy Jurges' career is ended became stronger today when it was learned that a physical examination during the week revealed that the New York Giant shortstop still is suffering from recurrent dizzy spells. Billy, who is recuperating in Florida, was examined by a physician for a life insurance company after he made a claim for total disability. Altho his condition is improving, Jurges still suffers dizziness on exertion and occasional spells on arising from a prone position.

He attributes this definitely to the accidental blow on his left ear from a ball pitched by Bucky Walters of Cincinnati in the Polo grounds June 23. There is damage to the semicircular canals of the left ear, but it wasn't indicated by the examination whether an operation would be beneficial.

Billy is deaf now in the left ear. He can hear only spoken sounds close to the appendage. Whispers and the tick of a watch are not audible.

ALL-STARS BEAT PROS, 44 TO 42, IN OVERTIME

Stan Szukala's Field Goal Whips Globe Trotters.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Stan Szukala, Chicago's own All-Star basketball guard from De Paul university, brought the collegians an overtime victory last night in the Stadium. With the score deadlocked, Szukala broke down the side of the court, turned and flipped the ball thru the net from the deep corner for the goal that whipped the Harlem Globe Trotters, National Professional league champions, 44 to 42.

Long before this, the crowd, officially announced as 20,583, cheered itself hoarse as the teams battled thru the regulation 40 minutes with the score tied eight times. That eighth tie cut short the crowd's applause for Ralph Vaughn's brilliant one hand field goal. With less than 20 seconds of the second half remaining Vaughn's goal gave the collegians a 39 to 37 lead. But the game was saved momentarily for the Globe Trotters by Bernie Price.

Scores from Midcourt.

From midcourt Price dropped the ball thru the net and before it was recovered the gun ended the playing time. Then came the rousing finish.

Vaughn was called for holding and Sonny Boswell made the penalty shot. With this lever, the pro champions moved cautiously, looking for a set shot. That chance didn't come for Vaughn took the ball on a pass from Bob Carpenter, who had intercepted, and he duplicated his former effort. The All-Stars led 41 to 40.

Strong Fouls Prasse.

One minute later Strong fouled Erwin Prasse of Iowa, and Prasse elcted to try the shot from the foul line rather than keep possession by an out of bounds as he might have done. Prasse coolly tossed the point. It was well he did for with two minutes of the overtime remaining Lou Pressley made his sixth field goal, a long shot from far out. In the closing seconds came Szukala's winning field goal.

The All-Stars opened the scoring on Prasse's consecutive free throws and led at the end of the first quarter, 13 to 11. After the Trotters had made one point, the All-Stars ran up a lead of 18 to 12, the biggest margin of the evening. Then, however, the professionals rallied. With Pressley scoring five of the points they went into the lead, 19 to 18. Almost at once Bill McDonald of Marquette, followed up to give the collegians a 20 to 19 advantage. Just before the end of the half Strong's penalty shot tied the count.

Tied at 24 to 24.

The rivals traded field goals in the second half until the score was 24 to 24. Then two field goals by Boswell started the Globe Trotters on what many thought was their victory drive. But after trailing, 30 to 25, the All-Stars tied the count and no more than two points separated the teams thereafter.

In a preliminary game the Oshkosh, Wis., Stars defeated the Chicago Bruins, 31 to 24. The game did not count in the National Professional league standings. Lineups:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 29.—Jack Dempsey, who recently was in San Francisco to referee a wrestling match, dropped into Lefty O'Doul's cocktail emporium for a visit, but O'Doul was paying a courtesy call at the night spot of Johnny Schiechl, Santa Clara center who was a member of the 1940 College All-Star football squad. . . . Schiechl was at Fisherman's wharf dining in Joe DiMaggio's grotto. . . . And where was DiMag? . . . Why, at the St. Francis celebrating his first wedding anniversary. . . . St. Mary's and Santa Clara netted $15,000 on rain insurance a week ago Sunday and now ticket holders for the Stanford-California "Big Game" at Berkeley tomorrow are insuring their ducats against a shower at four bits a copy. . . . Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, please note. . . . Lest there be the slightest confusion, a whisky sour does not make a stomach sweet. . . . There's one part of the Notre Dame-Iowa movies which Coach Eddie Anderson of the Hawkeyes says is useless to see. . . . That's the point where Full Back Bill Green, after fumbling an Irish kick, saw it bounce into four oncoming Notre Dame tacklers, yet he moved in so rapidly he recovered for Iowa. . . . "There's no sense in looking at that part of the film," Anderson explains, "because Bill went in there so fast all you get is a blur." . . . The Irish have one thing to be grateful for, anyway. . . . They'll have to play against Don Clawson and Alf Bauman of Northwestern only one more year. . . . Eddie Brannick, New York Giants secretary, who for many years had toured Europe in October and November, settled this year for bombless Florida. . . . The drawing power of Tom Harmon and his mates is reflected in Michigan's attendance statistics for the season. . . . The 73,649 who watched the Wolverines rout Ohio State last Saturday boosted the season's total to 449,756, which betters the old record of 416,674, set in 1927.

Add star basketball players who became outstanding football ends: Jitterbug Henderson of Texas A. & M. . . . Henderson never had played a football game until he joined the Aggies. . . . The 6 foot 4 inch Houston boy caught eight consecutive passes in the Rice game for a total of 117 yards. . . . Howard Jones says he never has had such ill luck in losing key players from his Southern California eleven as he has had this fall. . . . The Trojans had five running guards when the season opened and in their recent game with Washington not one was available. . . . Floyd Phillips was incapacitated by a broken leg; Ron Thomas came down with the flu two days before the game; Duane Maley was out with a dislocated shoulder; Bill Seixas was on the sidelines with a sprained knee and John Pranevicius was en route to Chicago to the bedside of his sick mother. . . . Carl Benson, utility lineman, played the entire game after only one day of practice at a position which usually takes a month to learn. . . . Note to Jimmy: "Let me know if the Chicago C. Y. O. has any fighters who look like potential Golden Gloves champions."

My Christmas Card List.

A look at my list of Christmas cheer,
The last time I looked it was just a year.
A year full of changes, the happy, the sad,
Days pass so swiftly with good and with bad.
To my list I'll add names of new friends made this year
And I'll send cards of joy to all those I hold dear.
Some of the old names no longer appear
And in memory of friendship I'll pause for a tear.
A card would not reach them, they've passed over there,
So in place of a message I'll just send a prayer. —F. X. B.

Speaking Out.

Michigan football partisans squawked after the Minnesota game that the rain slowed Harmon, overlooking the probability that it rained on Minnesota, too, likewise slowing Smith and Franck. In a steady rain at Columbus Michigan did not seem to be seriously handicapped in its 40 to 0 victory over Ohio State and Harmon played the best game of his career. Some sports writers stated that the rain actually helped him. Maybe Wolverine supporters will contend that it was a wetter rain at Minneapolis. —George Borrowman.

Referee—Mickey Ion. Linesman—C. R. McVeigh.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings did something tonight they couldn't do in eight attempts last season—beat the Chicago Blackhawks in a National Hockey league game.

The Red Wings did it tonight before 5,203, smallest crowd of the season, and took a four point lead over the Chicagoans in the race for second place in the league standings.

The defeat was a costly one for the Hawks, as Mush March, veteran forward, went out of action with an injury to his right leg, which was later diagnosed by Dr. C. L. Tomsu, Red Wing physician, as a possible fracture. March will be taken to a Chicago hospital. Eddie Wares of the Wings received a possible wrist fracture, Dr. Tomsu said.

Dahlstrom Gets Hawk Score.

Detroit piled up a 3 to 0 lead, with a goal in each period, before Cully Dahlstrom conected on a power play, Joe Cooper and Johnny Chad receiving assists.

The Red Wings' first goal in the opening period was counted by Rookie Joe Carveth, who beat Goalie Paul Goodman from close in after taking a double relay from Ebbie Goodfellow and Archie Wilder. The second goal came half way thru the second period when Sid Abel sent a shot whistling past Goodman. Art Herchenstratter and Jimmy Orlando drew assists on the play.

Wings on Rampage.

With the Hawks short handed in the third period after George Allen had been sent to the penalty box for cross checking, the Wings scored for the third time. Goodfellow worked his way in close, aided by some nice passing by Syd Howe and Gus Giesebrecht, and fired another one into the cage. Howe and Giesebrecht received assists.

The victory marked the seventh straight game Detroit has gone without defeat. The Wings have not been beaten since they lost their second game of the season in Toronto.

Orange Bowl Gets Penn, Declares Orlando Paper

Orlando, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP).—The Orlando Morning Sentinel says the eastern team for the Orange bowl game in Miami Jan. 1 already has been selected, with Pennsylvania the probable choice. The paper also says it has learned that the southern bid definitely will go to the winner of tomorrow's game between Alabama and Mississippi State. The Sentinel says announcement of both contestants probably will be made tomorrow night.

DATES ARE SET FOR C.W.D.G.A. TITLE TOURNEY

The championship of the Chicago Women's District Golf association for 1941 will be decided the week of July 21 over the No. 1 course of the Olympia Fields Country club, according to announcement made yesterday by Mrs. Frank P. Hammond of Olympia.

Mrs. Hammond also said the association would sponsor a materfilia tournament, a one day event to be held on July 16 at the Lake Shore Country club. The only requirement for entrance will be that either mother or daughter shall be a member of the C. W. D. G. A., and that they shall have properly accredited handicaps. There will be no entry fee. Mrs. Andrew D. Collins of North Shore, president of the association, will present the championship trophy, to be held by the winning team for one year.

Wisconsin Varsity Wins from Freshmen, 41 to 24

Madison, Wis., Nov. 29 [Special].—Gene Englund, veteran center, scored 18 points tonight as the University of Wisconsin varsity opened its basketball season with a 41 to 24 victory over the freshman squad. Johnny Kotz, sophomore forward from Rhinelander, Wis., trailed Englund with nine points. Hugh Janssen led the frosh with eight points.

Conn Whips Lee Savold in Slow Battle

New York, Nov. 29 [Special].—Billy Conn, light heavyweight champion, won and lost in the ring tonight in Madison Square Garden. He won his 12 round nontitle battle against cumbersome Lee Savold, Des Moines, Ia., heavyweight, but he lost prestige as a likely suitable opponent for the heavyweight champion, Joe Louis.

For most of 12 rounds Conn did everything to Savold but knock him out—once again emphasizing his own shortcoming, his weakness as a hitter.

Conn slugged to capacity, putting everything he had into punches with which he hoped to bring down Savold; but he not only failed to knock out his game opponent—he failed even to make Savold take a backward step.

Speed, Timing Off.

In the matter of speed, too, Conn was decisively off form. At times he floundered and frequently he left himself open to attack, thru carelessness or after missing in a disorganized flurry of blows. In the 12th round Conn was penalized by Referee Arthur Donovan for an erratic left to the body which was low and foul. Otherwise, Conn might have won 11 of the 12 rounds.

As it was, the light heavyweight champion, to the complete satisfaction of 12,750 fans who paid gross receipts of $31,170, still rather convincingly managed to add Savold's name to the lengthening but unimposing list of heavyweights over whom he has triumphed.

Conn entered the ring as a 1 to 6 shot in the betting.

Wins Ten Rounds.

Savold won the 11th round when he threw caution to the winds and waded into Conn with rights and left hooks. But none really hurt Conn, who came on to hammer Savold thru the 12th, only to lose it because of the foul. The 10 to 2 round verdict for Conn was unanimous among Referee Donovan and Judges Billy [Kid] McPartland and Bill Healy.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Leo and Fenger, Catholic and Public School league representatives for the 1940 season, have tossed away their snow suits and this afternoon will don football regalia to meet in Soldiers' field at 1:30 o'clock in the seventh annual All-City prep championship game under the auspices of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit fund. Eighty thousand are expected to watch the battle between the undefeated elevens if the weather man keeps his promise of moderate temperatures.

The attendance may reach a higher figure if the temperature rises. Altho approximately 80,000 tickets have been sold, thousands more will be available at the Soldiers' field ticket booths today. Secretary Barnet Hodes of the benefit fund announced yesterday that the receipts will total $100,000. Proceeds will be used to purchase clothing and shoes for Chicago's underprivileged children.

Speedsters Need Dry Field.

The weather prediction was welcomed by the fleet ball carriers on both teams and by the 1,400 musicians who like to have firm footing themselves for the indispensable parades. There will be entertainment before the game at 1 o'clock and between the halves. Five R. O. T. C. bands will participate in the pregame ceremonies, while at the intermission 13 bands will play in a flag raising event under the direction of Oscar W. Anderson.

Beauty queens have been selected to represent the schools. Ellen Van Dyke was chosen as Fenger's queen. Leo's selection was Betty Collins of Mercy High school. Lindblom, which held Fenger to a scoreless tie last Saturday, will be represented by Mary Tatoole. De Paul, beaten by Leo in the Catholic league finals last Sunday, will have Gerry King of Mercy as its queen. Football captains of all schools in the league also will join in the procession.

Just Forget the Records.

Season records mean little when the winners of the two leagues are brought together. However, the statistics do offer an interesting study. Fenger possesses one of the best records ever achieved by a prep team in the Chicago district. The far south siders, unbeaten but tied four times in 36 games, this season have scored 464 points in 12 games. Altho it was stopped by Lindblom last week, Fenger still is the highest scoring team in the state.

Leo has engaged in 10 games this season, winning nine and playing a 6 to 6 tie with De La Salle. The Lions' scoring record is far below Fenger's, but they have shown brilliant defensive power. Only three opponents were able to score on the Catholic league champions, one touchdown each being registered by De La Salle, De Paul, and Morton of Cicero, and all three were accomplished on passes. Few teams were able to penetrate the Leo 169 pound line for long gains.

All Fenger Backs Can Run.

Fenger, which has a line averaging 191 pounds, also boasts four back field men capable of breaking loose for touchdown runs. The head man of the quartet is Ray Florek, 182 pound full back. Then there is Henry Stevenson, quarter back; Joe Kredens, left half back, and Bruno Pocius, right half. However, Coach Chuck Palmer said the condition of the field would decide whether Stevenson or Wayne Bridge would start at quarter back against the Lions.

Leo, which failed to register a victory in three previous appearances in the interleague series, has small but clever backs. Henry [Babe] Baranowski, 150 pound quarter back, has slipped thru the hands of big Catholic league tackles all season. Baranowski's mates in the back field will be Tom McDonald, left half back, Bob Kelly; sophomore full back, and Bob Richter, 145 pound right half, the only senior in the quartet.

ANNUAL CHICAGO HORSE SHOW TO OPEN TONIGHT

Nine Events Are Listed on First Program.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The International horse show, one of the most popular spectacles of Chicago's indoor sport season, will open tonight with a program of nine events for Illinois exhibitors. Interspersed among the contests for saddle horses, harness ponies, hunters, and jumpers will be numerous features which proved highly entertaining to the crowds which jammed the International amphitheater in other years.

Tonight's program will give a line on what horsemen of Chicago and its suburbs can expect later in the show when they send their representatives out to compete in the important stakes against rivals from the 17 states included in the entries.

Star Young Saddle Horses.

Irving Florsheim, whose Red Top farm took many ribbons in last season's show, has two young saddle horses which are expected to figure prominently. One of these is Hurricane, a five gaited bay gelding which has been beaten only by the famous Midnight Star this season. The other is America Beautiful, a three gaited chestnut mare which is undefeated this year. Both of these are comparative youngsters as show horses go, being only 5 years old. Their owner, whose farm is located near Libertyville, believes they have an excellent chance to defeat their more experienced rivals.

Austin Selz of Crystal Lake has two good ones—Marellbar Chief and The One Rose, which will compete in the five gaited and three gaited classes, respectively.

H. Leslie Atlass of Wheaton will send out his 9 year old five gaited chestnut gelding, High Tide, which has performed with consistent success in the last two seasons. In the three gaited division he will have Royal Jester.

Nation-Wide Entries.

In the course of the show which runs nightly thru next Saturday with matinée on Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, and on the final Saturday afternoon, horses from coast to coast will make their appearance. Those who like the sleek, smooth stepping hackney ponies will look with particular interest at two representatives from Belbrook farm of San Diego, Cal. These are Killearn Beauty and Harvieston Elva, which have been making a sweep in Pacific coast competition. It will be their first appearance in the International show.

If they are to keep up their winning streak, these California ponies must beat some good ones such as Superlative, which will represent Melville Rothschild's Nan-Su farm near Northbrook. The Heyl Pony farm of Washington, Ill., will depend primarily on Fleetwood Snowstorm. Miss Judy King of Atlanta will exhibit a particularly capable performer called Lincroft Croquette.

SKIDMORE DRAFT HORSE AUCTION BRINGS $17,400

Fifty-eight draft horses owned by William R. [Billy] Skidmore were sold at auction yesterday in Dexter Park Pavilion in the Union stock yards. The consignment of 42 percherons and 16 Suffol...Punches brought a total of $17,4000. The sale was conducted by Harry McNair.

The horses brought an average of $300 each, the lowest price being $60 and the highest $775. The Audrey farm of Brewster, N. Y., made the $775 bid for Miss Horticultural, which was grand champion mare in this year's national percheron show.

The proceeds of the auction were withheld from Skidmore pending the settlement of his income tax difficulties.

Three Records Shattered in Weight Lifting Meet

The Chicago Weight Lifting club defeated the West End Physical Education club in a weight lifting contest last night, 3,215 to 3,150. Frank Kay of the winning team, the 181 pound champion, pressed 260 pounds and snatched 260 to better the records in both events by 5 pounds. Len Weiner of the same club snatched 230 pounds to better the record by 5 pounds in the heavyweight class.

FANCIERS PAY HOMAGE TODAY TO SHOW DOG

Western Specialty Event Opens in Coliseum.

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicago pays homage to pure bred dogs this morning when the Western Specialty Clubs association dog show opens in the Coliseum. Valuable show specimens from many of the most famous kennels in the country are entered in this popular bench event in which 1,234 dogs will compete.

At 10 o'clock this morning the judging of schipperkes, Pomeranians, cocker spaniels, and German shepherds [obedience classes] officially will launch this 30th annual specialty show. The event continues thru tomorrow evening with a program which includes judging by breed experts, obedience tests, children's handling classes and other attractions. Handling classes for boys and girls, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, are scheduled for 5:30 p. m. today. Valuable trophies and dog pins will be awarded by this newspaper to the boys and girls who win. No entry fee is required. Radio station W-G-N will present a special broadcast from the judging rings from 5:15 to 5:30 p. m. today.

Chicagoland Well Represented.

Chicagoland kennels have mustered an imposing group of prize winning dogs and young hopefuls to compete with scores of well known canines coming from southern, eastern and western kennels. In addition to dogs which they have entered in competition, some kennels also are putting a number of their well known champions on exhibition.

One of the most unusual entries by a Chicagoland kennel is a group of four champion Pomeranians owned by Helen Nowicki, who is one of the judges of the children's handling classes.

Program at 8 o'Clock Tonight.

Judging this afternoon brings into the ring several of America's most popular breeds. Starting at 2 p. m. the following breeds will be looked over by the judges: Scottish terriers, airedale terriers, Doberman pinschers [male], Pekingese, standard schnauzers, Irish setters [males], great Danes, and dachshunde.

Tonight's program, which starts at 8 o'clock, features judging of springer spaniels, Irish setters [females and best of breed], chows, and bullterriers, and the open and utility classes in the German shepherd obedience tests.

3 Teams Win in Suburban Prep League

The Oak Park, Waukegan and Evanston heavyweight basketball teams last night won their opening games in the Suburban High School league. Oak Park won from Morton, 23 to 22; Evanston defeated New Trier, 26 to 23, and Waukegan triumphed over Proviso, 34 to 32.

Two overtime games featured the league's lightweight schedule. Morton whipped Oak Park, 18 to 17, and Proviso defeated Waukegan, 26 to 24, in extra periods. In the other contest, Evanston eked out a 20 to 19 victory over New Trier.

Hinsdale, York and Riverside were the opening winners in the West Suburban conference heavyweight race. Hinsdale beat Downers Grove, 25 to 14; York handed Glenbard a 29 to 21 setback and Riverside won from Maine, 35 to 15. Lineups:

Starting Time—4 p. m. [Chicago time].

Berkeley, Cal., Nov. 29 [Special].—The last thrilling chapter in the astonishing success story of the Stanford Indians will be told in their annual game with the California Bears in Memorial stadium tomorrow.

The sequel, if any, will have as its locale the Pasadena Rose bowl New Year's day.

A spectacle of the rags to riches Stanford warriors, undefeated and untied in eight games this fall, in combat with a recently rejuvenated California eleven has the entire bay area populace in a dither and some 82,400 will be sitting in on the 46th game of the series, which dates back to 1892.

Gamblers Like Stanford.

Stanford is picked, by large odds, to defeat California and thus achieve a perfect season's record, win the Pacific Coast conference championship, and establish undisputed right to represent the west in the Rose bowl.

A victory for California would be an upset, yet it can happen and if it does the Pasadena plum may be snatched from Stanford's grasp by Washington's Huskies.

Briefly, the contest shapes up as a test between the Indians' team speed produced from the deceptive "T" formation employed by Coach Clark Shaughnessy and California's fierce driving power; the matching of Frankie Albert's field generalship and passing plus big Norman Standlee's powerhouse plunging with the breakaway threats of California's Orville Hatcher and Jim Jurkovich, and a punting duel between Albert and Bob Reinhard.

Indians Rely on Speed.

Team speed is the sole reason for the Indians' success this year. Stanford is a team with only one weakness, a poor defense against passes. California, until recent games, showed the same failing. California's chances of victory rest in its ability to rush Albert and nullify his passes but to upset the Indians the Bears must prove up better in a line notoriously weak at the ends.

Platak, Jensen Reach Handball Semi-Finals

Joe Platak and Herb Jensen, defending Central A. A. U. handball champions, last night advanced to the semifinals of the annual tournament in the Midwest Athletic club. They defeated Eddie Piotter and Charles Ravas, 21-7, 21-7. Other results:

Bob Quinn and John Stenson, Midwest A. C., defeated Harold Gradaman and Dave Sparr, Midwest A. C., 21-16, 21-8.

Ray Lasar and Eddie Carroll, Midwest A. C., defeated Russell Siske and Richard Johnson, 111th street Y. M. C. A., 21-7, 21-16.

Look Out, Cards! Those Bears Just Have to Win Tomorrow

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Chicago's 1940 football season comes to a close tomorrow in Wrigley field, where the Bears meet the Cardinals. After tomorrow Chicago must take its final helpings of the sport thru the news columns and loud speakers.

Ray Nolting.

George Wilson.

Appropriately enough, the last act of the annual gridiron pageant is a climactic championship struggle. On the outcome of tomorrow's game hinges the Bears' chance of winning an uncontested division title. Victory over the Cardinals will make it impossible for Green Bay to force a playoff for the right to compete in the National league championship game.

Cards Are Unpredictable.

It has been an intensely interesting season for Chicago, both professional and collegiate, with the Bears presenting one of the finest teams in pro history, Northwestern giving the city one of the outstanding elevens in the country and the Cardinals providing something new and novel in the way of unpredictability.

The Bears, as usual, enter tomorrow's contest as the favorite. Their tremendous possibilities because of a personnel which is matched only by the All-Star squads THE TRIBUNE assembles each August, give the Bears an edge in every game they play. Public opinion leans toward the Bears because of the excellent rookies Coach George Halas was able to sign last summer.

But for all the McAfees, Turners, Artoes, and Clarks, Halas ferreted out of the last graduating class, it has been the old men, veterans who long since have been taken for granted by Chicago fans, who have been responsible for the club's progress down thru the last three months.

Veterans Show Class.

Without Joe Stydahar, Danny Fortmann, Ray Nolting, Dick Plasman, George Wilson, Sid Luckman and a half a dozen other old timers all the rookies in the league would not have been able to remain in a contending position against such rivals as Green Bay, Detroit, and Cleveland.

Two of the most underrated members of the Bear ensemble, perhaps, are Nolting and Wilson. They are the type of players who go on game after game doing the workmanlike job that keeps a team together. Fortmann and Stydahar have been a little more fortunate. Their job repeatedly during each game brings them to the public's attention, but Nolting and Wilson have plied their trade along lines that attract the attention only of coaches and scouts.

Nolting is the workhorse type. He has played most of every game, carrying the ball 67 times and gaining 325 yards. This is an average of 4.8 yards an attempt. Defensively Nolting has been one of the Bears' outstanding backs, despite his size. He stands 5 feet 11 and weighs 185 pounds, which makes him practically a dwarf among his teammates. But he has the sinews of Nagurski and the heart of a lion, and when Halas scans the draft possibilities every year he looks first for something approximating the former Cincinnati university star.

Wilson Is Versatile.

Wilson is an all-purpose end. He catches passes, altho the Bear attack usually has other men in the receiving position. He plays either end, and none of the quarter backs hesitate about calling plays around his way when the Bears need a yard or two. Wilson can clear the way effectively. Perhaps the only thing he fails at is attracting attention.

DOUBLE HEADER TONIGHT OPENS IRISH SCHEDULE

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 29 [Special].—Two Chicago boys, Capt. Eddie Riska, forward, and Guard Larry Ryan will be in the starting lineup when Notre Dame opens its basketball season tomorrow night against Monmouth college and Kalamazoo college in a double header.

Coach George Keogan, beginning his 18th season, named Frank Quinn, Indianapolis, Ind., junior, to start at center tho Charles Butler, Chicago, is expected to see considerable action. George Sobek, Hammond, Ind., forward, has recovered from injuries and will play. Bob Smith, Joliet, Ill., will get the other starting assignment.

ILLINI MEET FROSH

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 29 [Special].—University of Illinois varsity basketball players will meet the freshmen tomorrow afternoon in their annual game.

Capt. Johnny Drish probably will be on the bench because of an injured shoulder. Bill Hocking or Hal Shapiro are slated for Drish's forward post. Bob O'Neill will relieve Art Mathisen, sophomore, at center and Vic Wukovits will share a guard job with Bob Richmand.

The first year lineup will include several players of prominence in high school competition. These include: Andy Phillip and Ken Parker, Granite City; Chuck Fowler, Watseka; Ken Menke, Dundee; Gail Vance, Clinton; Jack Smiley, Waterman; Ed Parker, Morton High, Cicero; Charles Grupp, Bloom Township High; Chicago Heights; Daryl Robb, Salem; Jack Larson, Sioux City, Ia., and Max Major, Mason City, Ia. Soccer Games Postponed Week Because of Snow

The game between the Sparta-Ogden Dairy and Slovak soccer teams scheduled for tomorrow in the third round of the National Challenge Soccer tournament has been postponed one week until Sunday, Dec. 8, it was announced last night. The International Soccer league also called off all league games scheduled for tomorrow. The postponements were due to weather conditions.

CALL OFF PRO GAME.

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 29 [Special].—The game scheduled for Sunday between the Kenosha Cardinals and the Columbus, O., Bullies, 1940 American Pro league champions, has been called off because of snow.

MARQUETTE AND ARIZONA CLASH IN SEASON FINAL

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 29 [Special].—Marquette and Arizona, two offense-minded football teams, will wind up their seasons here tomorrow afternoon in an intersectional game that may prove to be of the wide open, high scoring variety.

The contest will mark the final appearance of Paddy Driscoll of Chicago as the Marquette coach. Game Capt. Ted Tunis of the Hilltoppers said today he and his mates are exceptionally anxious to win this one for Driscoll, whose four year record at Marquette shows 10 victories, 18 defeats, and 1 tie.

Seven of the eight seniors here with the Hilltoppers' squad will be in tomorrow's starting lineup. They are Bob Sieske and Don Vosberg, ends; Capt. Tunis and Bob Kemnitz, guards; Ray Apolskis, center; Bill Phillips, quarter back, and Steve Seskowski, full back. Al Klug, a sophomore, has been promoted to a tackle position. Lineups:

HESITANT STOCKS RALLY FEEBLY TO CLOSE IRREGULAR

Tax Problems and War Influence Market.

New York, Nov. 29 (AP).—Indecision continued to grip the stock market today, and, after an early feeble attempt at a rally, prices backed down to an irregular close.

Steels, aircrafts, motors, and shipbuilders were out in front with fractional advances in the forenoon but some of these faltered later and finished behind minus signs. Utilities were soft from the start, with Consolidated Edison and Public Service of New Jersey dipping to new bottoms for the year.

Dealings slack the greater part of the proceedings, picked up occasionally and transfers of 528,035 shares topped Thursday's volume of 472,440.

Report Two Market Barriers.

Principal market stumbling blocks cited by brokers included worries over tax problems and the position of England in the war.

Both United States Steel and Bethlehem ended slightly lower, altho it was believed next week's mill operations would hold at record high levels with shipments well below orders. General Motors clung to a modest gain but Chrysler was down a shade despite a rise in this week's automotive production to the highest mark for any week since midsummer of 1937. Merchandising stocks got nowhere notwithstanding a brisk upturn in this week's retail spending.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 29 (AP).—A group of railroad loans monopolized attention in today's bond market by advancing fractions to more than 2 points as the general list hovered close to Thursday's finals.

Buyers crowded early around trading posts, where obligations of the Erie railroad are dealt in and gave the various obligations of the bankrupt carrier a vigorous workout. The 5s of '75 ended ¼ higher at 17 on turnover of $290,000, par value; the general lien 4s rose 2⅛ at 38⅛ on sales of $168,000, and the two 4 per cent issues of '53 added more than 2 points Reorganization possibilities were said to have attracted the buying interest.

United States government loans ended 11/32 of a point lower to 6/32 higher.

ARMOUR PROFIT FOR YEAR PUT AT 8 MILLIONS

Estimate Sales Top $735,000,000.

Armour and Co. of Illinois, one of the "big three" in the meat packing industry, realized an estimated net income for the fiscal year ended Nov. 2 of approximately $8,000,000 before guaranteed dividends on preferred stock of Armour and Co. of Delaware, operating subsidiary, George A. Eastwood, president, announced yesterday.

In the fiscal year ended Oct. 28, 1939, the company's net profits totaled $7,012,057 before $3,746,890 in preferred dividends on subsidiary stocks. Eastwood estimated that total sales for the year were in excess of $735,000,000, compared with $715,318,910 in the preceding fiscal year.

Operating Profit Larger.

Operating earnings after taxes, he said would approximate $9,000,000. However, he added that "it is deemed desirable to provide a substantial reserve to cover a portion of our earnings in foreign countries on account of exchange restrictions and to deduct for losses incurred in the sale during the year of various nonoperating properties, leaving a probable net in excess of $8,000,000."

Eastwood attributed the gain in net income to a "more even flow of business during the 12 months and the consequent avoidance of heavy inventory accumulations with their accompanying carrying charges and risks." He said that larger pork supplies, which helped to keep plants operating steadily, figured in keeping down production costs. Armour & Co. has main offices in Chicago.

Pettibone Earnings R'se.

Pettibone Mulliken corporation, Chicago manufacturer of railroad equipment, reported a net profit of $66,354, or 61 cents a share, in six months ended Sept. 30, compared with $44,594, or 41 cents a share, in the corresponding period last year.

Emmett J. Fallon, president, said that unfilled orders, excluding armament orders, were about 25 per cent larger than in the comparable period in 1939. He said that armament orders, which have been received recently, total $3,800,000 at present. Most of these orders, he said, call for artillery material, with delivery scheduled before the end of 1941. The company also produces manganese and alloy steel castings.

ARGENTINE-U. S. TRADE CUT BY SHIP SHORTAGE

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 29 (AP).—A shortage of shipping space for northbound cargoes has created a serious crisis in Argentine-United States trade. Requests for space are far ahead of available bottoms.

Shipping men said today heavy cargoes of wool, linseed, canned meats, cheese, wines, vermouth, and other products had taken all space allotted until the end of February. There are several reasons for the shortage, it was said, including the requisitioning of various ships by the United States navy and the curtailment of coastal shipping by European boats.

In an effort to ease the situation the United States Chamber of Commerce of Argentina has cabled the maritime commission urging "drastic measures" be taken to open the shipping bottleneck because of the need for exports to create dollar exchange to pay for imports from the United States.

MAIN STATE BANK ADDS $50,000 TO SURPLUS CAPITAL

The directors of the Main State bank, 1965 Milwaukee avenue, have decided to transfer $50,000 from the undivided profits account to the surplus account, Elmer S. Aschermann, vice president and cashier, announced yesterday. This transfer will bring the bank's surplus to $300,000, he said.

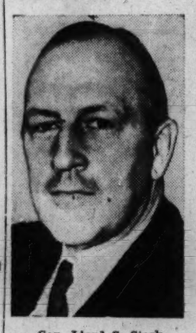
Aschermann also said that the bank recently had added several new departments to automobile loans, personal loans, and loans to finance contracts under the national defense program. The bank has a capital of $200,000.

Reminder—Two More Tax Payments Are Due Dec. 15

The Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday reminded business men that two tax payments are due on Dec. 15. These are the Illinois retailers' occupation tax return and payment for the November, and the fourth installment of the federal income and excess profits taxes.

Stark Assails State Barriers to Free Trade

Trade barriers set up by various states in this country constitute a major threat to national unity and an obstacle in the path of national prosperity, Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri told the Executives club at a luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Sherman.



Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

"Every trade barrier law which violates or circumvents the constitution by putting a tax on interstate commerce tends to destroy respect for the whole structure of law and order in this nation," he said. His theme was "Business and Government—Partners in National Defense."

Urges Keeping Trade Free.

"We are concentrating our energies on the defense of, first, our own nation, and second, the western hemisphere," Gov. Stark continued. "It is a big order, but business and government as partners can get it done. Business is ready to fill its rôle as a partner. Government has placed this program in the hands of private industry confidently and unhesitatingly."

He declared, however, that what he termed those "Chinese walls between states" which interfere with normal commercial intercourse must be wiped out if this nation is to comprise once again the largest free trade area in the world.

"The alternative to free trade within the United States is irritation of neighbor against neighbor, and eventually hatred between formerly good friends," Gov. Stark said.

Termed Cause of Wars.

"When a state or a nation stifles trade, it strikes at the pocketbook and at the market basket of its neighbor—and that, as we have seen so clearly in recent years, is the route to economic destruction and war.

"Barring our entry into war, the greatest danger to business, labor and all the people of the United States is interstate trade barriers. It was such barriers which created the many warring states of Europe. We do not want 48 Balkan states over here, competing and scrapping with each other. State barriers to trade are contrary at least to the spirit of the constitution of the United States, and must be broken down. We must go back to the idea of free trade that made us the greatest industrial nation in the world."

BOARD OF TRADE SOY BEAN TRADE PUT UNDER CEA

The department of agriculture yesterday designated the Chicago Board of Trade as a contract market authorized to conduct trading in futures in soy beans, lard, and cottonseed oil.

While the board has been carrying on trade in these commodities, the action was taken under a recent amendment to the commodity exchange act which, beginning Dec. 8, places trading in fats and oils under the regulation of that act. Only a slight change was made in the rules of the board to bring trading under the act, officials of the board said.

The New York Produce exchange was authorized to trade in cottonseed oil, soybean oil, and tallow, and the New Orleans Cotton exchange in cottonseed oil. Thru the commodity exchange administration, the commodity exchange act directs the department of agriculture to enforce "fair practices" in futures trading and to prevent price manipulation and excessive speculation.

Chicago Business Resumes Rise Over '39 During October

With only two indices declining, the Chicago business situation in general showed a considerable gain during October over the same month a year ago, the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday in its monthly survey. This upturn followed somewhat unsettled conditions in September, when a number of setbacks were reported.

One of the more significant improvements was seen in the building field, with the number of contracts awarded for construction projects in Cook county for the month topping the October total of last year by 50 per cent. Building permits, likewise, made a sharp gain.

Chicago bank clearings came close to equaling the all-time high, exceeding the record for the same month a year ago by 9 per cent. The new automobile models proved popular, with new car registrations moving ahead by 37 per cent. Factory employment was up 6 per cent, and actual pay rolls rose about 10 per cent.

Increases also were reported in department store sales, number of passengers leaving and arriving at the Chicago airport, passengers carried by the Chicago Surface Lines, electric power consumption, telephones in use, and output in the local steel district and at the stockyards.

A comparison of October, 1940, with October, 1939, follows:

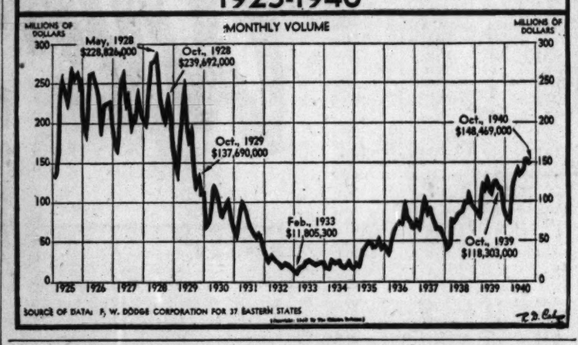
Contracts Awarded for Residential Building in the United States 1925-1940



Figures Show Large British Assets in U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29 (AP).—The treasury disclosed today that the British government spent $315,749,000 of its American capital assets to buy war supplies here during the first year of the war, and at the end still had at least $385,719,000 of cash on deposit in American banks.

These cash resources were exclusive of the gold held for British account. More than $4,000,000,000 worth was shipped to the United States from various parts of the empire in the first year of the conflict. The great bulk of this was British owned.

The figures on British cash holdings were contained in a treasury statement tabulated on the basis of monthly reports concerning the international movements of capital.

Possible Material for Inquiry.

The treasury report may provide material for the proposed senatorial surveys which hope to determine the extent of Britain's remaining assets in the United States before congress considers the question of extending financial aid.

While the British were spending their American assets—$157,321,000 of bank deposits and $158,428,000 of proceeds from the sales of American securities—most of the world was sending money here in unprecedented amounts for safekeeping.

Net capital inflow into the United States from bank deposits, purchases of American securities, and similar transactions, was $806,831,000 from Sept. 1, 1939, the time the war started, to Sept. 4, 1940, the nearest comparable date in the financial statistics. The total inflow was much larger, but the net figure was reduced by British withdrawals.

Deposits at New High.

At the end of the year total foreign bank deposits in this country—some of it normal commercial balances, but most of it staying here for refuge from the war—had reached the record breaking figure of $3,601,419,000.

The largest individual share of this belonged to France and its citizens, $515,191,000. This has been "frozen" by Presidential order. Switzerland was next with $476,388,000, and Canada was third with $395,894,000. Britain's $385,719,000 deposit figure was fourth.

No figures were given on the remaining security holdings of any countries, but notwithstanding the British and Canadian sales of nearly $35,000,000, foreign holdings of American securities actually increased due to purchases including $59,470,000 by Switzerland; $11,567,000 for Italy, and $10,038,000 for the Netherlands.

Britain Restricts Imports of Newsprint for 1941

LONDON, Nov. 29 [Special].—Importation of 200,000 tons of newsprint will be permitted in 1941 by the British government, it was announced today. This compares with 325,000 tons this year. It was explained there will be a newsprint surplus of 70,000 tons from this year.

BLOCKADE IS BIG BLOW TO ITALY, SAYS U. S. BUREAU

Farm Product Stocks Reported Low.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29 (AP).—A dark view of the economic outlook for Italy this winter because of the British blockade was taken today in an agriculture department report which said this was to be expected:

Almost total depletion of cotton reserves by the end of 1940.

Probable exhaustion of rubber, jute, and wool supplies soon thereafter.

Further food rationing which already limits the sale and serving of meat to two days a week, restricts servings of bread in restaurants, and prohibits sale of coffee to civilians.

Farm Product Reserves Small.

The study, prepared by Dr. N. William Hazen, on the basis of secret diplomatic reports, explained that Italy, presumably expecting an early end to the war, entered the current conflict with "little or no reserves" of vital agricultural products.

The British blockade, more than any other war factor, has disorganized the Italian economic structure, Dr. Hazen said. He explained that normally about 84 per cent of all Italian imports arrive by sea—80 per cent thru the Strait of Gibraltar, which Britain controls.

Cut Off by Blockade.

"The blockade has cut off all Italian imports of coffee and meats, 95 per cent of Italian purchases of fats and oils, and about 70 per cent of the normal imports of cereals," the study said. "Of the agricultural raw materials, rubber and jute are completely cut off, and 95 per cent of the normal imports of raw cotton and wool, and 75 per cent of hides and skins are unobtainable."

Illustrative of the shortage of cereals, Dr. Hazen reported: "Beginning Dec. 1 servings of spaghetti and rice in restaurants will be smaller."

Fats and oils are a greater problem. The ration of olive oil per person is one pint a month. Three-quarters of a pound a month of butter, lard, or suet is allowed.

WEEK'S OUTPUT OF AUTOS SETS NEW 1940 PEAK

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29 (AP).—Production of the automobile plants reached a new 1940 high mark this week, Ward's Reports, Inc., said today in estimating the output at 128,783 cars and trucks. Assemblies last week numbered 102,340. A year ago 93,638 vehicles were completed. This week's production has not been surpassed since midsummer of 1937.

With an output of approximately 500,000 units indicated for November, Ward's said, the industry has completed more than a million vehicles during the October-November period. There have been only three previous two month periods of this magnitude since 1929.

CHICAGO STORES' SALES TOP YEAR AGO 4.9 PER CENT

Chicago department store sales increased 4.9 per cent in the week ended Nov. 23 over the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago announced yesterday. Sales in the 7th [Chicago] reserve district were up 9.7 per cent, while sales for all 12 reserve districts averaged 9 per cent higher.

Mostly because the Thanksgiving holiday cut out a trading day during the week, sales in the 7th district declined 19 per cent from the total for the week ended Nov. 16. The increase in this district was 8.9 per cent for four weeks ended Nov. 23 over the comparable period in 1939.

MONEY, GOLD AND SILVER

The Canadian dollar declined ¼ of a cent to 86⅞ United States cents yesterday, while the Argentine peso eased .01 of a cent. The Hongkong and Shanghai dollars also were slightly lower. The free British pound was unchanged.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP).—Bar silver, 34¾c, unchanged.

NAVY CONTRACT FOR 6 CRUISERS GOES TO CRAMP

Long Idle Shipyard to Be Reopened.

The navy department yesterday awarded contracts to the Cramp Shipbuilding company, Philadelphia, Pa., calling for the construction of six cruisers at an estimated cost of $113,822,280. In addition, the navy let contracts for expansion of the company's plant at an estimated cost of $9,500,000. It has been idle since 1928.

Navy officials said the contract awards came after many months of negotiations between the navy and private interests involved towards reopening the plant for use in the current shipbuilding program. The contracts for the expansion of facilities covers the construction of additional shipways, cranes, outfitting piers, machine shops, pipe shops, and tools.

Completes Authorized Tonnage.

The contracts raised to 54 the number of cruisers now on order for the navy, which has 37 in commission. They completed, too, award of all authorized tonnage in the current cruiser program.

No details of the new cruisers were disclosed, and their probable delivery dates also were withheld.

The Cramp company announced that it had completed financial arrangements providing it with about $15,000,000 to reopen its shipyard. A group of 12 Philadelphia banks will lend it up to $12,000,000. The federal reserve bank of Philadelphia will provide a working capital loan of $2,500,000 in addition, and about $1,250,000 has been paid in for common stock capital.

Retooling of the yard will require about 18 months to complete. The company, however, hopes to lay its first keel by next August.

Navy Picks Gun Plant Site.

The navy department also announced the selection of a site on the Ohio river near Louisville, Ky., for a new $5,000,000 gun equipment plant. Employing approximately 1,000 skilled workers, the new plant will cover 135 acres. Production will include mounts, turret items, gun slides, recoil mechanism, breech housings, and breechblocks. The exact location of the plant was not disclosed.

The war department announced the award of a $3,561,168 contract for the construction of a replacement center at Galveston, Tex. The contract went to Wohlfeld-Dalton-Dellone, Dallas, Tex.

In other orders totaling nearly $4,000,000, the war department awarded a $1,027,000 contract for raincoats to the United States Rubber company, Mishawaka, Ind., and another to the Marathon Rubber Products company, Wausau, Wis., for rubberized raincoats, $430,835.

The American Car and Foundry company received a $1,020,262 contract from the navy for a supply of tank lighters.

CURTISS AIRPORT IN GLENVIEW TO GET ADDITIONS

Bids are being taken for permanent additions to the administration building and hangars at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport in Glenview, it was disclosed yesterday. Plans recently were completed by Architect Andrew N. Rebori, who designed most of the original buildings built in 1930.

The estimated cost will be approximately $170,000. The new units will include a paint spray and implement building, barracks for flyers, and a two story addition to one of the hangars.

The government purchased the airport land recently for $577,295. The navy has been a tenant since 1936. Naval air reserve base facilities there are to be expanded.

JUDGE REFUSES TO DISMISS SUIT AGAINST LLOYDS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29 (AP).—Circuit Judge L. E. Stone today overruled a motion to dismiss a suit filed by 17 insurance companies challenging the right of Lloyd's of London to underwrite insurance in Illinois.

Assistant Attorney General John B. Harris made the motion to dismiss the suit, contending that Lloyd's is permitted to sell insurance under provisions of the state insurance code. Judge Stone ordered Insurance Director C. Hayden Davis to produce the records concerning the operating license granted the English firm.

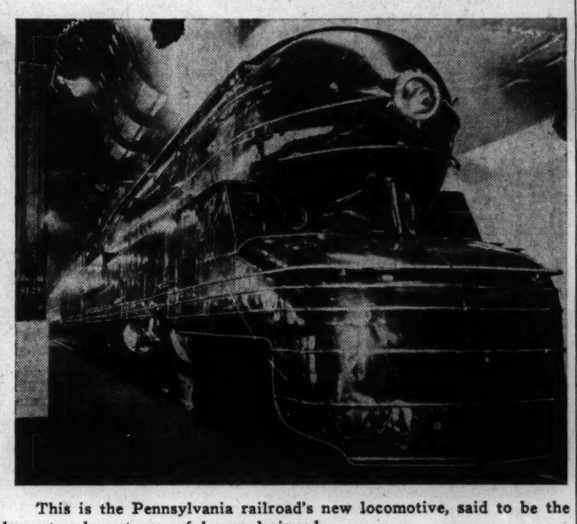
New Giant of the Rails



This is the Pennsylvania railroad's new locomotive, said to be the largest and most powerful ever designed.

Ford to Build Small, Speedy Armored Cars

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29 [Special].—Ford Motor company officials announced today that production would start in January on a "mosquito fleet" of high speed midget armored trucks for the United States army. The Ford plant will turn out 1,500 of the new trucks as part of the $2,012,700 army order that was announced in Washington Wednesday.

The new truck design was perfected at the Ford plant. Army officials described the trucks as "able to go anywhere and get there fast."

The highly mobile truck model was approved by army officials, subject to a few minor alterations, after tests by the quartermaster corps. It was designed to replace the motorcycle and side car for army reconnoissance work.

"Most Maneuverable Unit."

With a four-wheel drive and large wheels with cleated tires, the truck is regarded one of the most maneuverable motorized units in the army service.

The new truck will be 38 inches high at the cowl and have an overall length of 81 inches. It will weigh less than a ton and have a capacity to carry three men, a heavy all-angle machine gun, and a Thompson submachine gun for protection against airplanes and enemy infantry.

Motor specifications call for a 42 horsepower engine that is an adaptation of the Ford tractor motor. An auxiliary transmission and an auxiliary gear to control the front axle will give the truck six forward and two reverse speeds.

Carries Blackout Lamps.

Front and rear blackout lamps, invisible from the air and designed to permit the trucks to travel at night, will be part of the extra equipment. Instead of the standard radiator grill the trucks will carry a large brush guard that extends beyond the headlight.

The maximum speed on open roads will be 60 miles an hour and the cross-country speed will be about 40 miles an hour, army officials said.

Handles on the side of the trucks will permit the crew to lift the light trucks out of swamp holes or any other trap, it was said.

PENNSYLVANIA'S BIG LOCOMOTIVE SHOWN TO PUBLIC

About 6,000 persons yesterday inspected the Pennsylvania railroad's giant streamlined steam locomotive, No. 6100, which was on exhibition at the Union station. It will pull the "General" between Chicago and Crestline, O.

Described as "the largest, fastest, and most powerful passenger locomotive ever designed," No. 6100 has an over all length of 140 feet 2½ inches from coupler to coupler, or nearly 50 feet longer than an ordinary engine. It is 15 feet 6 inches high. It is said to be capable of pulling a 14 car passenger train of 1,400 tons at 100 miles an hour.

No. 6100 weighs 1,060,010 pounds. Its tender carries about 25,000 gallons of water and 26 tons of coal. It develops 6,400 horse power. The big engine has a "6-4-4-6" wheel arrangement—that is, it has a six wheel front truck, eight driving wheels, and a six wheel trailer truck. The two tender trucks have eight wheels each.

M'DONALD GIVES UP FHA JOB FOR PRIVATE POST

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29 (AP).—Stewart McDonald resigned today as federal housing administrator to return to private business, but accepted a payless post as deputy federal loan administrator to keep an eye on the housing agency.

President Roosevelt nominated as his successor Abner H. Ferguson, who has been general counsel and first assistant administrator of FHA. Ferguson now gets $12,500 a year, but will be cut to $10,000 on becoming administrator.

In his letter of resignation McDonald said that he would give nearly all of his time to his work as chairman of the Maryland Casualty company, in which the Reconstruction Finance corporation has a large investment, but as a federal loan official would return from Baltimore at least twice a week to supervise the FHA.

LIFT ASSESSED VALUE OF STOCK IN COUNTY 8.5%

Corporations to Pay Increased Taxes.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The 1940 capital stock assessment of corporations in Cook county was boosted 8.5 per cent over the 1939 figure to a total of $49,719,340. This was disclosed yesterday when the assessment list was delivered by the state tax commission to County Clerk Michael J. Flynn.

The 1939 capital stock assessment was $45,800,129. This year's valuation is the highest since 1937 and the second highest since 1934.

Tax commission officials said the increase for 1940 was more than accounted for by a far reaching decision of the State Supreme court last summer which required the commission to change basicly its rules for assessing property in Illinois.

Boost to Exceed Million.

The decision has the effect of raising taxes on property assessed by the commission in Cook county by more than 12 per cent over the taxes that would have applied to the same properties on the old basis. Cook county property valued by the commission includes railroads as well as the capital stock assessment and the annual tax increase in the county resulting from the court decision will exceed one million dollars, it is estimated. In some downstate counties, however, property assessed by the commission will be billed for smaller taxes as a result of the court ruling.

The "test" case which resulted in the change of assessing methods concerned the Mobile and Ohio railroad, which operates in St. Clair and six other downstate counties.

In recent years the tax commission, in making its assessments, has first computed in each county a so-called equalization factor—which is the percentage of assessed value to full value used by county assessors in valuing real estate and personal property. This percentage varies from 24 to 78 per cent in counties thruout Illinois.

Railroad's Appeal Upheld.

The commission then applied in each county to the properties it assessed the same percentage it found the county assessor was using.

In the case of the Mobile and Ohio, the assessed value for the seven counties averaged 53 per cent of full value, in accordance with percentages used by assessors in those counties.

The railroad contended, however, that the commission, instead of taking a separate ratio for each county, should apply the state-wide assessment ratio of about 35 per cent to full values, no matter in what county the property was located. This contention was upheld by the high court.

The ruling raised the assessment basis for the capital stock and rail-

EXTRA DIVIDENDS ARE VOTED BY FIVE MORE COMPANIES

Crane Company Will Make First 1940 Payment.

The year end tide of dividends, the largest since 1937, mounted yesterday with declarations of extras and specials by five more companies and of the first payments this year by four others.

Directors of Crane company, Chicago manufacturer of plumbing fixtures, valves, and other products, voted an interim dividend of 80 cents. The company last paid 60 cents on Dec. 20, 1939.

National Gypsum company, Buffalo, N. Y., authorized a dividend of 40 cents a share on common stock. The only previous disbursement was 25 cents on Dec. 22, 1939.

Vogt Votes Wage Dividend.

The first dividend in more than three years, amounting to 25 cents, was ordered on the common stock of Beaunit Mills, Inc., New York, which is engaged in the knitting, dyeing, and finishing of fabrics made of rayon yarn. The company paid 40 cents on Sept. 1, 1937. Chartered Investors, Inc., Paterson, N. J., announced a payment of 40 cents.

Directors of Vogt Manufacturing company, Rochester, N. Y., maker of automobile trimmings, voted an extra dividend of 40 cents a share on the common stock and wage dividends of 20 per cent of the previous three months' salaries for employés of 10 years' standing. Proportionate amounts will be paid to those of lesser length of service.

Directors of Montgomery Ward and company, Chicago, voted the usual dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, and the regular quarterly disbursement of $1.75 a share on class A stock.

20,000 BUILDERS TO GET JOBS ON DEFENSE WORKS

Speed U. S. Construction in Chicago Region.

Construction projects in the federal government's national defense program soon will provide jobs for more than 20,000 men in the Chicago region.

The projects, and the number of men to be employed at the peak of the building work, are:

The government powder plant to be built between Joliet and Wilmington in Will county—10,000.

New barracks at Camp Grant, at Rockford—9,000.

Buildings at Fort Sheridan—1,000.

Buildings at Great Lakes Naval Training station—500.

500 Work at Powder Plant.

The powder plant in Will county is to be erected at a cost of 25 to 40 million dollars. About 500 men are doing excavation and concrete work for the loading unit, in which shells will be loaded with explosives. This unit is being erected by the Sanderson & Porter Construction company of New York.

A second unit, for the manufacture of explosives, will be constructed by the Stone & Webster Engineering company of New York.

As the entire plant is to be built within 10 months, it is expected that most of the 10,000 men to be employed on the project will be hired within the next few weeks, after the preliminary work is finished.

Sixteen hundred men are already engaged in building the new barracks and other units at Camp Grant, according to George W. Griffiths, president of the Chicago firm of John Griffiths & Sons, contractors for the $4,250,000 enterprise.

May Use 9,000 in Three Weeks.

Griffiths said that almost 9,000 men will be at work within three weeks unless unfavorable weather delays construction, which is to be completed by March 1.

The Gerhardt F. Meyne Construction company of Chicago expects to begin construction of 156 buildings at Fort Sheridan Monday under a $1,075,000 contract. The buildings will include 63 new barracks to accommodate National Guard troops ordered into service, officers' quarters, administration buildings, kitchens and mess halls, and infirmaries.

A small number of men will be employed at first, but the peak of 1,000 probably will be reached within 60 days, according to Gerhardt F. Meyne, president. Work is to be completed in 90 days.

The Leonard Construction company already is at work on apartment buildings and other units at the Great Lakes Naval Training station which will ultimately give employment to 500 men. The total cost is estimated at $574,000.

'Abitibi Power's Asset Sale Hearing Postponed

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 29 (AP).—Hearing of an application by the Montreal Trust company for a second public sale of the assets of the Abitibi Power and Paper company was adjourned sine die by Justice W. E. Middleton today until after the results of a royal commission inquiry into the affairs of the bankrupt company have been made known.

SIMILAR NAMES.

Is there a Superior Oil corporation as well as the Superior Oil Company of California? If they are separate companies is there any connection between them? I desire a report on Superior Oil corporation.—V. R.

Answer: Superior Oil corporation, Tulsa, Okla., is an independent enterprise, not affiliated with Superior Oil Company of California. The former is a comparatively small producer of crude oil and natural gas. Its wells are located in Kansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Texas.

Recovery from last year's earnings slump was indicated by a sharp rise in net income in the first nine months this year to $125,056, equal to 9 cents a capital share. Net income in the corresponding period a year ago was $21,684, or 2 cents a share.

Crude oil output, net income, and earnings per share in recent years compared as follows:

	Crude oil [barrels].	Net income.	Earned per share.
1935	1,239,158	$244,624	$0.25
1936	1,108,561	147,895	0.14
1937	1,404,411	446,246	0.32
1938	1,498,917	332,579	0.24
1939	1,413,027	61,458	0.04

Capitalization of the company consists of $780,000 of funded debt, and 1,388,979 shares of $1 par capital stock listed on the New York and Philadelphia stock exchanges. Only two annual dividends have been paid on the stock: 10 cents a share in 1938 and $2 a share in 1920.

FREIGHT CARS.

What are the leading private companies which own freight cars used in railroad service?—C. B.

Answer: The five leading car owners [other than railroads themselves] and the approximate size of each fleet follow:

	Cars
Union Tank Car Co.	39,000
Pacific Fruit Express Co.	37,402
General Amer. Transportation Corp.	17,620
Fruit Growers Express Co.	14,354
Merchants Despatch Transport. Corp.	13,409

BOND YIELD.

What are the approximate current yield and yield to maturity on a 3½ per cent bond maturing in 1951 and selling at 101½?—R. H.

Answer: The current yield would be 3.45 per cent and the yield to maturity, 3.35 per cent. A formula for calculating bond yield may be obtained by sending a stamped, addressed envelope to the Investors' Guide.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Two carloads of steers rejected from the carlot exhibit of the live stock show sold on the market for slaughter yesterday at $16 a hundred-weight, which was $1 above the highest quotation for regular market cattle and a peak Chicago price since December, 1937. Most cattle on the market consisted of steers rejected by the weeding committee. Other classes were steady.

The hog market was just steady at the lowest prices in almost four months. Several loads reached the $6.10 top. The day's average was steady, at $6.

Slaughter lambs sold at mostly steady prices.

RAISE ASSESSED VALUE OF STOCKS IN COUNTY 8.5%

Corporations to Pay More Tax Under New Ruling.

road tax in Cook county from 31 to 35 per cent of full values.

Another Supreme court ruling this year partly offset the assessment boost resulting from the Mobile and Ohio decision. The court exempted from assessment shares of stock in companies incorporated outside Illinois but owning property in Illinois. Thus, corporations holding blocks of such shares had their assessments cut. The cut was small, however, in comparison with the increase resulting from the Mobile and Ohio ruling, tax commission officials said.

The capital stock assessment by the commission is an appraisal of the intangible or going value of the company. The value is computed by appraising the total value of the business and subtracting from this the value of real estate and personal property already assessed for tax purposes.

The total value is based on asset appraisals, capitalized earnings of the company, and prices of its stocks and bonds, when available. The commission assesses principally utility and service corporations. Other businesses are valued by the county assessor.

The chief factor in the large reduction of the Peoples Gas company's assessment was the dissolution of a large subsidiary, Natural Gas Investment company, which had large holdings of securities, tax officials said.

PLAN GENERAL TRANSPORTATION ORGANIZATION

Plans for establishing an American transportation society, which would include all fields of transportation, were discussed yesterday at a meeting of representatives in the Palmer House.

Stanley Berge, research manager of the Illinois Central system and chairman of the organizing committee, said that the society will seek "to provide a channel for dissemination of ideas for the improvement and coördination of all types of transportation contributing toward the public welfare." Chapters will be organized in the important cities.
